BELLE PLOYS, ROBERT CONTROL

FARMERS' WIVES. We can hardly blame young men and young women for disliking farm life, so long as we make it unattractive, even reand comfortable, and provided with books him. It is as follows: and papers, the yard and garden must be planted with shrubbery and choice trees; attention must be given to raising the better fruits and plenty of them; time nust be given for occasional recreations;

This is so especially with the ladies. ow can they be expected to desire the of a farmer's wife, when they see their others bowed down prematurely with for and care? Measures must be taken o lighten their burdens, or there will be fewer and fewer each year, who will consent to bear them. It would also be a of walnut leaves, upon which pour two great deliverance if they could be relieved or three quarts of cold water, let it infuse from boarding hired men. Every large one night and pour the whole next mornand prosperous farm demands the work ing into a kettle and let it boil for a quarof several hired laborers. These are generally boarded and lodged, washed and for use. No more is required than to ironed by the farmer's family. Now it is no small task to provide three meals a day for such a lot of hungry men, as well as to do all the work demanded of women on such a farm. Then, aside from so on such a farm. Then, aside from so the lady or gentleman who rides out for the lady or g and perhaps find their way into the family sitting room. But they are not always clean in their persons and dress, nor decorous in their manners, nor agreeable in their conversation. Now, it can hardly be expected that the wife and daughters will be contented and happy in such a state of things. They can have little or no leisure or privacy for reading, for agreeable or improving conversation, or receiving visitors. If they are contented with it, it only shows that they become Plainly enough, here is room for im-provement. And one way to remove the difficulty last named is to hire these men boarded elsewhere, or to provide laborer's cottages for them on the farm, where they can board themselves. Such houses can be put up at a cheap rate, and one or two of them will probably answer for a farm; for the unmarried men can board with those who have families. These tenants can receive part of their wages in the shape of supplies, from the farm. They can board and lodge themselves cheaper and more satisfactorily than the farmer's family can do it for them. It will certainly afford a great relief to the family, a relief which might well be bought by a slight decrease of the farmer's income. In the name of many thousands of farmer's wives and children, we plead for this reform.

TWO PLOWINGS BEFORE SEEDING. In the regular rotation of this section, wheat follows oats. Immediately on the latter crop being taken off the ground, some farmers plough up the oats stubble straining. before the ordinary spell of dry weather, enearly always sure to occur in the present month. Manure is then hauled on to the ground, spread and ploughed down, sowing, commence hauling their manure over the field, which becomes well compacted, dry and hard; then spread it and plough in before seeding. In this dairy district our most important crop is undoubtedly the grass crop, comprising un-der this name both hay and pasturage; and it is therefore that the system of ploughing twice before seeding is strongly to be recommended, with a view to

It is a very common experience that grass always takes better after two ploughings. Our three crops in rotation may be said indeed to be made more in reference to the subsequent grass crop, take a visiting card, separate it, and rub than for any profit to the dairyman from this crop of corn, oats or wheat. Grass occasionally runs out, and is thought to require ploughing and re-seeding. If the fields could be well kept up in grass, without ploughing, it is a question whether it would not be more profitable for a dairy farmer, with a good run of cream and a teaspoonful of sugar; mix tunstom, to buy all his corn, oats and them well together, and place them in a wheat, instead of raising it.

Farmers do not seem ready to adopt our recommendations of ploughing twelve inches deep. If they would do so, so as Derby Sho to bring up some of what is called poor soil, it would be found their grass fields would remain much longer in grass, without needing ploughing up; but by all means, they should put in two ploughings before re-seeding .- Practical Farmer for August.

FRUIT BOBBING.

As the time for fruit is upon us, growers utes. are suffering from the depredation of petty pilferers. But now under the act of or on the ground, is a serious offence, and the remedy is simple and prompt. By cloth over their cage at night. This is the crininal remedy against the plunderer and damaging of gardens or yards, and it is the fault of the owners if

DON'T KILL HIM.

You will sometimes find in your fields a large black bettle, wearing lant golden dots. Know that it is not to be destroyed. According to Dr. Fitch, the distinguished entomologist, its eggs produce the corn grub killer, that most inveterate foe of cut worms. It hunts them continually and feeds on nothing else, so long as the supply holds out.
When it finds them in plenty it gorges and surfeits itself upon them, till so discontented that it hardly knows how to stir, for it never does respect a cut worm's desire to be "let alone." It grasps him with its strong jaws, and despite violent writhing and struggle, holds him tast. Plowman, spare the beetle. COLIC IN HORSES.

the following simple remedy, which af forded prompt relief. It was furnished us by Dr. McClure, the well-known and skillful veterinary surgeon of this city, and which he informs us he has never known to fail. Having several hundred horses under his care, by the season, at our principal railroad and other stables, he has found this remedy so certain that he keeps a bottle of the mixture at the stables, having instructed the hostlers how to administer it in cases of colic and pulsive. MANDRAKE PILLS will care Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, reiax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in fiesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows he sleasse and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, way to cure consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

Tido this, the ceawed lonic and Mandrake Pills must be irely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Liver Compisint is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption.

Schenck's Heaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the sikal in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Puimonic Syrup, and it is made into good bood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.
