PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, / MONDAY, August 23, 1869.

The oil market was unusually active today; the sales being much larger than usual, while compared with Saturday prices have undergone no essential change. The refined market, particularly for August delivery, was thought to be a shade stronger this eveninz, while futures remain unchanged. Crude is weak and offering freely at the decline futures remain unchanged. Crude is weak and offering freely at the decline of last week, but the great proportion of the sales, we understand, are settlements or purchases by "shorts" to cover maturing contracts. During the week ending August 21st, 1868, crude soid at 13 on spot; 13 for lines from September to December; 1814 for September at 3214, 1824 for September, and there was a line sold of 2,500 each, August to December at 3314. Thus barries at $1,200,1,60. Corn barries of the sales of No. 2 red fall at $1,150,1,20; No. 1 white at $1,350, prime to fancy at $1,300,1,60. Corn it will be seen that refined was then, on an average, higher than it is now, while crude was a cent to a cent and a half lower. The New York Shipping List. considered excellent authority, reports the exports from the United States from January 1st to August 14, 1869, at 59,769,052 galions against 59,982,201 gallons same time last year.

CRUDE.

We can alway 14, 400 sale of 700 bbls (48 gravity) 100 last Friday—at 14½, and to-day 14 was offered for 1,000 more of same kind.

REFINED. Sales 500 each September to December at $5,75@6,00.
