CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Two persons were taken to the workhouse yesterday.

Three vagrant drunks attended Mayor Drum's morning court yesterday, and were sent to jail.

Trapper's Inquest.—Yesterday morning Coroner Clawson held an inquest on the body of Dennis Carlin, whose death was noticed in Tuesday's paper. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Wearing Apparel Taken.—Bridget McGraw, from Hardscrabble, made information before Alderman Butler yesterday, charging Emma Shelton with stealing a valuable plaid dress from her room on Fifth avenue. A warrant for Emma's arrest was issued.

Stock Sale.—The following stocks were sold last evening on the second floor of Commercial Sales Rooms, 106 Smithfield street, by A. McIlwaine, auctioneer:

First National Bank	$182 50
Exchange National Bank	67 00
Bank of Pittsburgh	75 50
Pittsburgh Insurance Company	55 50

Pocket Picked.—Benjamin Jewett was relieved of a watch and chain last evening, while in a saloon on Fifth avenue, adjoining the Opera House. There were quite a number of persons in the house when he entered and he had been in but a few minutes when he discovered that his watch had been taken out of his pocket.

The Sacred Concert at Trinity Chapel, heretofore announced, is to be borne in mind, will come off this evening. High expectations of a grand musical treat have been excited by the promise of an elaborate programme, a superb organ, and a select troupe of favorite vocalisers. High as the expectations may be, we feel sure there will be no disappointment.

Justice at Last.—Some time in the early part of last July, Catharine Benson made information for assault and battery against Jerry Roberts, whom she charged with breaking into her house one morning and then breaking a pitcher over her head. Jerry managed to keep out of the way by leaving the city until yesterday, when he unfortunately returned. In a few hours he was arrested, had a hearing and was required to give bail for Court.

Wife's Wrongs.—John Roxbury yesterday sought the legal protection of Alderman Thomas from the vengeance of his wife Margaret, who he alleges drove him out of the house, by throwing glasses at his head and threatening to inflict upon him fatal injuries if he again returned. The Alderman instructed officer Ziebrich to call upon the females and cure her attendance at his office, where the matrimonial unpleasantness will be investigated.

James T. Sample, the whilom soldier in the Mexican war, walking ever since like other quadrupeds, on four legs—three of wood and one of flesh—the book and news merchant, the drug and medicine man, has so far recovered his former agility that he has leaped over the Alleghenies, and is now perched at 711 Market street, Philadelphia, ready to buy or sell the city or any part thereof, or serve in his own primitive way all inventors of any patented way of doing every thing, or in other words, he is fountain-ed at 711 Market street, Philadelphia, is that of "Real Estate and Patent Agent," for whom it may concern.

The Necessity For, and protection afforded by a safe deposit company was never made more manifest than in the case of the recent robbery of the Shoemaker National Bank of Boston, a report of which we published under our telegraph head of yesterday. As usual, the entrance was made Saturday night or Sunday, when the bank was wholly unprotected, the wall of the safe having been first drilled through preparatory to attacking the iron. We are free to say no such robbery of burglary could have taken place in any well regulated safe deposit company, and especially could not such an occurrence take place in the Safe Deposit Company building in Pittsburgh, where the officers and guards have access over and around the vault, and where guards are constantly on duty night and day, as also on Sundays and holidays.

Death from Heart Disease.

Yesterday morning Miss Eliza Elizabeth Cordell, residing with her parents at Pine Creek, near Sharpsburg, died suddenly. She had previously been in good health, and her demise so unexpected and painful to all her friends was unaccountable. Coroner Clawson was notified, and in the afternoon, and held an inquest. Dr. McQuade, one of the witnesses, held a post mortem examination of the body, and testified that the deceased had died from heart disease. The jury returned a verdict accordingly.

Coal Miners

Will see in our column of "wants" that coal diggers are wanted by the Monroe Iron & Coal Company. We have visited the Company's coal mines, which are situated near the beautiful village of Stonehoro, on the border of Sandy Lake, in Mercer county. We have not seen elsewhere a place where every comfort and convenience of the miners seemed to be so well provided for. If there are any unemployed miners hereabouts are advise them to go to Stonehoro. Only four or five hours by rail will bring them to the spot.

Pittsburgh Amusements.

The following statement from the books of the Assessor of Internal Revenue for this district shows the gross receipts of the several places of amusement named for the month of October:

Opera House	$11,567
Pittsburgh Theatre	4,917
Trimble's Varieties	1,681
Sorrell's Museum	1,039
Signor Blitz, four nights	630
Total	$20,114

No return has yet been received from the Academy of Music for the month.

Committed for a Hearing.

William Martine, charged on oath of Lieutenant Emmett, with felonious assault and battery, was arrested and taken before the Mayor for a hearing yesterday. Martine is charged with throwing a clinker and striking his stepson, Henry Hanl, on the head, fracturing his skull, an account of which we published yesterday. At the hearing the physician who attended young Hanl stated that the wound would probably prove fatal, and the Mayor committed Martine to jail until December 6th, to await the result of young Hanl's injuries.

In Trouble Again.

Monday afternoon Zachariah Lawson's litigation engaged the attention of Alderman Butler. Yesterday afternoon he changed the programme and engaged the attention of Alderman Shore in two informations, one for surety of the peace against his wife, Sarah, whom he alleges threatened to kill him, and the other against Sarah Lovett for disorderly conduct, that American female, according to his statement, having aided and abetted his wife in her attack upon him, and otherwise conducted herself in an unladylike manner. In both instances warrants were issued for the arrest of the offending females.

Lingues Cattle Dealers.

Yesterday Alderman Irwin, of Allegheny was engaged in expounding the law to several cattle-dealers, whose litigious propensities led them to seek his magisterial sanctum. In the first suit James R. Prindle, a drover, made information charging Jacob Rinn, a butcher, with the larceny of four cattle from the drove yards. At the hearing Rinn claimed that Prindle owed him, and that he considered the surest and most feasible method of collecting the debt was to seize the cattle when the opportunity presented. The magistrate instructed him otherwise, and he acknowledging his error, and paid for the cattle when the suit was withdrawn. He entered a civil suit was withdrawn. He entered a civil action against Prindle for the money alleged to be due. That individual denied any indebtedness and gave bail for a hearing. The second suit arose out of the first. Rinn and Andrew Graham, another butcher, had a dispute about the drove yard about the the cattle, when, according to Prindle's statement, Graham made an assault upon him. Graham gave bail for Court.

LABOR REFORM.

Educational — Benevolent Societies — Capital and Labor — Real Estate and Citizenship.

At the Literary Festival given by the colored people of this city and vicinity, at Excelsior Hall, Allegheny, last evening, for the purpose of raising funds to defray the expenses of the delegates to the National Labor Convention to be held in Washington, D. C., in December, a special committee appointed at a previous meeting to prepare resolutions, presented the following report, which was adopted:

Resolved, At an adjourned public meeting of the citizens of Allegheny City, Pa., held in the First Colored Baptist church, Nov. 11th, 1869, to complete arrangements for sending delegates to the proposed National Labor Convention, to be held in Washington City, D. C., on motion, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Neale, Sampson and Thomas, was appointed to prepare a series of resolutions indicating the policy to be pursued by the delegates in the convention assembled, with the following result, subject to the ratification of the delegate constituency:

Whereas, The general discrimination in morals, education, politics and religion which pervades all classes of society, creates in the minds of the good and virtue men of the present day fearful forebodings of the calamities which will absolutely follow the violation of moral, mental and physical laws, and as education, next to religion, constitutes the foundation of individual as well as of national prosperity; therefore be it

Resolved, That we regard education as an elaborate of paramount importance to success in life, and while we, as a part of the human family, have been directed in the due performance of our duties, because as a mass we have failed to keep abreast of the sacred opportunities afforded us by public and collegiate schools, we pledge ourselves to make every sacrifice in future for the acquisition of a good education for ourselves and our children.

Resolved, That we regard the various literary and benevolent societies of our cities as potent instrumentalities in the dissemination of correct ideas as to the objects and results of a good education, and we implore them to devote their time to the noble work of creating in our youths of both sexes, laudable incentives for the achievement of knowledge, and also a proper adjustment of our educational facilities so that the Public and High Schools among us may labor in true accord with each other.

Resolved, That we recognize in the proposed National Labor Convention, a concentrative attempt to concentrate and utilize the diffuse power of the mechanical element, among the recently enfranchised Americans, the resultant accruing benefits of which, cannot be too highly estimated.

Resolved, That as all positive, progressive movements in rightful directions are promotive of the best interests of the nation; therefore, as a legitimate member of the national family, laboring for the progress and the common welfare of its people, we do heartily endorse and commend the present movement as eminently praiseworthy, believing that with a proper adjustment of the Labor question upon an equitable basis, by an unreserved recognition of the inherent right of all citizens, otherwise duly qualified, but without regard to condition or race, to engage in any lawful mechanical employment, or a remunerative compensation. Further believing that upon such a basis, all hitherto political or social disabilities bearing upon the matter of labor can be satisfactorily and permanently removed, and an adjustment effected upon those conditions that will secure to every person the rights and privileges due American citizens, preserving inviolate the spirit of true Republican institutions.

Resolved, That we are strenuously opposed to all unjust legislative discrimination in favor of capital to the restriction of labor, believing capital to be only the accumulative product of labor, and we earnestly advise and insist upon such a judicious expenditure of our earnings as will secure to our people a fair proportionate ownership in the public domain, and as no people, who are not owners of the soil, however prosperous in other commercial pursuits, have a permanent or incorporate interest in the management of the Government under which they live; therefore, we regard the acquisition of real estate, by every person who aspires to citizenship, as of prime importance, and recommend the Spirit as possessing unusual advantageous facilities for securing this desirable result.

Boiler Explosion at Titusville.

From the Titusville Herald of yesterday we learn that early Monday morning the boiler of the Funk well on the Hays lot, near the eastern line of that city, exploded with terrific force, smashing the engine house into fragments and seriously injuring the engineer, a young man named Jesse Hayes. There was no man named Jesse Hayes. There was no man named Jesse Hayes.—There was no other person in or about the engine house at the time of the accident, but immediately after a crowd collected near the ruins. He was carried into a house near by, and it was found that his skull was terribly fractured, one of his eyes badly cut, and his left leg and back severely bruised, but, singularly enough, he was not scalded. At first it was thought that he was fatally injured, but as he was in a somewhat improved condition in the evening, it was then thought that he might possibly recover.

The dome of the boiler was broken off and thrown into the air to a great height, and the furnace door was thrown about one hundred feet. The boiler, a mass of iron weighing not less than three thousand pounds, was hurled through two derricks and a piece of wood to a point at least five hundred feet from where it had stood. The derricks through which it passed were literally cut off, and the piece of wood to the broken limbs and twisted trunks of trees bore witness to the great force by which it was impelled. In its progress it twice struck and tore from its foundation a derrick used for a considerable distance. The cause of the explosion is not known.

The Meanest Meanness.

One of the lowest grades of meanness, outside the criminality of the offense, was developed yesterday. Its subject was of rejoicing that the perpetrator is now in jail, and will, for some time at least, be prevented from libelling humanity by his actions. His name is James Cassidy. About two years ago, it is said, he was an inmate of the Mercy Hospital, undergoing treatment, gratuitous, for sore eyes. When able to go about, one day a couple of checks on the First National Bank, for $320 in all, a donation to the Institution, were placed in his hands for collection. He drew the money at the bank, but never returned to the hospital. The most diligent search failed to develop him anywhere in the city. He had disappeared finally. It was thought, and the matter was allowed to drop. Yesterday, however, it was revived by the appearance of Dr. McMeal, physician to the Hospital, at the office of Alderman McMasters, where he caused a warrant to be issued for the arrest of Cassidy, whom he had discovered working as a gentleman's house near the city. The accused in a short time was secured, had a hearing before the Alderman, confessed his guilt, and, in default of $500 bail was committed for trial.

Increase of Travel.

The Steubenville Herald says: "For some time past there has been a noticeable increase of travel over the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, as it were, the drawing of the great multitudes of travelers from the east and west over this line. The cars from the west are crowded daily, and from the east the mercantile community, followed by their recently purchased traffic, speed over the shortest route by thousands. The road is in admirable order, better, we may say, than any of the eastern routes. While the great railway war was going on, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway Company quietly went on repairing and improving their line, laying new iron, double tracking, and placing the route in excellent condition; the result is, a large increase of business in every department of the great thoroughfare, from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago."

A Praying Sinner.

William Vance was arrested on Sixth avenue yesterday afternoon for drunkenness, and taken to the lock-up, when he devoted about forty-five minutes to prayer, praying fervently for the pardon of the policeman who had arrested him without cause, and for all policemen in general who arrested innocent persons. The Mayor was also remembered in his petitions. He prayed that His Honor might be blessed with clearer perception of right and wrong, so that he would be able to see and believe that he, Vance, able to see and believe that he, Vance, was an innocent and persecuted mortal, and that his heart might be softened so he would be merciful in sentencing unfortunate creatures like the petitioner. After he had remained in the cells until sober, he was taken before His Honor, who, after hearing the case, gave Vance a permit to visit Claremont and remain there sixty days.

THE COURTS.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—"East Lynne, or the Elopement," was presented to a large and fashionable audience, at the Opera House, last evening, and we have never seen it played better. It will be repeated to-night.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The entertainment given at the Old Theatre this week is one of the best of its character we have ever witnessed in this city. The Tyrolean Opera Troupe are composed of excellent singers, and their choruses were really delightful, and were fully appreciated by the audience. Madam Hofer's solo was finely executed, and highly applauded by the audience. Remember the matinee this afternoon.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—To-night the third entertainment, under the auspices of the G. A. R., will take place at the Academy of Music, when Mrs. Frances Scott Siddons will read selections from various authors, prose and verse. The entertainment promises to be one of the finest of the season if the success of the first lady in other quarters is any criterion. Everywhere she has been flatteringly received, and attracted large audiences. The programme embraces three of the finest selections ever written, and is certainly one of unusual merit. There are no reserved seats; tickets fifty cents.

COL. POWELL'S LECTURE.—The lecture of Col. Powell on the "Canons of the Colorado," at the Academy of Music, last night, was attended by a very small audience. The lecturer talked brilliantly and entertainingly. He is a pleasant way for nearly two hours, entertaining his hearers with thrilling descriptions of his marvellous canon explorations, which, as the first explorer, he had the honor of passing. He illustrated his remarks at intervals by reference to maps and charts, hung in full view, by which the subject was clearly and interestingly explained. The lecture was one of the most entertaining and instructive of the course, a fact which was attested in the length of time it held the attention of the audience.

Taking Time.

Time is valuable. Yet, valuable as it is, every man can take time, and generally has a great deal of it. In some matters considerable time is required. Sometimes, though, a man may take time in an improper way. He then gets into trouble, which was precisely the case with John Kennaren. Fortunately had been in the habit of visiting Gallagher's pawn shop, on the corner of Penn and O'Hara streets, where he was privileged to examine the articles in the store. Among other things which particularly attracted his attention were several time pieces—a lady's gold watch, a silver hunting case watch inscribed "presented to Capt. ——, by Company I, ——Pa. Vols.," two silver watches with no inscriptions, together with a valuable gold ring. He called in several times to examine the stock, and after each visit a deficiency was observed. Finally he was arrested by the proprietor, who discovered him in the act of stowing a watch into his pocket. Nothing was said, and John departed, but had not walked half a square before he was arrested, taken before Alderman Taylor and the time piece taken from him. Search warrant was then issued, and his room on Anderson street, Allegheny, near the bridge, examined, when the other watches and the ring were found in his trunk. The circumstantial evidence was so very strong that the Alderman felt justified in committing him to jail for trial on a charge of larceny.

Popular as Ever.

Notwithstanding the great run on the Continental, Thanksgiving Day, by lovers of the pure, the fresh and the wholesome, in edibles, the establishment will be found open to-day, and its patrons need have no fear that in quantity or quality their allowance will be anything inferior to what it has been heretofore. The best of fresh Oysters, Game and all the delicacies of the season will be found on the tables to-day, served in that princely style which has always been a peculiarity of the Continental. Merchants, doctors, preachers, lawyers, and the great public generally, will find this popular establishment an excellent place at which they can appease their appetites. It is located right below the post office, on Fifth avenue, and is always open day and evening, so that the hungary one may have his wants supplied at any hour. Drop in.

Western Union Telegraph Company.

Telegraph Rates Reduced.—The Western Union Telegraph Company have this day reduced their rates from Pittsburgh to Titusville, Oil City, Rouseville and all offices in the oil country to twenty cents for ten words.

Rates between all offices in the oil regions are also reduced to twenty cents, while the rate from those offices to Philadelphia and Baltimore is made fifty cents and to New York sixty-five cents. The tariff from Pittsburgh to Milwaukee has been reduced to eighty-five cents.

PREPARE FOR WINTER.

The Great Fur Emporium of Wm. Fleming & Co., No. 139 Wood Street—An Immense Stock—Prices 15 to 25 Per Cent. Lower than Elsewhere.

It is an established fact in trade that the merchant who purchases from first hands, and for cash, can always secure a great advantage in prices, and will be enabled to sell his goods at a considerable reduction below that of other dealers. This is one secret of the great success which has attended the old, reliable and popular Fur Emporium of Wm. Fleming & Co., No. 139 Wood street, and has made the establishment take the lead in this line ahead of all other houses in this part of the country. By thus purchasing they are enabled to sell at from 15 to 25 per cent. lower than any other house, while the goods, selected by an experienced buyer with the greatest care, are bought for cash, and always the latest which can be had in the market. Added to this, the immense stock with which the Emporium is crowded, comprising literally everything to be found in the trade, insures customers a choice which cannot be excelled. There is such a quantity of styles and qualities, all varieties and prices, that no one can possibly be disappointed in getting the articles they desire. The stock is kept up by daily arrivals from the East, and is thus always new, fresh and attractive. There can be found at any time a fine assortment of ladies and children's furs, made from mink, sable, Hudson Bay sable, German fitch, Siberian squirrel, water mink, black and brown sables, Astracan and Persian lamb made into sacques, berthas, Eugenias, collars, cuffs, muffs, boas, &c.

Messrs. Fleming & Co may congratulate themselves upon having the largest and most popular Fur and Hat emporium in this section. The greatest evidence of this fact is seen in the throngs of purchasers who daily crowd the salesroom, and keep the very large force of salesmen constantly busy in supplying their wants. This is the best possible proof that they are purchasing to the best advantage, and by the fact that no house anywhere is better acquainted and enjoys such advantages to secure bargains at the lowest figures. Call and examine the stock then learn the prices, and you cannot fail to be convinced that Wm. Fleming & Co.'s, 139 Wood street, is the place for rare bargains.

Fine Clothing.

Mr. W. Hespenheide, No. 50 Sixth street (late St. Clair), is now prepared to make up winter suits and overcoats for gentlemen, of the finest materials, warranted to fit, and to be equal in every respect to anything of the kind to be obtained in the city. Mr. Hespenheide's long experience in the trade and the patronage which he has enjoyed heretofore is a sufficient guarantee of the style and quality of the goods manufactured by him, and that the establishment will be conducted in a gentlemanly manner. Persons desiring fine clothing, at reasonable prices, will find it to their interest to call upon Mr. Hespenheide, who is now receiving his fall and winter stock of goods, and will be found to suit.

Books, Books, Books!

Col. J. D. Egan's assortment of books, at his store, No. 41 Sixth avenue, is very full and complete, and contains volumes for Sunday-school libraries and minister, physicians and lawyers, editors and merchants, and everybody in general who has a taste for reading. Novels, Prices and gold pens and magazines may be found on his counters, together with a fine stock of stationery, all of which are for sale at prices which are the astonishment of those who have heretofore been paying exorbitant rates.

Have You Seen It?

The greatest novelty which mechanical art has yet produced is the Dexter Washing Machine.

Chapped Hands, face and all roughness of the skin, certainly cured by using the Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It surpasses all other remedies as it will prevent roughness of the skin if used. Although which, as the first explorer, he chapping cold weather. It is easily applied, avoiding all the trouble of the greasy compounds now in use. It can be used by ladies with the most tender skin, causing no irritation or pain, making it soft and clear. Sold by the druggists generally.

We are pleased to note that the popularity of the Keystone pottery ware is steadily increasing, and that Messrs. Kerr & Co. almost daily receiving orders which evidence this fact. There is no reason why Pittsburgh as this branch of manufacture should not be as successful as in others. Happily, if there are any misgivings on this point, the doubter can easily be satisfied by calling at 284 Liberty street, and examining the stock.

The headquarters for fashions in ladies dress goods and trimmings is at Moorhead's, No. 81 Market street, which is daily crowded with patrons from all parts of the city and surroundings, who take delight in examining and purchasing from the large, carefully selected stock of goods always on hand. They always have the latest and most desirable goods to be found in the establishment, and which they feel satisfied is of the latest styles and patterns.

Thanksgiving Day, 1869, with all its feasting, and merriment and general jollification, and all about thankfulness, has passed into history, but the one great fact still remains that at Lindsey's great Trunk Emporium, No. 104 Wood street, the best and cheapest articles in the trade, from the largest Saratoga to the smallest satchel, may be obtained. Call to-day, and you will be pleased with your visit.

Youngson's Saloon corner Smithfield street and Diamond alley, is justly popular for the excellence of its "manipe." Everything about the establishment is kept in the nicest manner, and the articles prepared for the palate are of the most tempting and appetizing character. Ladies can procure meals at any hour of the day. No place in the city is more deserving of patronage.

Phrenology.—The rooms of Fowler & Wells, Lafayette Hall, are thronged day and evening. Examinations, with chart and full written descriptions, giving advice as to health, self culture, best business, selection of companions, &c.

Employment Office.—Girls wanted for cooks and private families in the city. R. H. Long, at No. 12 Federal street, near bridge, Allegheny City, at the Dexter Washing Machine Office.

Dry Goods at Burns', corner Sixth avenue and Smithfield street.

Redpath Oratory from a Female Stab

The Hartford papers have for the past few days been showing up Kate Fisher. But Kate is not to be snubbed, as the following speech, which was spoken between the acts at the Hartford theatre, on Monday night, and was frequently applauded by the gallery, shows:

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—I thank you for your kind attendance and patronage, this evening; for I have been handsomely fully abused and villified by the Hartford press. One paper in particular—the Hartford Times—says that I appear in tights and false calves! I should like to know how he knows that I appear in false calves, unless you have heard the story of Peeping Tom of Coventry and have a Peeping Tom in Hartford, who looks through the keyhole of my dressing-room. As soon as I leave here I shall go to Boston, where I shall arrange my property and endeavor to raise money enough for bail, and then I will sue him, and make him prove that I wear false calves! But, ladies and gentlemen, whether in costume, as a lady, or gentleman—whether on or off the stage—I will always endeavor to merit your applause, and, what I value more, your respect and esteem."

The number of criminals in the Province of Prussia is increasing so rapidly, that all the prisons and penitentiaries are overcrowded, and many sentences in criminal cases cannot be carried out at present, for want of room.

A Female Sharper.

On Saturday afternoon a woman drove along North St. Paul street in a top-buggy and pulled up by the curb stone on the west side of the street, and within a few paces of Main street. She stood up in the buggy and commenced ringing a small tea bell. The sidewalk on Main street was pretty well thronged at the time, and the sight was so unusual that only a few moments passed before there was a couple dozen of wondering and surprised looking persons gathered about the vehicle. When her audience was large enough to make a quorum, she took from her pocket a five dollar greenback, and announced that she would exchange it for four dollars with any one in the crowd. There was some hesitation at first, but assuring her hearers that the money was good, she at last found a taker. The bill was inspected and found to be genuine. She then gave the four dollars for three, the three for two, two for one, one for fifty cents, fifty for twenty five cents, twenty-five for ten, and threw the last shin-plaster into the excited throng that by this time had assembled on the walk. By this period the crowd was making money and every individual was jubilant. The generous woman then took from a satchel a number of watches with open backs by which the works could be seen. They were attached to extensive chains of a rich gold color, and these she offered at the low price of five dollars each. Several of the crowd believed that money could be made in buying these time-pieces, as well as in purchasing greenbacks. They did buy and the woman sold; business grew lively with this new curb stone merchant. Around her neck was a heavy chain, to which was attached a watch; and one individual, more cunning than the others, thought he would offer a five dollar bill for it. She sold it, and the man, too, as far as we can understand. A few moments afterward, in the height of the tumult and noise over the bargains, this female sharper picked up the reins and drove away at a lively gait, leaving many of her victims vacantly gazing after her.—Rochester Democrat.
