

Post-Office Department.—Lottery Circulars.

The frequent and pertinacious attempts of those who are, or pretend to be, keepers of lottery offices, to induce Postmasters, or their assistants, to act as their agents, and the enormous amount of the schemes of real or fictitious lotteries sent by them through the mails, and addressed to Postmasters, render it peculiarly appropriate at this time to invite the attention of all Postmasters and their assistants to the 6th section of the act of Congress approved March 2, 1827.

That section declares "that no Postmaster shall act as agent for lottery offices, or under any color of purchase, or otherwise, vend lottery tickets; nor shall any Postmaster receive fee of postage, or frank, lottery schemes, circulars or tickets. For a violation of this provision, the person offending shall suffer a penalty of fifty dollars."

The order of the Department is, that "all such lottery schemes, circulars or tickets, addressed either to a Postmaster, must hereafter be excluded from the mail, together with all other transient matter of this kind addressed simply to an office, and not to an individual."—Union.

Disease amongst Cattle.

Some time since, William Stavely, of Bucks county, bought a lot of young calves, some ninety in number, from New Jersey. Two or three weeks ago, a disease broke out amongst them, which carried off a number before the nature of it could be discovered. Mr. Stavely had some of them examined after death, when the cause appeared to be a collection of small worms in the windpipe and lungs. In some of the cases, the lungs were very much diseased and hardened, making respiration almost impossible. It has been found that a dose of turpentine, about a table spoonful, administered as soon as the disease appeared, is an effectual remedy, affording almost immediate relief in the worst cases.

Extraordinary Flying Machine.

The following curious statement appears in Paris Patrie. It sounds rather fishy, but in these telegraphic times we must not be too incredulous: "The Academy of Sciences is a good deal interested at the present time by the invention of a flying machine by Don Diego de Salamanca. With this machine Don Diego's daughter, Rosanna, rose in the air, some time ago, at Madrid, to the great astonishment of the Spaniards, who are but very little accustomed to this sort of miracle. Don Diego and his daughter are about to arrive at Paris to show the effects of his marvelous invention. The machine is very simple. It consists in a case two feet long and one foot wide, adapted to a band of leather round the waist buckled behind. The two iron rods fastened to the case support a small piece of wood, on which the feet repose. The case contains a simple and ingenious mechanism, similar to that employed in the automaton in motion. The mechanism is worked by means of a handle.—It sets in motion two large wings, ten feet long, made of very thin caoutchouc covered with feathers; and the wings may be so worked as to procure vertical, perpendicular, or horizontal flying. The number of turns given to the handle determines the height to which it is desired to go. The handle has to be turned every quarter of a league to regulate the distance. The operation of turning lasts about a minute. Horizontal flying is the most difficult. The wings beat the air like the oars of a boat, or rather as the foot of a swan when it swims. By means of this curious machine a man can go almost as rapidly as a carrier-pigeon—from the Hotel de Ville to the Arcade Triomphe in eight minutes, and in half an hour to Versailles. Although greatly astonished at this new invention, several members of the Academy have pointed out the inconvenience of bringing it into general use. In point of fact, there will be no security for any one, if by the aid of such machines all our usages and customs be overturned, and if malefactors can fly upon the roofs of houses, and afterward get into apartments and commit all sorts of depredations. It will be very curious to see policemen in France and England pursuing thieves in the air in order to lock them up on earth. It appears that the year 1855 promises us all sorts of marvels."

Fight between a Rattlesnake and Hogs.

The State Rights Democrat, published at Elba, Ala., narrates the following: "Two gentlemen were lately in the woods when their attention was attracted by an uproarious noise of hogs. Thinking that something uncommon was afoot, they repaired to the spot, and found that the hogs had been in a fight with a very large rattlesnake. The fight, from appearance, had been a long and desperate one. The snake was torn to pieces, three hogs dead and a fourth a dying. They say that as the last hog would groan, the snake would raise his head, being unable to do anything else. The snake and fourth hog soon died. They report that for thirty yards around, the grass and ground was torn up.—The snake was six and a half or seven feet long. The hogs, in the fight, had demolished all the rattles except two."

Death of a Child from Drinking Gin.

A few days since the father of a family residing in North Margin street, Boston, sent for a half pint of gin, which in some way got into the hands of his son, a fine boy of four years, who, unknown to his parents, drank a considerable portion of it, was soon after seized with spasms, and in a short time died. A physician called in gave it as his opinion that the child died from the effects of the gin upon his system.

Judge Campbell's Post Masters.

No less than eleven Post Masters in Ohio, appointed by Judge Campbell, have been arrested for stealing money from the mail.

Bribery in Kansas.

The St. Louis Democrat says, those representatives who voted in favor of the Atchison and Kickapoo ferry companies, received a free pass for themselves and horses for the next twenty years!

Blessing to the Country.

A lady now on a visit to Paris, Tennessee, has written to a friend here some particulars of a remarkable and exemplary matron of that vicinity, which particulars have been communicated to us as worthy of a place in our columns. The matron in question is a Mrs. D—, now eighty-seven years old. She had twenty-three living children, and prayed to the good Lord to give her one more, to make the round and goodly number of two dozen. Besides these, she has raised fourteen orphan children. She has educated thirty children—her own and a portion of the orphans—and for many years sent nineteen children to school in Paris, and their dinners with them. She says that none of those she has reared and educated have ever disgraced her or themselves. The girls have all married well, and are rich. The boys have all done well—one of her orphan proteges has been in Congress, several others in the State Legislature; there are sundry Colonels, &c., among them, and all are highly respectable.

We fully agree with the friend who communicates these particulars to us, that they are worthy of publication.—Indianapolis Journal.

The infamous Judge Kane, of the U. S. District Court at Philadelphia, pronounced a new opinion in the Passmore Williamson case, last week which makes every State a Slave State for purposes of transit; which in effect makes each a Slave State for all purposes, in defiance of its own constitution and laws.—In taking this ground, (says the Tribune.) Judge Kane contradicts an unbroken chain of judicial decisions—most of them pronounced by slaveholding judges—for the last three-quarters of a century. That property in man (unlike other property) is the creature of municipal law, and is bounded by the jurisdiction of that law—that a slave taken by his master into a Free State becomes thereby free, and cannot be remanded into Slavery—that even the voluntary return of that slave into bondage cannot invalidate his right to freedom—has been adjudged again and again. But Judge Kane reverses all this, and by his Opinion practically converts all the Free States into Slave States; for if any slaveholder have a common-law right to take his slaves to New-York for the purpose of shipping them thence to New-Orleans or Galveston, he has a right to work them there while they are awaiting a passage, and to hold on six months for the sailing of the vessel of his choice—and at last take them back if he sees fit. If Judge Kane's opinion is law, then New-York is a Slave State this moment—so is every other State—and they cannot help it.

Are the free people of the North prepared to assent to a doctrine so monstrous? Are they willing to upset all bygone adjudication of this question, and allow slaveholders to enjoy immunities and privileges in their very midst of which they themselves are constitutionally deprived? Surely the mere statement of such a legal and political absurdity shows it to be as outrageous a fallacy as ever was put forth by a judicial tool of the slave power. Judge Kane's Opinion is an insult to the common sense of mankind. If we had any warrant for the assertion, we should pronounce him a fool; but knavery is so palpably at the bottom of his legal sophistry, that there is no mistaking the rascally stuff of which his warp and wool are composed.

The Shanghai Nuisance in a New Shape.

In a letter describing the curiosities exhibited at the Connecticut State Fair, last week, we find the following items:—Eli Wright, of Glastenbury shows a lot of little-bodied animals, half covered with hair, which he calls China or Shanghai sheep. They are meaner than Shanghai chickens. The only virtue claimed for them is that they will breed like rabbits. Death should be their instant doom, before they feed any more.

On Monday the 8th inst., a great race came off at Broadrock, Va., four miles heat, in which horses from four States—Kentucky, Alabama, New Jersey and Virginia—were competitors, the race being won by Philo, the property of Mr. Gibbons, of Madison, New-Jersey, whose father raised the noted mare "Fashion." Time—1st heat, 7:58; 2d heat, 7:54; 5d heat, 7:58.

The Scientific American.

ELEVENTH YEAR. Splendid Engravings and Prizes. The Eleventh Annual Volume commences on the 17th day of September, 1855. The "Scientific American" is an illustrated periodical, devoted chiefly to the promulgation of information relating to the various mechanic and chemic arts, industrial manufactures, agriculture, patents, inventions, engineering, millwork, and all interests which the light of practical science is calculated to advance. Reports of U. S. Patents granted are also published every week, including official copies of all the Patent claims, together with news and information upon thousands of other subjects. The contributors to the Scientific American are among the most eminent scientific and practical men of the times. The editorial department is universally acknowledged to be conducted with great ability, and to be distinguished, not only for the excellence and truthfulness of its discussions, but for the fearlessness with which error is combated and false theories are exploded. Mechanics, Inventors, Engineers, Chemists, Manufacturers, Agriculturists, and people of every profession in life, will find the Scientific American to be of great value in their respective callings. Its counsels and suggestions will save them hundreds of dollars annually, besides affording them a continual source of knowledge, the experience of which is beyond pecuniary estimate. The Scientific American is published once a week; every number contains eight large quarto pages, forming annually a complete and splendid volume, illustrated with several hundred original engravings. Specimen copies sent gratis. Terms.—Single subscriptions, $2 a year, or $1 for six months. Five copies, for six months, $4; for a year, $8.
