The Attorney General says the Secretary is not bound to recognize or do business with any claim agent who is known to have perverted his position for purposes of fraud, and whose character is such that a reasonable degree of confidence cannot be placed in his honesty in dealing with the govern-ment. Under such circumstances the Secretary may very properly decline to expose the interest of the government, as also of the claimants, to the danger of becoming a prey to dishonest schemes and devices; and when the provisions of the pension and bounty act. designed for the protection of claimants against the cupidity and oppression of their agents, have been violated, the parties should be made, if possible, to
