A Revolution in Steam Engines. The Jersey City Times has a description of a machine, now in operation in that eity, which is destined to work a revolution in one department of mechanica; industry-namely, a new steam engine, which, one-quarter of the weight, and occupying one-quarter the space required for an ordinary ten-horse engine, will give the same power, with 25 per cent.

less fael. This little machine sets at defiance all pre conceived notions on the subject. Its motive power is all contained within the circumference of a broad, stout wheel, about three feet in diameter, revolving upon a hollow shaft which receives the steam and delivers it alternately into two reciprocal cylinders, and fixed between the center and the periphery. The power, therefore, instead of being at the penter, presents the singular anomaly of being at the circumference. Or, in other words, the true center of the property of the penter of words, the true center of power is at the periphery of the wheel. To use a familiar simile, the wheel is like the fand or drum of a squirrel cage, in which two squirrels were consentaneously; one in the usual position, the other in the opposite, but with head down, and with a motion similar to that of a fly walking on the ceiling-both, of course, in continually reversing positions as the wheel turns. It is an application of the simple principle by which, as anyone can see, a grindstone may easily be turned by placing the hand upon the surface, while only with considerable muscular exertion a man's hand grasping the shaft can produce the same motion.

The inventor, Mr. Ruset, a Frenchman, resided at Community wu until quite recently, where he was well known as the author and patentee of several desfui minor inventions. The Times says it is expected that a stock company will be formed immediately for the manufacture of the Ruset engine, whose value for all uses requiring lightness of construction. combined with economy of fuel, may be seen by the aimple statement that it will give ten-horse power with no more fuelthan would be required in a caloric engine of two-horse power, occupying one-fourth of the space, and at much lees than first cost.
And one important feature is, that the same engine can be used either to attain a high rate of speed or to do heavy hoisting.

A Goose Rate.

The Omaha Republican has the following account of a "goose race" that came off in that cityes for an in-

"Oyer 2,000 people gathered on the banks above the pond, and along the lower end of Farnham street, on yesterday afternoon, to witness Bob Hart and Sully in their great wash-tub-goose feat made his appearance, followed by his competitor for the golden peanut offered by Col. Re-covering his course Sully made splendid headway, gaining rapidly on the Hart outfit. One of his geese, however, attempting to dive, kicked a rear goose in the eye. The kicked bird at once cackled his defiance and soon demoralized the entire team, to such an extent that victory was impossible. Hart would have come in "O. K.," only for his "wheel geese" bau'king badly and upsetting the tub. Sully began laughing at his opponent's disaster, when his team made a sudden right flank movement, which left the driver floundering in the mud. The assembled multitude yelled the louder at the accidents. Righting their crafts both parties made for shore leading their teams. Bob took the prize."
