FRANCE.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Times has an editorial on the situation of affairs in France. It says the Emperor is now recovered, his conduct cannot easily be accounted for. The new Constitution may be regarded as virtually in vigor, and the granting of amnesty and tolerance is extended to the present. Every circumstance tends to foster the conviction that a new era has dawned; yet the Emperor remains inactive, as though he considered everything done—yet he demands the convocation of the legislative body, and useless causes some members to contemplate the invasion of their own franchises next month with a view of deliberating without the consent of the Executive. No one, however, expects resort to such a course. The legitimacy of the conduct in allowing six months to elapse before the dissolution and reconvention of the Chambers, depends on a technical quibble. Although the legislative body separated before it was constituted, still it had given formal signs of its existence by several divisions.

PARIS, September 23.—France De La Tour d'Auvergne, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Baringame, of the Chinese Embassy, have made arrangements for establishing improved relations between France and China, on the basis of mutual confidence, and the French Government has issued instructions to its representatives in China to act in accordance with this policy. The specie in the Bank of France has increased $7,000,000.

The religious journals express grief at the letter of Pater Hyacinthe. The letter says that it justifies the fears which have long been entertained in regard to him. No such language has been heard in the French church since the middle of the century, and the independent language and courageous tones of his sermons attracted much attention, and have drawn on the preacher the condemnation of his superiors.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, September 23.—Lord Westbury has been appointed Justice of the Court of Appeals, vice Sir S. Selwyn.

The Times in an article on the cotton supply, says Mr. Ashwin and Mr. Bright, by different methods, arrive at the same estimate, that nothing is wanted but more cotton. More cotton would start the mills and silence the clamor against the trade. Of this we are not sure; but we are well aware that the cotton industry in Lancashire demands attention. Cotton is dear because it is scarce. Why scarce? Of this we are not sure; but we are well aware that the cotton industry in Lancashire demands attention. Cotton is dear because it is scarce. Musical Convention—Music as an Element of Worship.

(By Telegram to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

BOSTON, September 23.—In the National Music Convention today, L. H. Southard, of Baltimore, delivered an address on music as an element of worship. He protested against the adoption of vulgar or popular music in churches. He did not deem the music now in use adapted to congregational singing, and consequently favored organized choirs. In his opinion, the Protestant church music, except that of the English church, has been retrograding for the past twenty years.

Other speakers followed, generally agreeing with Southard.

Convention closed with a concert in the evening largely attended.

FOUR O'CLOCK, A. M.

APOLLO, PA.

Grand Republican Rally.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION OF GOV. GEARY.

Address by the Governor and Others.

(Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

APOLLO, September 23, 1869.

There was an enthusiastic rally of the Republicans at this place to-day, arrangements having been made for a grand demonstration, inasmuch as Governor Geary had accepted an invitation to be present on the occasion.

There was a large outpouring of the people, delegations coming from all sections of the surrounding country, thus showing unmistakably that the Republicans mean to present a united front to the old enemy at the contest on the second Tuesday of October.

Gov. Geary was escorted to the town by a large procession, consisting of citizens in carriages, on horseback and on foot, carrying banners and flags.

A meeting was organized at 7 o'clock in the evening. Hon. Darwin Phelps presiding. The Vice Presidents were Col. M. J. Jackson, James Guthrie, Samuel Jack, S. Whitehouse, Henry M. Beatty, Capt. R. D. Ellwood, G. R. Brinner, Simon Truby, H. G. Owens, Jesse Jones, David Henderson, B. L. Brown, Col. W. H. Pipes, Wm. J. Sterrett, Dr. Murray, Dr. McFarland, John L. Crosby, Esq., Jas. Beale, Wm. Rogers and George Paul. Secretaries, W. S. Cochran and J. E. Jackson.

Gov. Geary first addressed the meeting. He was greeted as he appeared upon the stand with loud cheers, and it was some minutes before he could proceed. Referring to the Democratic cry of "ruin," he spoke of his journey through the State, meeting everywhere, he said, evidences of unexampled prosperity, and other satisfactory indications that the people were relieved from the anxiety under which they had labored, as the result of the great political excitement attendant upon the Presidential canvass last year.

He next spoke of the Democratic statement that reform in the administration of public affairs was imperatively demanded, and showed the utter falsity of this Democratic assumption by contrasting their action when in power with their "reform" cry now.

Alluding to the national affairs, he demonstrated that Andrew Johnson in the last year of his administration had increased the debt fifty millions, while during the first six months of Republican rule, under President Grant, the debt had been reduced nearly that amount, a gain practically of nearly one hundred millions.

The State Government appeared in an equally favorable light, Republican administration, in a few years, having paid off five millions of the debt of the Commonwealth, and also added another million to the treasury to pay bonds coming due. In consequence of this the State credit had been strengthened. Pennsylvania bonds were six and seven per cent. premium, while those of other States were below par. All this, too, had been accomplished without taxing real estate, County and municipal taxes should be looked to before there was more grumbling on this score.

The pending business appeared in a different light by the examination of the records, showing that but one hundred and ninety-eight pardons had been issued in the last three years, while during the same period his Democratic predecessors had granted as many as one thousand, none of them less than three hundred. The whole sale remission of sentences in Philadelphia County, practiced for a long series of years, which had been effectually stopped, was another fact in refutation of the assertion that the Executive had abused his prerogative.

As to the charge that he had recently signed bills without due consideration of them, he showed by the record that he had issued two hundred and seventeen vetoes, averaging one for every working day of the legislative session—sufficient evidence, he maintained, that some care had been exercised in the matter.

He next referred to the suffrage question, and said it was better to allow those to vote who had helped to save rather than those who had sought to destroy the Government.

The Governor closed his eloquent address with an able review of the present prosperity of the State, and pledged himself, if re-elected, to administer its affairs for the public good, as he had done in the past.

Hon. Mahlon Chance, of Ohio, Jesse Kennedy, Esq., of Lancaster, and Hon. David Barclay, of Ettingan, also made speeches, and at a late hour the meeting adjourned, with enthusiastic cheers for Geary and Williams.
