The Scientific American. ELEVENTH YEAR.

Splendid Engravings and Prizes.

The Eleventh Annual Volume commences on the 17th day of September, 1855.

The "Scientific American" is an illus- trated periodical, devoted chiefly to the promul- gation of information relating to the various mechanic and chemic arts, industrial man- ufactures, agriculture, patents, inventions, en- gineering, millwork, and all interests which the light of practical science is calculated to advance.

Reports of U. S. Patents granted are also published every week, including official cop- ies of all the Patent claims, together with news and information upon thousands of other sub- jects.

The contributors to the Scientific Ameri- can are among the most eminent scientific and practical men of the times. The editorial department is universally acknowledged to be conducted with great ability, and to be distinguished, not only for the excellence and truthfulness of its discussions, but for the fearlessness with which error is combated and false theories are exploded.

Mechanics, Inventors, Engineers, Chemists, Manufacturers, Agriculturists, and people of every profession in life, will find the Scientific American to be of great value in their respective callings. Its counsels and sugges- tions will save them hundreds of dollars an- nually, besides affording them a continual source of knowledge, the experience of which is beyond pecuniary estimate.

The Scientific American is published once a week; every number contains eight large quarto pages, forming annually a complete and splendid volume, illustrated with several hundred original engravings.

Specimen copies sent gratis.

Terms--Single subscriptions, $2 a year, or $1 for six months. Five copies, for six months, $4; for a year, $8.

For further Club rates and for statement of the fourteen large cash prizes, offered by the publishers, see Scientific American.
