A MAIDEN'S "PSALM OF LIFE."

Tell us not the idle fable, Maiden, in an empty dream...
For a girl is dead that's stung, And women are not what they seem.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Comparatively few, outside of those Immediately interested, are aware of the grandeur and magnitude of the gathering of the "American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions," to be held in the Third Presbyterian church, in this city, commencing Tuesday, October 5th, be consummated, a regularly organized colored Episcopal church.

From the course of Bishop McIlvaine, of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, in some doctrinal matters, it is thought he is less favorable to reforms in that Church, than formerly. A writer in the Church Journal asserts that he is becoming more conservative, and ventures the prediction that he will yet make the "tallest High Churchman in the land."

The Methodist is credited with the report that a man in Iowa, in the last stages of consumption, was lately baptized by immersion and thought his health benefitted thereby.

Thirteen new Jewish Synagogues have been established in this country during the Jewish year 5,629, just closed.

Church corporations are sometimes shrewdly arranged, financially. The Reformed (Dutch) Church in New York, is a case in point. The vestry of the old Nassau Street church rented the building for a postoffice, and for many years drew a rent of twenty thousand dollars.

Then they sold it for two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and bought six lots on Fifth avenue for thirty thousand dollars, which are worth two hundred thousand dollars. They also bought, about thirty years ago, four lots in Lafayette Place, on which they also built a church. For these lots they paid ten thousand dollars. They now ask four hundred thousand dollars.

According to the Advertiser the St. James Episcopal Sunday school of Brooklyn,

New York, celebrated its first anniversary by a ball, which lasted from 4 p. m.

to midnight. Quadrilles, gallops, schot-isches, polkas, etc., were interspersed.

It ended with "Home, Sweet Home."

A report is afloat, we believe by the New York Observer, that during the past year two hundred and seventy-one churches have been dedicated, embracing nine denominations. Of this number seventy-two are Methodist. According to the statistics of the Methodist Episcopal Church, just published, the net increase of churches (houses of worship) last year was five hundred and seventy. Besides these over one hundred and forty new and improved churches were built to substitute old ones, making the number of Methodist Episcopal Churches last year seven hundred and ten.

THE LITERATURE OF THE AGE OF ELIZABETH.

By Edwin F. Whipple. Published by Fields, Osgood & Co., Boston.

For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

Mr. Whipple is among the few living writers competent to prepare an intelligent work on the "Literature of the Age of Elizabeth." He is peculiarly constituted for analytical researches, and no better field could offer than the theme he has selected. The style of Mr. Whipple is rigidly severe in construction, and abundant and sharply turned and snatches. Running through the lectures there is a cheerful vein and brilliancy that dazzles and intensifies the reader.

The master minds portrayed, Shakespeare, Johnson, Locke and others, are not only treated as they live in history but individually, but the influences they had on the age. Notwithstanding the prominence of the intellectual element in all Mr. Whipple's writings, there is such a charm and vivacity infused, that he is popular, and his works are extensively read. The Literature of the Age means simply the literature which originated or culminated in the reign of Elizabeth, and which did not altogether cease to act at her death. These lectures are well worth publication, and ought to be widely circulated.

calculated to accomplish good in establishing and reconciling questions bearing upon it. It will prove a valuable aid to those seeking light on questions of such vital importance. Dr. Thompson discusses Chronology in the light of Egyptian monuments. The theories of Darwin and others are reviewed, and also the Sabbath and Woman question are treated at some length.

EMILY'S BRACELT; or, The Wedding

Present. Published by Henry Hoyt, Boston. For sale by F. G. Rineaman, Pittsburgh.

This is a pretty story, with characters portrayed in life-like style. It cannot fail to interest the reader. Throughout there is a high moral tone, illustrative of the beauty of Christianity. The plot is excellent, and the finale ends joyously.

ROY GRAY'S STRATAGEM. By Mrs. Ann

S. Sledge. Published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia.

This novel is regarded as superior to recent works of this well-known and popular writer. In point of construction and development, it is fine, and will doubtless command hosts of readers. The style is glowing and rather highly colored, but it is generally the most popular.

The immense sale of her numerous works is significant of her hold upon the public mind.

THE AMERICAN JON MILLER. Published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia.

Lovers of comic literature, who enjoy funny paragraphs, with illustrations to suit, will find much in this stout pamphlet to laugh over. Its reading will not tax the brain severely.

THE WORKS OF HORACE. By Prof. Theophus Chase, of Haverford College. Published by Eldredge & Brother, Philadelphia. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co.,

Pittsburgh.

Chase & Stewart's Classical Series are well-known in educational circles, as being among the best published. "Caesar's Commentaries," "Virgil's Aeneid," and

"Cicero's Select Orations," have been published some time. These works are given up in elegant style, both as it regards type, paper, and otherwise. This volume has been prepared with great care, and every authority worthy of consulting has been brought into requisition to produce the text pure. The explanatory notes will go far towards aiding the student. We look for the same favor from the public for this volume, that has been awarded to the companion works.

COUNTESS GISELA. From the German of

E. Marill. Author of "The Old Man-telie's Story," etc. By Mrs. A. B. Peterson. Part 2. Published by J. B. Lippincott

& Co., Phila.

Readers of the first part will be pleased to have the second, which develops more fully the extraordinary plot of the story.

It presents the leading characters in strong language, and depicts phases of humanity in a light hardly possible, and yet such people live in society. The interest in the story takes a strong hold on the reader from the outset. The character and central figure, Countess Gisela, finally rewards Berthold with her hand.

HARPER BROTHERS, New York, have sent us numbers 326 and 327 of the "Library of Select Novels." "False Colors," by Annie Thomas, is a story of English life, and presents the characteristics of society in the charming manner of this lady. Her previous works have given her much notoriety. There is a freshness and vigor of style, and naturalness in the characters drawn, that makes her works popular. The author of "St. Olave's" has shown much of the same artistic excellence in "Meta's Faith," No. 327, that
