PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTEBURGH GAZETTE, I THURSDAT, Sept. 2, 1869.

The oil market was somewhat stronger to-day, the bids for most deliyeries being a shade higher, but the sales were light, there being very few sellers here even at the improvement. The fact that prices are a fraction higher, does not amount to much in the present condition of affairs, with the exception, perhaps, that it may be taken as an indication of what is to follow, though this is very uncertain, as the market is not always permitted to take its own legitimate ceurse. It is generally believed that if New York had not been so very "obearish," that prices to-day would be higher, but so long as operators there continue to sell "short" with a view of keeping prices down, much of an improvement in prices cannot reasonably be expected. Pittsburgh, besides not beling disposed, is not in condition to sell freely, in consequence of the fact that there is nothing in it, at least to the refiner.

—The Louisvile Courier Journal, of Tuesday says: Capt. Poe, of the Mollie Ebert, which boat is laid up below the falls, is in the city. We learn that it is his intention to take the Mollie to Mound City for repairs. She will take a load of freight, and will leave the last of this week..... Captain Hugh Campbell, of the Mary Davage, was in the city yesterday. The Davage is below the falls, but her haves are account barges are aground at French Island. -The Captain of the steamer Lady

—The Captain of the steamer Lady Grace, lying at Omaha; got himself rather roughly handled last sunday by a lot of roughs. It appears that the Lady Grace was chartered by some parties to take passengers to a prize fight that came off below Plattesmouth and on the return trip some misunderstanding took place between the Captain and his rough. between the Captain and his rough guests, wherein the Captain received some bad bruises on his head and body, and also on several of the doors of the cable; furniture was thrown overboard, and smashing was the general disorder. On the arrival of the boat at Omaha, several of the rowdies were arrested.

-The Evansville Journal, of Monday, says: Capt. Lowith, of the Cumberland, is in the city. He is on his way to Louisville to attend the investigation of the cause of the explosion, by the Local Inspectors. The boilers of the Camberland are now partly out of the water, opposite the lower corn shed, below Raieligh Boats can pass on either below Raiel.gh Boats can pass on either side of them. Marion Wright, late cierk of the ill-fated Cumberland, was also a passenger by the Lumsden, and looks somewhat the "worse of the wear,' though he has nearly recovered from his injuries. He reports Bruce Hunter also improving. He has no idea how many people were lost in the disaster, as all the books were lost.
