The CHURCH continues to pour into the country. They make a great market which is not overestimated with them. But few have pushed their way out of Ohio.

With the will be confirmed in the important question of the newspaper correspondence. Mr.

Akersman, the newly appointed Attorney General. It is highly probable that he will be confirmed.

The mild mannered Indiana of the Annapolis and Chicago are on the war path, consulting all sorts of devices. A little more of this kind of talk of peace would be wholesome about this time. The rate of immigration is not so much of a relief as it was formerly. It is not so much of a relief as it was formerly. It is not so much of a relief as it was formerly. It is WORKING POWER OF MAN.

Address of George

Wood, L. L. D., President of the Western University, delivered June 22, 1870.

There were, in all, eight professors in the Department of Arts, in my Alma Mater, while I was in college. There were highly cultivated men, all scholars, well known to scholars in our land, and most of them well known by reputation in other lands. Four have died at an advanced age of seventy, one of three at forty-four. Four still survive at the age of nearly sixty, all in health, strong men. One voluminous author at the age of seventy-one, recently gave me a new and thoroughly revised edition of his "Principles of Philosophy," and another his translation of Dante. One stood at his post fifty-three years and died with the harness on. Another on completing his fifty years of labor, one year ago, he came the recipient of tokens of gratitude and respect. "I do not know what it is,"

he said, "but he is well and active and satisfied with his lot. He is a man of Providence. During these fifty years

I have graduated at this college in the Department of Arts in that time, have been a member of the faculty, and have
