

The Ward Case. LETTER OF HON. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN. ST. LOUIS, May 14, 1854.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 2d inst. was received a few days ago, and you may be assured that the motives which dictated it are properly understood and appreciated.

You desire information in relation to my appearance as counsel in the late trial of young Ward, in order that my friends may be better able to vindicate my conduct from the unjust censure which, without reflection, has been cast upon it.

I have had nothing to do with the case except professionally, as counsel for the accused. My connexion with it may be stated in a few words. Details are unnecessary and immaterial.

Relations of private friendship had from my earliest manhood existed between me and many of the members of the family to which belonged Robert J. Ward, Esq., the father of the accused.

He and I had long been personal friends, and a friend he was to be loved and valued.

When he was in the deepest distress and agony, it was made known to me that he desired I should appear as counsel for his sons, then imprisoned and awaiting their trial under a heavy load of prejudice and excitement. Could I, as a professional man—could I, as a friend, have refused to do so? No, I could not.

The very responsibility of appearing in the case, under the existing excitement, made it the more necessary for me to do it, or appear to be a timid lawyer and worthless friend.

After considering of the matter, and the repeated solicitations of common friends, I determined not to reject the appeals made to me, but to appear in the case and render to the accused such professional services as I could.

I determined also that I would receive no fee for my services. I believe that I might exact almost what amount of compensation I pleased, and this was felt by me as a reason why I should take none. I shrank from the idea of appearing even of bargaining with a distressed friend, or speculating upon his misfortunes or his generosity. Having come to these conclusions, I informed Mr. Matt. Ward of them by a note addressed to him some few weeks before his trial, and received from him a letter of grateful acknowledgements.

His father was then absent in New Orleans, as I supposed.

I accordingly appeared for him, and defended him with what ability I could; but I neither did nor said anything that was not within the strictest limits of an honest and honorable discharge of professional duty.

The trial took place at Elizabethtown, the seat of justice of Hardin county, about eighty or one hundred miles from my residence in Frankfort.

I had nothing to do with the preparation of the case or the selection of a jury. These professional duties were performed by other counsel, better acquainted with the facts of the case and the persons presented as jurors. I have no reason to doubt that these duties were performed in a manner becoming the profession, and the honorable character of the counsel on whom they devolved. I may say that I had nothing to do with the case but to argue it before the Court and jury. The trial, so far as I know or could observe, was, in all respects, fairly conducted.

At this time I engaged to appear in the case, I had heard nothing of it but what might have been gathered from common rumor.

I have done nothing but what my judgment and my feelings approved. I have in the exercise of my profession appeared as counsel for a friend, the son of a friend, and for that I have no defence to make. I did not intrude myself into the cause. I appeared in it not only because they wished it. I am your friend, &c.

J. J. CRITTENDEN. L. H., Esq., New Orleans.

A Man rescued after being Buried Twenty Days.

An accident happened to two well diggers at Beally, near Lyons, which has awakened an universal and thrilling interest. About the middle of April, when at the depth of some thirty feet from the surface, they were overwhelmed and covered alive by a caving in of the earth above them. By good fortune, some pieces of plank and timber, which were brot down with the earth, lodged crosswise, sustaining the earth above their heads, and leaving a hole about eight inches in diameter. Food was supplied through an opening only a few inches in extent. After a few days, one of the buried men, succumbing under his sufferings, died; and soon his decaying body added another to the horrors of the situation of the survivor. But at length, after twenty days of unremitting and most arduous labor, Girard, the survivor was reached and restored to the light of day. His sufferings, mental and physical, have been dreadful, and it must be some time before he can recover that health of which the physicians give strong hopes. Girard has become the recipient of benevolent offerings from all quarters,—and, among others, a pension of six hundred francs a year from the Empress.

A Dose as is a Dose. The following account of a very remarkable effect produced by electricity, we copy from the Courier Del Europe:

"A gentleman employed in one of the telegraph offices in France, accidentally brought his arm in contact with one of the wires while the electric current was passing through it. So violent was the shock, that he was raised from his chair and thrown with great force through an open window into the adjoining garden. When he recovered his senses, he had no recollection of what had happened, and could only be convinced of it by finding that his hair and beard, were previously of a beautiful jet black, had become in various places as white as snow. It devolves on men of science to explain this phenomenon, which will form an epoch in the history of electricity."

A Rascal—Mark Him. The Rochester Advertiser gives the following account of the career of a reverend rascal, who has been committing deprecations upon the community for some time past. It says:

"Last autumn there appeared in Henniker, N. H., a man calling himself Rev. G. N. Adams, about 35 years of age, whose professed object was to stir up the people of that portion of the Granite State to a proper sense of the value of religion, education and temperance. He represented himself as a clergyman in the M. E. Church, in regular standing, and exhibited credentials, forged, of course to that effect.

"At meetings for prayer he was particularly exercised; but, with all his spiritual devotion, he did not wholly lose sight of worldly ones, since he soon commenced paying his addresses to a daughter of the resident Congregational minister of the place, whose affections he won, and whose peace of mind and reputation he succeeded in destroying. To do this, however, he had promised marriage to his victim, and made ostentatious preparations for the nuptial ceremonies. While he was thus pursuing his schemes of villainy, he affected great abstemiousness in diet—was much troubled with dyspepsia—but took care to make frequent visits to Concord, where he made ample amends for his abstinence, by a free indulgence in champagne and oysters.—While laboring for the "good of souls," in Henniker, his expenditures upon the body, in the way above stated had amounted to over fifty dollars.

"While thus engaged, he became acquainted with Mrs. Emma G. Templeton, whose husband and one child were killed at the Norfolk bridge catastrophe in May. For this sad bereavement she was awarded $5,000 by the railroad company, and word was sent that the money would be paid in New York city. Of course, a circumstance like this would not be likely to escape the recognition of so busy a man as the "Rev. G. N. Adams," and he volunteered his services in getting the money. The necessary papers for this purpose were made out, and away went the volunteer to New York, where he drew the money, put it in his pocket, and suddenly disappeared from public view, thus robbing a lone widow of nearly all her reliance for subsistence, and leaving behind a duped young woman, exposed to the pitiless peltings of an unforgiving world.

The Sunday preceding his departure, he officiated in one of the pulpits in Henniker, and in a selection of texts seems to have copied somewhat from a performance known as the life of Stephen Burroughs. He selected as a text for his morning's discourse, Numbers 32 chapter, and last clause of the 23 verse: "And be sure your sin will find you out." This doubtless was designed to strike home to the heart of the woman whom he had injured and was about to abandon. In the afternoon he grew waggish, as his selection of a text would seem to imply. It was found in John, 5th chapter, 21st verse; "I go my way and ye shall seek me." No doubt he thought this an excellent joke to perpetrate upon those who had dealt so kindly by him.

The graceless scoundrel embodies in himself a varied and deep dye history.—His father was a resident of Chataqua county, highly respected by the community in which he dwelt. But it was his misfortune to have one son—the rascal in question—who gave early indication of an infamous manhood; which his subsequent acts have but too fully verified. He served a term of three and a half years in the State prison for counterfeiting, and on his enlargement got married to a woman, named Smith, and who was residing in Chataqua county at the time her husband was at his labors in New Hampshire. He is a pompous, brazen faced scoundrel, and was last seen in Charleston, Vt.

It may not be out of place to add that Mrs. Adams appeared at the scene of his exploits at Henniker, shortly after it was discovered that he had embezzled the money. She represented herself in strained circumstances, and through the efforts of Mrs. Templeton among the neighbors, was supplied with $5, with which she suddenly decamped, it was not altogether ignorant of the proceedings of her husband.

LUMPY LARD.—Mr. Wm. H. Lewelling, inspector of provisions in Norfolk, was called upon by a merchant on Wednesday to inspect a lot of 14 kegs of lard which had just come down on the railroad from North Carolina; and as he usually does his work thoroughly, discovered in the middle of about ten of the kegs, deposits of bricks, billets of heavy wood, rocks, and flat irons! Mr. Lewelling informed the Herald that this is not the first fraud in lard which he has detected recently.

DR. J. LANTZ, DENTIST. Has permanently located himself in Stroudsburg, and moved his office next door to Dr. S. Walton, and nearly opposite St. Melick's Jewelry store, where he is fully prepared to treat the natural teeth, and is also inserted in the latest and most improved manner. Most persons know the danger and folly of trusting their work to the ignorant as well as the travelling dentist. It matters not how much experience a person may have, he is liable to have some failures out of a number of cases, and if the dentist lives at a distance, it is frequently out of the question to have the teeth or teeth as it may be, otherwise the inconvenience and trouble of going so far—Hence the necessity of obtaining the services of a detritis near home. All work warranted.

Stroudsburg and Easton Port Jervis, Mauch Chunk and Scranton

STAGE LINES. The Stroudsburg and Easton mail line of stages, consists of excellent four horse coaches, and leaves J. J. Postens' Indian Queen Hotel, Stroudsburg, Pa. every day (except Sundays) at 7 o'clock A. M. arriving in Easton before the departure of the cars for New York, or stages to Bethlehem and Allentown.

A line to Mauch Chunk, leaving at 6 o'clock A. M. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, via Brodheadville, where it connects with lines to Wilkes Barre & White Haven, returning on alternate days.

The following lines leave Postens' Indian Queen Hotel, Stroudsburg, Pa. daily: A line to Port Jervis, leaving at 7 o'clock A. M. via Bushkill, Dingman's Choice and Milford. Retaining leaves Port Jervis immediately after the arrival of the morning train of cars to New York, at about 8 o'clock A. M.

A line to Scranton, leaving at 4 o'clock A. M. via Bartonville, Tannersville, where it connects with a line to Honesdale, and connecting at Scranton with the cars for the west.

These lines hold out strong inducements to the traveling public—passing through sections of the country which are as magnificent and picturesque as any in the Union. Having provided themselves with excellent coaches, good horses, and careful drivers, they feel confident that they will be enabled to give entire satisfaction to all who will patronize them.

STOUFFER & OSTRANDER, Proprietors. May 11, 1854.

PERHAM OUTDONE!! The New-York Mercantile Guide ENLARGED!!! Volume 2. A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER.

The proprietor of the above paper would respectfully call the attention of Merchants, Farmers and Mechanics, residing out of the city, to the Moderate Terms for a yearly subscription of the GUIDE, being to mail subscribers only

Hoe & Co.'s Patent Grand Saws. The subscribers manufacture from the best cast steel, circular saws, from two inches to eighty inches in diameter. Their Saws are hardened and tempered, and are ground and finished by machinery designed expressly for the purpose; and are therefore much superior to those ground in the usual manner, as they are strengthened and stiffened by increasing them in thickness regularly from the cutting edge to the centre, consequently do not become heated or buckled, and produce a great saving in timber.

They also manufacture Cast Steel Mill, Pit and Cross-Cut Saws, and Billet Wels, of superior quality, all of which they have for sale, or they may be obtained of the principal hardware merchants throughout the United States and Canada.

R. HOE & CO., 29 and 31 Gold-street.

Publishers of Newspapers who will insert this advertisement three times, with this note, and forward us a paper containing the same, will be paid in printing materials by purchasing four times the amount of their bill for the advertisement.
