NEW YEAR'S ADDRESS

OF THE CARRIER OF Refuceasses.

Kind Patrons and Friends, we salute you once more, With a bow and a smile, as we've done oft before, And hope that this morning may bring you good cheer And plenty of fun for a happy new year. 'Tis the wish of the heart of your Carrier boy: For all of your homes an abundance of joy; May the Jeff's. host of readers (who've settled their bill) Eat, drink and be merry, and never be ill. As for those who forget the poor printer to pay, We don't care a fig, if they're gloomy to-day; If they've "narry a red" in their pockets to jingle, And their roofs be without the sign of a shingle, If they eat a cold dinner and sup on a bone, And the coldest of nights go to bed all alone; If they've warts on their fingers and corns on their toes, Never have a clean shirt, -have to wear their old cltohes. We would not be sorry, if nightmares affright And Tom-cats go under their window to fight. If all these evils assail them this winter, It's only their due for thus cheating the Printer.

'58 has stepped out, '59 has stepped in, And welcomes us all with a humorous grin, So, perhaps, 'twould be well now to take a review Of the year that is past, and to glance at the new. A great many good things have been said and done, A good deal of sorrow, - a good deal of fun, And doubtless the year that has just now begun Will see many more of the same kind of things. Sly Cupid will fasten a great many hearts, And scatter afar his mischievous darts, And thus will inflict a great many smarts, For Cupid-we're told-has a pair of fleet wings; And certain it is, that he never was known To get sleepy or nodding o'er sceptre and throne; Though his arrows are busy, they miss not the mark, But sometimes hit misses and sometimes a spark. The past with the fruit of his works has been rife, And many poor fellows been halter'd for life, And some even now are in search for a wife. But all this is surprising-astounding to me, A boy though I am, to look on and be - see (B. C.)

Last year some men thought they would stretch a long wire, And then with a spark of electrical fire, Would make old Atlantic the butt of their mirth, As they talked from the opposite sides of the earth. But old Neptune, indignant at being used so, Jumps up in a rage: "I'll settle their dough!" He called for his trident, and said, says he (To his right hand domestic Calliope) "Blast my eyes Call, if I don't give them 'ere fellers Jessey, for coming here into my patch and trying To bomfozzleisticate me in that free And easy style;" so his horses were brought-On he jumps and is off with the swiftness of thought. He came to the place where the wire was found, He curbed his sea horses and jumped to the ground, He bit it a lick with the butt of his stick And cut it in two in the middle. Then his anger appeased, he was very much pleased And he summoned from far all the maids to his car And said: "Know all men by these presents, that I, Nep Neptune, the son of old Jove in the sky Do give and bequeathe unto you and your heirs Or Assigns, all that large lot of wire that bears The name of "Cable-graph," which I did sever,-To use as a clothes line henceforth and forever, E Pluribus Unum et Rhynktum de diddle."

And so we've been told by Punch (and 'tis true,) That this is the cause, why the news won't be new, And why the dispatches cannot get through. And now, in conclusion, my friends, I will say, I hope you'll be happy and merry to-day, And live to enjoy with a plenty of beer, A hundred returns of this happy New Year. And last-but not least-we would humbly suggest, To give satisfaction, perhaps 'twould be best, If you, friends, would now in this happy time-Would-would-pray, excuse us,-for the sake of the rhyme-Would hand us-why! for instance, a dime.

THE LIVER imvicobayor.

Compounded entirely from Gums, Is one of the best Purgative and Liver medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful Mutual Fire Insurance Comp'y feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when en and build it up with unusual rapidity.
