

THE DAILY GAZETTE

OFFICIAL PAPER OF Pittsburgh, Allegheny City and Allegheny County.

MAZETTE BUILDING: Corner of Sixth Avenue and South Third Street.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 16, 1870.

Boxed in Franklin, Pa.

Printed in Allegheny, Pa.

Good closed in New York Saturday at 114.

An effort will be made to improve Mr. CURVING's suggestion, and by the pending tariff on the table. The existing law is more favorable to American interests than anything yet conceded to us by the Committee of the Whole.

RECORDS from the Indian country are more favorable. The leading news writers have a deposit on their hands to write. The Big Horn expedition seems to threaten the only serious difficulty in the way of a pacific arrangement.

The Secretary of the Treasury talks of reducing the public debt some fifteen million this month. Everybody expects that this is a step towards the reduction of the public debt, but some people seem to have changed their minds recently, and don't wait the debt paid off, so long as that would cost anything to the taxpayer. We incline to think that a large majority of the people were in earnest when they said they are not of the same mind now, and are desirous of a few steps towards keeping the public debt under control.

On account of the fact that the Treasury is supposed to have been Mr. Mackay's, it is not surprising that the Treasury should be in a state of confusion. The Treasury is supposed to have been Mr. Mackay's, and it is not surprising that the Treasury should be in a state of confusion.

Mr. Kemble went out of office short, and his successor did nothing for one whole year, to recover from him the amount due to the Treasury. The Treasury is supposed to have been Mr. Mackay's, and it is not surprising that the Treasury should be in a state of confusion.

THE NOMINATING CONVENTION. At the meeting of the Republican Executive Committee on Saturday, the 14th inst., it was decided that two conventions should be held on the 30th of August, with the primary elections on the Saturday preceding, the 1st of September. The first convention will select the Congressional and Legislative ticket, and to the other will follow the ticket of the nominations for the local offices.

In fixing these dates, the Committee have wisely recognized the direction of public opinion, which was decidedly in favor of an earlier opening of the canvass. Candidates and the people will find ample time to become acquainted with the names and positions of the candidates, and to prepare to select the best and most popular men. The tickets will still have some time to be made known to the people, and where all the candidates are personally known to the great body of the electors.

On Friday evening, the 11th inst., a party of about a dozen, who have done more for humanity than any other woman living. It is needless to say that quiet, noble woman is Miss DONORINA L. FRAZER, who has been in the city for some time, and is well known to the friends of the cause. She is a native of the State of Ohio, and has been in the city for some time, and is well known to the friends of the cause.

THE SENATORIAL CONVENTION. The period is at hand for the regular appointment of the representatives of the State of Pennsylvania. There are three of these offices, one for each district. The present incumbents are all Democrats, and all of them have been conspicuously successful in representing their constituents. It is not surprising that the Democratic party should be in a position to elect a majority of the people. Indeed, the record of the past few years, at Philadelphia, has richly earned a public confidence not limited by the State boundaries. It is not surprising that the Democratic party should be in a position to elect a majority of the people.

without consent of the owners thereof, shall remain in such owners, subject to the use for which it is taken. No person convicted of bribery, perjury or other infamous crime, or of delinquency in the discharge of his official duties, shall be eligible to office. All bills before the Legislature must be read in each House on three separate days, and the yeas and nays on the passage shall be entered on the journals. No bill shall be taken up for consideration until it has been read in each House on three separate days, and the yeas and nays on the passage shall be entered on the journals.
