The Culture of Indian Corn.

AND THE WAY TO MAKE MANURE FOR IT. Our correspondent, Hon. J. W. Colburn, of Springfield, (Vt.), says the Albany Cultivator, received the prizes of his State and County Agricultural Societies for the best field of Indian Corn, the last year. The field contained seven and a half acres, and the product averaged one hundred and five bushels (56 lbs the bushel) per acre. The cobs weighed 12 lbs. per bushel. Mr. C. has sent us the statement which he furnished the Societies, of the manner in which this crop was grown. It is particularly interesting, showing as it does, how he made sufficient manure to enable him to apply it in such abundance to this field. We know it will be doubted by some whether he acted wisely in manuring so heavily; but if all our farmers will follow his example in the measures he took to increase the amount of his manure, they will have little occasion to send abroad for artificial fertilizers.—Mr. Colburne says:—

The soil of this field is alluvial, and was broken up to the depth of six inches, after a coating of manure of 40 loads to each acre, spread broadcast, had been applied in the spring of 1852. The plow used was the Eagle C, turning a flat furrow, and performing its work admirably and here permit me to digress a moment, from the subject, while I say, (and I speak from my own experience,) that in my judgment, there are no plows in existence, taking into account the ease of draft, the depth and thoroughness of their work, that are so accurately and well adapted to an improved cultivation, as the various kinds of the deep tilleries of the Eagle Class, manufactured by Ruggles, Nourse & Mason.

This field was planted with corn which soon came up, and the prospects for a good crop were flattering; but as often happens on sward land, the copper head grub or cut worm, made its appearance, and destroyed most of the first, and considerable portion of second planting. I however, harvested about 50 bushels of corn to the acre, and a large quantity of pumpkins.

Being desirous to obtain an extra crop of corn from this field before seeding to grass, in the spring of 1853, I applied broadcast, 50 cart loads of manure to each acre, making 90 loads to each acre, in the two years. The loads were large, side boards upon the cart body, and would contain 35 bushels potatoe measure. The manure was in different stages of decomposition; a part of it was from the hog yard, fine and rotten, some of it a compost heap, made up of horse and clip manure, leached ashes, rich loam from the ditches on road sides, broken bones, the scrapings of the poultry house, &c. often shoveled over during the summer season, kept dising upon the tops, on which were dished through all the encircling wash from the kitchen and chambers of dwelling.—That portion from hog yard, was made up of turfs from road sides, rich loam from under stable floors, decaying leaves from the forests, brakes from the pasture, green weeds and thistles, potatoe vines, the cobs of 800 bushels of corn, and all other refuse matter that came to hand. There were 128 loads of strong manure from these two sources, and after paying for the labor of putting in material and working it over, the actual value of it when taken out and applied to the soil, left a large balance towards defraying the expense of raising and fattening the swine that helped to make and work it over. I would here remark that I have no swamp or muck bed upon my farm; I have no such mine of wealth to resort to, to swell the manure heaps and enrich my lands; if I had, I believe I should know how to appreciate and use it; but such means as I have at command, I endeavor to make the most of.

The balance of the manure applied to this field of seven and a half acres, was made in, without adding any material except refuse straw which was used freely enough to keep the yards warm and dry, and to absorb the liquid portion of the droppings, horse and cattle stalls kept bedded so as to take up and absorb the urine, and the course part of corn fodder adds very much to yard manure. This portion was rather coarse, and was applied in its green state, which necessarily required labor of the one man when the plow was running, to brush it into the furrow, so that no obstruction to a thorough plowing should exist. It was plowed 19 inches deep, 4 inches under the decayed sward with a short mould-board plow, breaking and pulverizing the soil and mixing the manure with it, which with a thorough after harrowing, left one of the best prepared fields for Indian Corn, that could possibly be obtained.

The planting took place on the 16th of May, with the corn planter, dropping plaster and ashes with the seed, about six bushels to the acre, the rows north and south, four feet distance and hills two feet. At the first hoeing the stalks were designed to be reduced to three in each hill, but in many hills four were left. A mixture of ashes and plaster, a single handful to each hill, was then applied, and after the second hoeing, plaster alone, a table spoonful to each hill, the third hoeing soon followed, all done with care and neatness, using the cultivator and elevating the earth but slightly around the hills.

The manuring of the year previous, together with the decayed sward, seemed to bring the young corn forward with astonishing rapidity in its earlier stages, and the last manuring with the deep plowing and thorough culture told with powerful effect in maturing the crop.

It was cut up at the bottom in Sept., as the husks began to assume a dry appearance, each man taking three rows and setting around every third hill of the centre row, which was left standing to support the shock, a man followed with rye-straw, putting a strong band around the shock above the ears; after standing three weeks the hocking commenced and was finished on the 15th of October, making no assortment, as it was all dry and sound. The sample shown you is no better than the whole will average. It is a mixture of the eight and twelve rowed varieties, with a small cob and deep flat kernel, and is now grown eight, ten and twelve rows of kernels upon the cobs, which weigh only twelve pounds after shelling off fifty-six pounds of the kernel. By this method of harvesting it will be seen that the shock or fodder is not separated; it is set up in shocks of convenient size to be put on to a cart with a hay fork, or it can be husked in the field if the weather is good and the fodder drawn in afterwards. It cures well and is worth more for winter forage than by any other process I have ever tried.

In conclusion, gentlemen, permit me to say, that in my experience of growing this crop for the last twenty-five years, I cannot resist the conviction that with our soil and climate and the best of preparation and cultivation, not much over one hundred bushels to the acre can possibly be obtained. There is no better soil for the production of this valuable grain than the alluvial bottom lands bordering upon the Connecticut River, and yet when I have done my best on these lands, I have often fallen short than gone over one hundred bushels to the acre. This is a great yield and requires extraordinary effort, with a very favorable season to obtain it. Whenever I see the enormous yield of one hundred and thirty to one hundred and fifty bushels to the acre, I cannot but entertain the opinion, that some inaccuracy in the measurement has been made, though perhaps not designedly. I know these remarks are gratuitous and may be deemed impertinent, but they are not designed to particularize or to personalize; they only allude in general terms, to what is thought to be erroneous.

WHOLESALE BOOK AND STATIONARY HOUSE IN NEW YORK ON THE CASE PLAN: EXTENSIVE STOCKS AND NO LOSSES. Make it profitable to sell at very Low Prices. MASON BROTHERS, 23 Park Row opposite the Astor House N.Y. Offer one of the most extensive Stocks and complete assortments in the country of BOOKS AND STATIONARY, FOR CASH ONLY. The amount of goods in our line purchased by country merchants is usually quite small compared with their dry goods, hardware, and other bills, and this very circumstance absolutely compels us to sell in the book business, at a low price, in order to get larger profits in order to make up for the losses and extra expenses necessarily involved in a credit business of small amounts. It is also easy for the merchant to make arrangements to buy the book bill for cash, though it might not be so convenient for him to purchase his larger bills in this way.

These considerations have led us to adopt in our business, from this date, January, 1854, the following principle, viz. SMALL PROFITS, EXTENSIVE STOCKS AND VERY LOW PRICES. Being ourselves the sole publishers of a number of the leading and most extensively selling School Books in the country, as well as works in other departments, our facilities are unimpeded. Call upon us, or send an order, and judge for yourselves, if the saving you can make by buying of us for cash is worth while. Our location is very central, and easily found. Stand on the Astor house steps, look straight forward across the corner of the Park, and you cannot avoid seeing our signs. REMEMBER THE NAME IS MASON BROTHERS. March 2, 1854.

5000 CHALLENGE. Whatever concerns the happiness and health of a people is at all times of the most valuable importance. I take it for granted that every person will do all in their power, to save the lives of their children, and that every person will endeavor to promote their own health at all sacrifices. I feel it to be my duty to solemnly assure you that worms, according to the opinion of the most celebrated Physicians, are the primary causes of a large majority of diseases to which children and adults are liable; if you have an appetite continually chargeable from one kind of food to another, Bad Breath, Pain in the Stomach, Picking at the Nose, Hardness and Fullness of the Belly, Dry Cough, Slow Fever, Pulse Irregular—remember that all these denote worms, and you should at once apply the remedy:—

Hobensack's worm Syrup. An article founded upon Scientific Principles, compounded with purely vegetable substances, being perfectly safe when taken, & can be given to the most tender Infant with decided beneficial effect, where Bowel Complaints and Diarrhoea have made them weak and debilitated, the Tonic properties of my Worm Syrup are such, that it stands with an equal in the catalogue of medicines, in giving tone and strength to the Stomach which makes it an infallible remedy for those afflicted with Dyspepsia, the astonishing cures performed by this Syrup after Physicians have failed, is the best evidence of its superior efficacy over all others.

The Tape Worm! This is the most difficult Worm to destroy of all that infest the human system. It grows to an almost indefinite length, becoming so coiled and fastened in the Intestines and Stomach affecting the health so sadly as to cause St. Vitus Dance, Fits, &c. that those afflicted seldom if ever suspect that it is Tape Worm haunting them to an early grave. In order to destroy this Worm a very energetic treatment must be pursued, it would therefore be proper to take 6 or 8 of my Liver Pills so as to remove all obstructions, that the Worm Syrup may act directly upon the Worm which must be taken in doses of 2 Table spoon's full 3 times a day, these directions followed, have never been known to fail in curing the most obstinate case of Tape Worm.

Hobensack's Liver Pills. No part of man is more liable to disease than the Liver, it serving as a filter to purify the blood, or giving the proper secretion to the bile; so that any wrong action of the Liver affects the other important parts of the system, and results variously, in Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, &c.—We should, therefore, watch every symptom that might indicate a wrong action of the Liver. These Pills being composed of Roots and Plants furnished by nature to heal the sick; Namely 1st, An Expectant, which augments the secretion from the Pulmonary mucus membrane, or promotes the discharge of secreted matter. 2d, An Alterative, which changes in some explicable and insensible manner, the certain morbid action of the system. 3d, A Tonic, which gives tone and strength to the nervous system, restoring health and vigor to all parts of the body. 4th, A Cathartic, which acts in perfect harmony with the other ingredients, and operating on the Bowels, and expelling the whole mass of corrupt and vitiated matter, and purifying the Blood, which destroys disease and restores health.

To Females. You will find these Pills an invaluable medicine in many complaints to which you are subject. In obstructed either total or partial, they have been found of inestimable benefit, restoring their fractional arrangements to a healthy action, purifying the blood and other fluids so effectually, as to fight all complaints which may arise from female irregularities, as head ache, giddiness, dimness of sight, pain in the side, back, &c.
