THE West Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church will meet in Gettysburg on Wednesday evening, September 22. The Synod at one time embraced the territory of Pennsylvania west of the Susquehanna river, and hence its distinctive name. Three other Synods (Central, Allegheny and Pittsburgh,) have since been organized, and the West Pennsylvanis now extends only over four counties, Adams, York, Cumberland and Frank. lin. There will probably be about forty ministers present, with a corresponding number of lay delegates. The Synod will continue in session about one week.

A PHILADELPHIA paper says: "When butter hucksters tell us that the high. price of butter is a consequence of a loss of succulence in their pasture; they tell anuntruth. We know a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor who buys in Harrisburg, for himself and neighbors, at 25c. a pound, a better article than that for which West Jersey and Chester county people are asking 80c. With a grin of asvage joy, we were told on Saturday in the market, that before June next the price of the commodity would be a dollar per pound. A butter league may knock these gentry this season, as it did the last."

A NATIONAL Convention of Fruit sons in their arms, who, from appearances, had died with great struggle. We began to feel overcome with the firedamp and smell from the dead bodies, but still felt as we could not come away without bringing one of the dead with us, THE United Brethren have dedicated and accordingly we each got a boy on our shoulders and brought them up with us. After I found this lot of men I went about nifty feet further on to the back end, but Yound no more. The third time, 1 way and brought out a man, About thirty of the men had their shirts drawn over their heads for protection.

The fact, as stated by Mr. Halliday, that thirty of the men were found with their heads and faces covered by their their needs and laces covered by their shirts, is accepted by many as evidence of a terrible struggle on the part of the miners to fight for life as long as possible. The positions of the bodies also indicated as much, although the faces of the dead, areas in a few instances withinted no sex, Mercer county, was run over by the cars at Sharen, on the 3d, and so badly injured that he died the same night.

Sometime, although the laces of the dead, except in a few instances, exhibited no signs of great suffering or mental torture. Even on that cold cluster of human signs of great suffering or mental torture. Even on that cold cluster of human bodies grouped together like hideous statuary by the hand of death, the testimony of affection in the last moment of life was written. Folded in each other's arms were friends who stood by each other under the sunlight above, and now, other under the sunlight above, and now, though dead, their bodies were locked together in friendship. The man Evans was found partially sitting up and holding on each arm a boy, his own son, who had answered the same dread summons that came to his helpless father. What the feelings of all the release was a son who had a son a son who h the feelings of all the prisoners were we may attempt to imagine, but we can never fully realize. When it became evident, after the fire in the shaft had been suppressed, that an attempt at rescue must be made, the crowd about the shaft became tremendously excited. The bravest fell back appalled at the prospect of venturing alone in a bucket down into the gloom of that awful ruin, not unlike a living picture of hell itself. The beams of timber in the partition across the centre of the shaft still smoked from the recent fire. Who-adequate justice. Vartue was the first to go down the shaft, but others as heroic ollowed and penetrated in darkness and amid rushing crowds of sulphur into gang-ways and chambers where death in frightful shapes had visited. The courage of the battle field has nothing in it nobler or more self-sacrificing than the conduct of these brave men, who, conceiving that in some remote chamber of the mine their fellow men were waiting and panting for deliverance, struggled through the foul air, the awful gloom and oppressive stillness to rescue them or perish in the attempt.

A New Illuminating Gas. Professor Silliman, of Yale, and a chemist of merit named Wurtz, have SCHMIDT & FRIDAY, Sharon next week, and at Green the first week in October. A movement is chemist of merit named words, also being made for one in Mercer. Mr. been a long time engaged in the attempt also being made for one in Mercer. Mr. to utilize water in the manufacture of william Suffern, of Chicago, is the illuminating gas. The method that they have adopted is thus described by the New York Evening Post:

The first step is to bring very highly heated steam into a clay retort, in which pure anthracite coal is burning. The coal is purely carbon; the steam, of course, consists of the same elements as water that is, the two gases, oxygen and hy-drogen. Now, the oxygen of the steam combines with the coal carbon, and forms the gas known as oxide of carbon, leaving also the hydrogen gas free. These two gases are thus produced in equal volume. They are both combustivle, and burn with an intense heat, although they give, when burning, hardly any light. These gases are then mixed with the common illuminating gases, made by distilling bituminous coal. The mixture, it is found by experiment, forms a brilliant ly burning gas, which is better, in some respects, than the best of that with which our houses are usually lighted; for exam-ple, it is more permanent under exposure to severe cold. But the main advantage is in the saving of expense. It is plain that this method turns water, and the whole weight of anthracite coal used, into illuminating gas, while the old pro-cess yields in gas only the volatile part of the bituminous coal thrown off in distillation. Unless the new method involves an enormous expense for heat and machinery, therefore, the saving by it must be large. In point of fact, Messrs. Silliman and Wurtz assured us that they are able practically to add fifty per cent. to the amount of illuminating gas obtained from a given expenditure of coal, or, what is the same thing, to save one-third of the fuel now used in making gas. The result has been erected near New Haven almost a year ago; and it is understood that the gas when suddenly the entire floor gave way, and carried with it into the cellar all the people and furniture that had been stand.
