

New York Money Market.
From the New York Tribune, Oct. 24th.
The Money market is less stringent to-day than on Saturday, but capital is still active at full rates. The report of the Banks showing a further decrease of $1,423,000 in loans; making about three and a half millions in two weeks, together with the increased demand from the interior banks, is quite sufficient to account for the present stringency. The Banks will probably continue the policy of keeping down their loans until the actual suspension of specie shipments, or until the surplus of the arrivals from California shall have increased their specie resource again to eleven or twelve millions. The California boats of the 1st inst. are fully due, and will probably increase our stock of gold about two millions, of which it is to be hoped a portion at least may be retained in the country. The weekly boats under the new arrangement commence, we believe, on the 20th inst. from San Francisco. The first weekly boat on this side departed on the 20th.
Mr. S. C. Thompson; of the banking-house of J. Thompson has left for Indianapolis to ascertain the standing and position of the Indiana free banks. Mr. Thompson appears to be determined to procure the redemption of Indiana money, or place the banks in the hands of the Auditor for liquidation.
The Washburn Valley Bank at Logansport, Indiana, has been added to the Indiana banks which are bought in Wall-st. at 2 per cent.
We annex an extract from the circular of Messrs. Marie & Kauz, prepared for the steamer:
Nothing of particular importance has marked the week. The temporary advance spoken of in our last circular has been followed by a decline of 1 to 2 per cent. on the leading speculative stocks.—As long as the export of our produce shall not have commenced, the disposition to contract on the part of our banks must maintain the existing scarcity of money, and repress any permanent upward movement. In Railroad Bonds, with the exception of those of the Erie Railroad, the Illinois Central and the New-York Central Railroads, which are always active, the sales have been very limited. In City and County Securities, on the contrary there have been several important transactions, especially in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Sacramento's. In State Stocks sales have taken place of Indiana's and Virginia's at a decline of 2 to 3 per cent. on our previous quotations.
The amount of business done in Exchanges is small and the rates show a downward tendency.
The Merchants' Insurance Company of Boston has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent. payable on demand. The Ontario Branch Bank a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent. payable Nov. 1.
The first division of the Cincinnati and Marietta Railroad from its junction with the Little Miami to Chillicothe, a distance of 70 miles, and 93 miles from Cincinnati, was opened on the 4th inst. with an appropriate celebration.
The Money Crisis at Cincinnati.
The Cincinnati Gazette says the notes of the Indiana Free Banks are still refused by bankers, but a meeting of wholesale merchants has agreed to receive the notes of thirty-four banks from their customers, so long as the paper shall be redeemed promptly upon presentation. An agency is to be established in the city, to receive all the notes of free banks from the merchants, and return them for redemption. The same paper says:
An arrangement is in progress between our bankers and the banks of Ohio, Kentucky, Wheeling and the State Bank of Indiana, to which the former have already agreed, which promises to bring relief to the money market. Under this arrangement the bankers agree not to sell exchange above 6 premium, for six months, and not to return the notes of any bank for redemption for the same period.
The Gazette announces the failure of Messrs. Briscoe & White, grocers, whose assets, however, are said to exceed their liabilities. Speaking of the failure of the Newport Safety Fund Bank of Kentucky the Gazette remarks:
Its large notes are secured by stocks and mortgages, but there is no security for notes of a less denomination than $5. It is reported, however, that the securities held by the auditor will be used alike for the redemption of the small and large notes. The brokers talk of 20 a 25c on the dollar for the small notes.
There is no security, it appears, for the small notes. They are no doubt held by those the least able to bear the loss, and the holders will not, after waiting for months for the auditor to wind up the business of this small note machine, be legally entitled to a certificate of debt, the only capital of those pestiferous concerns called "Free Banks."

What Becomes of the Money?
This is a question asked by one of our exchange papers in reference to the money of the country. Gold has been imported from California at the rate of nearly a million a week for three or four years; and yet, in consequence of heavy imports of foreign merchandise, there is a scarcity of money.—If we have had one million in the precious metals we have received four in foreign goods. These goods are forced into market and mostly consumed from year to year, leaving us nothing to show for the two hundred millions of gold received from California. It is an inevitable result of our present commercial system, than which nothing stands more in need of reform.

DREADFUL MORTALITY.—A letter from an officer of the United States steamer Saragat, dated at Spezia, Sept. 18, states that when she was at Constantinople the combined French and English forces had lost some THIRTY THOUSAND MEN by cholera, and that they are still dying in great numbers. One English frigate lost 170 men in one night.

Sparling an Irishman.
From the Autobiography of P. T. Barnum.
While I was a clerk in the store in Bethel, Connecticut, my father kept the village tavern. I usually slept with my younger brother, Eder; but when our house was filled with travelers, we were obliged to "sleep three in a bed," by taking in our honest Irish farmer, Edmund, as sleeping partner. After the store was closed at night, I frequently joined some of our village boys in a party at the house of their parents, and what with story-telling and various kinds of "child's play," a couple of hours would glide away, and at 11 o'clock at night, which was later than my parents permitted, I would slyly creep up stairs, and crawl into bed with the greatest caution, lest I should wake my brother, who would be sure to report my late hours to my parents. My brother contrived all sorts of plans to catch me on my return home, but sleep would overtake him, and I would elude his vigilance. Sometimes he would pile trunks and chairs against the door, so that I could hardly open it without upsetting the barricade, and awakening him by the noise. I would generally manage, however, to open the door by degrees, and to get to bed without disturbing his slumbers. Among other contrivances, one night he fastened a spur upon his naked heel and went to sleep, thinking that when I got into bed I should hit the spur, and perhaps rake my skin, the pain of which would cause me to cry out and thus awake him. I retired with my usual caution that night, and discovering no contrivance, I concluded my brother had abandoned the chase, and turning my back to him, I was soon wrapped in the arms of Morpheus. It chanced that night that a number of tin peddlers and other travelers arrived at a late hour, and every bed being engaged, our Irish Edmund was obliged to sleep with us. Perceiving me stowed away on the back side of the bed, and my brother lying as usual plump in the middle, he quietly laid himself down on the front part of the bed and went to sleep. At about two o'clock I was awakened by a fearful noise. The full moon was streaming in at the window, making our bedroom as light as day.—"I'll tache ye to go to bed with a spur on, ye little devil ye," exclaimed Edmund, as he held my brother high in the air, one hand grasping his neck and the other holding the offending leg with the spur on, just over my head. "What is the matter, Edmund?" I exclaimed in surprise. "Divil a thing is the matter except this brother of yours has run his spur into me groin a matter o'three inches," replied the indignant Irishman, who was suffering under the smart of his wound. "I did not mean it for you—I meant it for Taylor," whined out my brother, only half awake. "Divil a bit do I care who ye meant it for, so that I got it," replied Edmund, at the same time giving my brother several slaps which made him yell like a young Indian. Edmund then unbeckoned the spur, and arranging us all in bed again, he turned to go to sleep, simply remarking to my brother, "The next time ye try to ride me for a horse, ye will find I am a kicking one, ye young varmint."

The Rag Business.
The newspapers of our large cities contain swindling advertisements of men who profess on the remission of a dollar by mail, to put the writer in possession of a way to make an honest living. Speaking upon this subject, the editor of the Louisville Journal suggests a way by which hundreds of young men may make a living, some of them perhaps a fortune, in a branch of business hitherto unknown.—It is not to "talk a horse and wagon and peddle seggars," according to the famous response to the green horn whose misfortune has recently been going the rounds; but to take a horse and wagon and collect rags. Go through the country, he says, put it into the heads of hundreds of families who never thought of such a thing, to save up their rags, and await your next visit, and the thing is done. Many will not save rags, because it is not worth while to take them to the mill, but in no family great or small, is there not to be found one member, who will put away the rags, which will be converted into gold without any trouble to him on the periodical call of the rag merchant.
Let everybody—no matter who—save their rags and think it not beneath the dignity of a journalist to call attention earnestly to a very simple way of obviating what threatens to become a serious evil. And you, enterprising young men, keen to make a fortune, if any one would point out to you some new path to be opened up, take courage and a rag wagon. Some twenty years ago, a poor devil who was starving on the streets of Paris was struck with a bright idea. He did not sleep upon it. He went round to all the eating houses and made a contract to take away all the refuse bones which were heretofore thrown away, and he turned his bones to such good account that he died, some short time since, a Millionaire on the accumulation of this apparently wretched trash—worthless in small quantities, but which he found means to dispose of to so good account that the cents became dollars, and so on. The great matter is to turn the dippings of every little source into one reservoir; in themselves they are insignificant and ineffectually evaporate or sink into the earth, but, united, they form the rivulets and streams and mighty oceans upon whose bosom floats the wealth of kingdoms, the commerce of the world.

IT IS ASSERTED, by a late medical writer, that soup, with the exception of the vegetable matters and shreds of meat that float in it, is entirely indigestible in the stomachs of children. The stomach digests only solid food, even milk being coagulated into a curd to undergo this process, and yet there are many farmers who have long since given up the idea of raising fine calves on fine tea, who give their children soup for dinner, under the idea that it is very nourishing.

Verdict for Whipping a Young Woman.
At Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a few days since, a school teacher was tried for cruelly whipping a female pupil 17 years of age. The judge charged the jury that the teacher stood in the place of a parent, and had a right to correct a pupil, but in so doing must exhibit a parent's feelings; and if he exceeded what was necessary to preserve order, he was liable for assault and battery. He further charged that the means used to preserve order should be adapted to the age, sex and habits of the pupil, "and left it to the jury to say whether any possible circumstance could warrant a man, whether a teacher or not, in laying his hands in violence or anger on a grown up girl."—The jury found a verdict against the teacher for the sum of $365.

DR. J. LANTZ, DENTIST.
Has permanently located himself in Stroudsburg, and moved his office next door to Dr. S. Walton, and nearly opposite S. Melick's Jewelry store, where he is fully prepared to treat the natural teeth, and also to insert incorruptible artificial teeth on pivot and plate, in the latest and most improved manner. Most persons know the danger and folly of trusting their work to the ignorant as well as the traveling dentist. It matters not how much experience a person may have, he is liable to have some failures out of a number of cases, and if the dentist lives at a distance, it is frequently put off until it is too late to save the tooth or teeth as it may be, otherwise the inconvenience and trouble of going so far.—Hence the necessity of obtaining the services of a dentist near home. All work warranted.
THE GREAT REMEDY.
About which so much has been said and published, is among us. Who has not heard of the Mexican Mustang Liniment? Many millions of bottles have been sold and used to cure Rheumatism, Ulcers, Sores, Bruises, Sprains, Ring-worm, Felons, Salt Rheum, Piles, Sore Nipples, and Caked Breasts, Cancers, Itch, Corns on the Toes, Sore Eyes, Ear-ache, Pimples, Swollen Joints or Limbs, Cuts, Scalds, or Scald Head, Numb Palsey Bunions or Frosted Feet, Warts or any other complaint that can be reached by an external remedy. And it has always been successful. It is equally good in healing Wounds, Scratches, Saddle or Harness Galls, or any Sprain, Soreness or Stiffness. And it is warranted to cure Spavin, Ring-bone, Splint or Poll evil, on Horses.
The Liniment is put up in three sizes, and retails at 25 cts. 50 cts., and $1.00.—The large bottles contain much more Liniment in proportion to the prices, and therefore cheapest.
To County Merchants.
Every store should be supplied with this valuable LINIMENT, as it pays a good profit and sells rapidly. G. W. WESTBROOK, (Successor to A. G. Bragg & Co.) Originator and sole Proprietor.

J. R. WALTON, ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Has removed his office to his dwelling, first door below the office of the "Jeffersonian Office," and directly opposite S. J. Hollinshead's hotel, Elizabeth street.
Stroudsburg, Dec. 19, 1850

DR. J. LANTZ, DENTIST.
Has permanently located himself in Stroudsburg, and moved his office next door to Dr. S. Walton, and nearly opposite S. Melick's Jewelry store, where he is fully prepared to treat the natural teeth, and also to insert incorruptible artificial teeth on pivot and plate, in the latest and most improved manner. Most persons know the danger and folly of trusting their work to the ignorant as well as the traveling dentist. It matters not how much experience a person may have, he is liable to have some failures out of a number of cases, and if the dentist lives at a distance, it is frequently put off until it is too late to save the tooth or teeth as it may be, otherwise the inconvenience and trouble of going so far.—Hence the necessity of obtaining the services of a dentist near home. All work warranted.
THE GREAT REMEDY.
About which so much has been said and published, is among us. Who has not heard of the Mexican Mustang Liniment? Many millions of bottles have been sold and used to cure Rheumatism, Ulcers, Sores, Bruises, Sprains, Ring-worm, Felons, Salt Rheum, Piles, Sore Nipples, and Caked Breasts, Cancers, Itch, Corns on the Toes, Sore Eyes, Ear-ache, Pimples, Swollen Joints or Limbs, Cuts, Scalds, or Scald Head, Numb Palsey Bunions or Frosted Feet, Warts or any other complaint that can be reached by an external remedy. And it has always been successful. It is equally good in healing Wounds, Scratches, Saddle or Harness Galls, or any Sprain, Soreness or Stiffness. And it is warranted to cure Spavin, Ring-bone, Splint or Poll evil, on Horses.
The Liniment is put up in three sizes, and retails at 25 cts. 50 cts., and $1.00.—The large bottles contain much more Liniment in proportion to the prices, and therefore cheapest.
