GOLD SALES. The Secretary of the Treasury, on being questioned on the subject, replied that he had no intention at present of selling gold, and that he did not expect selling gold, and that he did not expect to sell any while the premium was at the present figure. The impression at the Treasury is that it will go lower. This seems to be founded on the fact that United States bonds have advanced in Europe in consequence of the favorable exhibit of Secretary Boutwell's financial management, and that by the time there is a demand for the shipment of gold the crops will be ready to bring into market. into market.

The Compromise on the Irish Church Bill Agreed to by the Commons.—The Colliery Disaster-Advices from South America-Spanish Officers Extled for Fementing Insurrection. (By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

GREAT BRITAIN. LONDON, July 22.-The compromise on he Irish Church bill was the result of fear on the part of the Peers of the consequences threatened by a collision of the two Houses of Parliament. Last night the Tory Lords held a large meeting at a private residence, and resolved to repudiate the Marquis of Salisbury, and put themselves under the lead of Lord Cairns. The latter was authorized to make peace with the Ministry and express the willingness of the Peers to yield.

To day Lord Cairns sought an interview with Earl Granville, and gave in the submission of the Peers, whereupon the Cabinet agreed to the compromise announced to night. The prompt and loud expressions of popular indignation terri-fied the Lords, and thus has been postoned for a while the threatened agita-

London, July 23 .- There was a full attendance of members and spectators in the House of Commons this evening. When Mr. Gladstone rose to speak he was greeted with great cheering. Under a heavy sense of responsibility, but with profound satisfaction, he moved that the House agree to the amendments inserted yesterday, without exception or reservation. He called attention to the excision from the preamble of the words specifying the appropriation of surplus, but as the point was better indicated in the bill he thought it would be invidioue and unnecessary to require a theoretical and abstract declaration in the preamble. The reinsertion or date of 1871 was not a token of vic-tory, but an indication of the joint and harmonious working of the Houses. He reviewed the other amendments which stance of the Government proposals had remained virtually unaltered. He asked the House to discard every word that might have been uttered tending to em-bitter the question; and he apologized for any warmth of feeling that he might have shown. He congratulated the House on the satisfactory settlement which had been arrived at and praised the ability and moderation with which the debates had been conducted by Earl Granville and Loro Calris.

Sir Roundell Palmer, member for Richmond, approved the course which had been taken. It was honorable and fair to both sides. The point agreed upon was one which all must accept. In e of an adverse decision we must boy to the superior force of those who con-trol events, and when that time has come it is folly not to see and acknowledge the fact. He thought the compromise was substantially a concession to the Church, and concluded his speech with a compliment to Mr. Gladstone on the tone

Right Hon. Mr. D'Israeli said that when the difference between the Houses was only a matter of detail, he felt that delay in the settlement was only of doubtful advantage, and might result in disasters and difficulties of an inconsiderable kind. The compromise was not an unconditional surrender. The most essential points in the amendments had been assented to, and he thought that the House and the country would deem the compromise fair and just. He hoped that the present would be the last occasion when political circumstances would be dealt with by abstract principles. We had been on the eve of a collision, occasioned by a mis-understanding between the two Houses, at a time when each had deported itself in a manner to show the possession of the confidence and satisfaction of the country. Surely all would hall with satisfaction and ratify with pleasure the settlement arrived at as satisfactory and ta:esmanlike.

After the conclusion of Mr. D'Israeli's speech, the arrangements were agreed to without division. The result was received with great cheering.

Mr. Blockman, as our readers will remember, in the prosecution of his avocation as an itinerant clockmender, had made use of the glass in the windows of his mansion, which aroused the ire of his landlord which aroused the resolution is inductive and resulted in alaw-suit. That difficulty was settled, but the memory of it disturbed the peaceful nature of Mrs. Blockman, who has been "nursing her wrath to keep it warm" ever since, until she had an opportunity of venting her feelings. There is a little garden near the house, which has always, it seems, been disputed property. Yesterday the landlord, Mr. David Farnhoults, whoclaims it, attempted to take possession, when he was confronted by Mrs. Blockman, who made a violent assault upon and drove him away from the prerulses.
