GOLD, SILVER AND COUPONS. Interest Allowed on Deposits. JAMES T. BRADY & CO. THE DAILY GAZETTE. MONEY AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE. The manipulations of the market have advanced again to 117 1/2, with a strong market, and government bonds have likewise advanced under the influence of the higher gold premium. The funding bill seems to have no chance to pass, and therefore the advance coincided with the easy money market. Stocks are stronger and higher, and advance considerably, higher before a reaction can be counted on. In local securities municipal bonds and bank stocks are inquired for, but railroad stocks are not much demanded. Money easy at 7 to 9 per cent. Closing quotations as received by P. H. MERTZ:

PITTSBURGH MARKET. There is nothing new or especially important to be said about the market in a general way. Business generally, although by no means brisk, is about what could be expected under the circumstances. As trade is usually a little slack at this season of the year, as the best part of the spring business is over, some of our grain merchants are operating pretty largely along the river for grain that formerly was shipped to Cincinnati, and are relatively higher than here, and as freights are low (by river) there is a much better margin than any of the eastern markets afford. One Pittsburgh firm sold seven thousand bushels of oats to go to Cincinnati, the other day, and quite a number of large shipments of oats and corn have been made to that market within the past few weeks, and the parties involved realized a very handsome margin. It looks somewhat singular to see Pittsburgh grain sent to Cincinnati, as heretofore, they usually thought for Pittsburgh, but, as already intimated, prices are higher relatively than here, and the difference in freights makes it a much more desirable point for Pittsburgh at least, than Philadelphia or any of the eastern markets. And this accounts for the very reduced stock of grain here, as the great proportion of the grain that is now being shipped from along the river to that market in former years, was shipped to Philadelphia. Pittsburgh certainly has no right to complain, however, as it leads, indirectly, it may be, to help holders of oats and corn here to be better off.

APPLES.—The supply is light and the market is rapidly drawing to a close. We continue to quote at 11 to 12 1/2 per bushel. BUTTER.—There is no improvement to be seen in the market.
