

Agricultural.

A Word to Farmers.

Take care of your tools. Don't let them be rotting and rusting out, scattered abroad over your farm. Have a place for every one, where the sun and rain can not get to them. Nothing is more injurious to farming tools than to leave them exposed to the weather. Leaving ploughs, harrows, hoes, rakes, and pitchforks in the field, when done using them, is, I think, the greatest and most universal fault farmers ever committed. Where will you find the farm that has not some poor neglected tool lying on it, scorched by the sun and pelted by the rain, until it is so transmogrified that the owner himself would not know it should be used in a strange place. It injures a plough more to let it lie still, exposed to the weather, one month, than it does to use it. If a farmer has no room in his barn, or if it is not a suitable place to keep his tools, a small building would cost but a trifle, sufficient to shelter all of them, and keep them from the weather. I would recommend to all farmers to have a small workshop and a few carpenter's tools, and use them; they are fine things for boys in rainy weather; then, when they are kept from working out of doors, they will work in. Most boys are naturally inclined to such work, (mine are,) and, by constant use, they will accustom themselves to do a great many things, such as making pitchforks, rakes and axe-handles, and in that way save a great deal of expense in getting such tools done.—Dollar Newspaper.

ERRORS IN BREAD-MAKING.

Soft Bread.
What is the reason, I am asked, that soft bread is so much used? Many ignorant persons prefer it; it can be baked without much mastication, and the labor of kneading is much abridged.—Bread, to be good, requires much kneading, and to be baked until the crust is well browned.

Medical Testimony.

Medical men have had their attention drawn to this subject, (the use of alkalis in bread making,) and many efforts made to discover antidotes, and to prevent the effects of alkaline compounds; and all these medical men disagree on many points that come within their province, yet on this point they are nearly unanimous as to the cause, the effect, and the remedy.—Some of the effects of the long continued use of alkaline compounds are: heatiness, gases at the stomach, a slight sore throat, head aches, and dissections of such cases have always shown the blood to be very dissolved state. The remedy is abundance from alkaline compounds, with a diet of fresh vegetable or wholesome fare.

Buckwheat.

Buckwheat is one of heaven's blessings, but the poor or griddle cakes, in which it is mostly used, are a wasteful form of bread, and not a wholesome article by any means, and the matter is made worse by calling into operation the unculivated habit of eating butter and saccharine matter at the same time. The Germans and Russians I believe hull their buckwheat, and feed it as we do rice. In that form it is wholesome, palatable, nutritious and economical; a consideration which ought never to be lost sight of by those who have money to supply.

Indian Corn.

It is a noble grain, a rich food, nicely covered up and presented to the human family in a clean condition; no grain more so. The meal of this grain, so far as I have observed, is ground too fine, so that when it is cooked it has a pasty consistency. Corn ought to be always coarsely ground. It is naturally more friable than wheat. This friability is a valuable medicinal property, and should never be impaired by grinding or cooking. A good medicinal condition is an indispensable requisite to easy digestion; therefore friability ought to be stamped on every dish, and marked on every loaf and cake. All doughy, glutinous and pastry bread and puddings should be avoided; they do not become the tables of an intelligent and cultivated people; the time and fuel expended in preparing doughy bread, and pastry pudding is worse than a loss.

Milk in Bread.

I have more objections than one to milk in bread, but the most serious is, that persons of advanced age, who are in the daily use of milk made bread, will be exposed to suffer from an over-supply of osseous or bony matter and particularly so if their kidneys be affected. Bread should always be made with water, and when so made, it is suitable for the aged and the young, the sick and the well. And as for sour milk, a microscopic view would I presume, present additional arguments against its use.—Water-Cure Journal.

A correspondent of the New England Farmer, gives a short account of a successful experiment made last year against the potato rot. He discovered the first signs of disease on the 20th of July, all the top leaves looks as if they had been touched with a hot iron. He immediately procured a bushel of fine, ground plaster, and half a bushel of fine salt, and mixed them well together in a dry state—then put a large table-spoonful to each hill, lifting up the vines carefully and putting it on the surface of the ground, as much among the vines as it could be.—This arrested the disease at once, and the crop ripened well. He had not a rotten potato, while his neighbors lost their entire crops. The best time to put it round the potatoes is immediately after hoeing or hilling the last time.

An Irishman who was once on a journey, said he never liked to see tables full of books and newspapers where he stopped over night, "for," said he, "I can never find any whiskey at such places." A shrewd inference.

MASON BROTHERS,
22 Park Row opposite the Astor House N. Y.
Offer one of the most extensive Stocks and complete assortments in the country of
BOOKS AND STATIONERY, FOR CASH ONLY.

The amount of goods in our line purchased by country merchants is usually quite small compared with their dry goods, hardware, and other bills, and this very circumstance absolutely compels jobbers in the book business, who sell on time, to get larger profits in order to make up for the losses and extra expenses necessarily involved in a credit business of small amounts. It is also easy for the merchant to make arrangements to buy his book bill for cash; though it might not be so convenient for him to purchase his larger bills in this way.
These considerations have led us to adopt in our business, from this date, January, 1854, the following principles, viz. SMALL PROFITS, UNVARYING PRICES AND TERMS ALWAYS CASH.
Being ourselves the sole publishers of a number of the leading and most extensively selling School books in the country, as well as works in other departments, our facilities are unsurpassed.
Call upon us, or send an order, and judge for yourselves, if the saving you can make by buying of us for cash is worth a while.
Our location is very central, and easily found. Stand on the Astor House steps, and look straight forward across the corner of the Park, and you cannot avoid seeing our signs. REMEMBER THE NAME IN MASON BROTHERS.

RAISING BLOOD
And Consumption, pain in the side and night sweats, Asthma, Whooping Cough, palpitation of the heart, Liver complaint, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat, lungs and liver cured by Sherman's All-Healing Balm.
RAISING BLOOD & CONSUMPTION.
Mr. Milne, Builder, in Brooklyn, was attacked with raising blood, followed by a cough, pain in the side, and all the usual symptoms of consumption. He employed two of the best physicians; they did him no good, and told him he could not live.
Hearing of the wonderful cures performed by Sherman's Balm, he sent at 10 o'clock at night to Mrs. Hayes, 136 Fulton street, and got a bottle; it operated like a charm, stopped the bleeding and cough! Before he had taken one bottle he was able to be about his work. It had saved his life. His daughter, residing at 127 Myrtle Avenue, can attest it.
Miss Ann Maston, of Williamsburg living in Tenth, near South Fourth st., says—That she had been troubled with a hacking cough, and pain in the chest, for a long time, which at last became so bad that she was obliged to give up her school for more than a year. She then commenced taking the All-Healing Balm—which soon alleviated her symptoms. She is now fast recovering, and has resumed her laborious occupation as a teacher.
14 years Mr. John O'Neil, 10th avenue and 21st street, suffered with a cough, raising of phlegm, and pain in his side. He could get no relief till he tried the All-Healing Balm, which drove the pain from his side, allayed the cough, and brought the disease upon the surface; and before he had taken three bottles, was entirely cured.
