Threatened to Fix Him.—John Lohk testified before Alderman Strain yesterday that Thomas Whittaker had threatened, in an ominous way, to "fix" him Thomas has been trying to fix him since on an information for selling liquor on Sunday, but failed both times. Personal.—Alderman Guyan M. Irwin of the Second Ward, Allegheny, has opened a neat and pleasant office at No. 25 Ohio street, near the Diamond. More than once we have called attention to the pile of lumber piled up in front of the Penitentiary. The ground immediately in front of that institution is as much common property as ever was, and the citizens have tacitly assented to its enclosure because it had been neatly sodded and planted with trees and generally presented an agreeable appearance. A large triangular portion of it has for some time past been used a pig-pen, from which often arises the complained odor of a miniature city yard. Recently, citizens, who have been in the habit of keeping pigs upon their premises within the city limits, have been obliged by the officers of the law, to discontinue the practice, and it is scarcely to be wondered at that much dissatisfaction is felt at the enclosure of this nuisance at all, and especially upon common property and within sight and smell of everybody. Although the Penitentiary may not remain very long where it is now located, it is hoped that the pigs may go first.

Caught at Last.—Martin Brawley was committed to jail yesterday by Alderman McLaughlin. About six weeks ago he was charged before the Alderman with having knocked a man down on Fifth avenue, and afterwards chasing his victim several squares, flourishing a knife and threatening to kill him. Martin managed to keep out of the hands of the law, but he was finally caught at last.

On motion of Mr. Sims, the meeting was organized by calling Mr. Cuyler to the chair. The secretary then called the roll when the members answered to their names. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Mr. Rich presented the report of the Committee appointed to revise the Constitution, By-laws of the Association, and the next meeting. The credentials of Mr. W. W. Fullerton as a delegate from the Eagle Fire Company, were read and accepted, and the gentleman admitted to a seat in the Association. The bill of James McGuffee, Janitor, for one quarter's services, was presented and ordered to be paid. Mr. Smith moved that when the Association adjourn it be to meet on the first Monday in September to hear the report of the Committee appointed to revise the Constitution.

On motion, adjourned.

A FUNERAL EPISODE.

Sudden Death in Allegheny.—The Funeral Arrangements interrupted by a Coroner's Inquest—Mystery, Grief and Excitement.—The Result of It All.

Yesterday afternoon a peculiar and somewhat startling episode occurred at a funeral ceremony in Allegheny. A hearse followed by a long line of carriages had drawn up in front of a dwelling, which from the outward tokens contained the remains of one whose earthly pilgrimage was over. The streets near by were lined with eager spectators, drawn together by that morbid curiosity which induces people on all such occasions. The house was filled with the friends, who had gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to the deceased. A young man, who was in readiness for the commencement of the sacred and impressive services, when suddenly an unexpected and somewhat mysterious interruption interfered for the time with the progress of the exercises. The interruption was caused by the sudden death of one of the mourners, who had been called to the funeral by the sudden death of one of the mourners, who had been called to the funeral by the sudden death of one of the mourners.

Such was the excitement that the affair by this time had gained such a notoriety in the neighborhood that the agents of the several companies, who were interested in the matter, had gathered in front of the house. The funeral had been arranged to come off at ten o'clock, but it was delayed for a few minutes, but unfortunately they were so long in deciding that the ceremony should be postponed, that the friends and acquaintances in the meantime smothering their grief, rendered thus after a few minutes, by the unusual proceedings.
