FINANCE AND TRADE

(By Telegraph from the Mercantile Journal.)

New York, April 12, 1870.

Money rather more active at $697 on call. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting gold to New York, and it is now thought necessary to carry their gold, instead of having it carried as usual in the room. This undoubtedly affects the demand.

Specie is at $162.50. Some few bankers have a large supply of cotton bills on hand which they do not offer.

Gold lower, chiefly in consequence of a fall in the price of bullion, and of the gold on the shoulders of the Gold Standard.

Governments lower, but closed steady. Gold and silver coins are at $162.50.
