We have frequently, during the past their entire slock of summer, fall and year, called attention to that which we consider of great importance to all in need of heating apparatus, and now, as, t is the time when many of our citizens are about making arrangements for the heating of their houses for the winter season, we sgain propose to allude to the Flory Furnace, manufactured by Messrs. Graff, Hugus & Co., of this city. It has been but a short time since the introduction of the Fiery; it has already won a national reputation and is fast au perceding all others. Among the public buildings in which it has been introduc. ed in this section, are the St. Xaviers Academy, Westmoreland county, where ten furnaces are used; the North Avenu ten furnaces are used; the form Avoid M. The great advantages of the Fiery Fur-nace are told in a few words as follows: It is constructed upon the principle of slow combustion, which secures evenness siow combendue and pure unburnt air, with cleanliness, economy and but little trouble in attending. It burns either an-thracite or bitminous coal, or wood, and is so constructed as to hold several bush. els of constructed as to not several visit els of coal, the whole of which consumes slowly and evenly at the same time. The Boston Range is so well known here that there is little use in saying anything about it, but it is more especially to the improvements, which have lately been made, to which we purpose direct ing attention. It is constructed for bitu-minous coal exclusively, and the overs being elevated over the fire are heated by one direct fine in the centre from the bot tom. It is warranted to heat in eight minutes, to bake after the fire is started and requires not half so much fuel a other ranges. The castings are extra heavy and smooth, and its cost not above that of ordinary ranges. Various sizes of the Boston adapts them for large or small families.
