BY A. B. BURRELL.

The cause is dead for which you bled And you had better own it, You better smother up the fire Lamenting you had sown it; For Uncle Sam is bound to rule From gulf to lakes and oceans. And you must acquiesce to him In spite of conflict notions.

Of martyred men, with Southern pen, 'T were better not to mention, Own up the wrong and pitch your song Above this mad contention; For Uncle Sam will have his way And you can but knock under.

Though on the errors of the past You still persist to blunder. Say not you love the ills of war To rid you from oppression, The world will sigh to hear you lie

But pity with confession, And Uncle Sam, too gracious yet, Forbearance may o'erpower And then, beware! to you and yours Will come the darkest hour.

Oh not a word then let be heard (Since Dixon now is broken) Eulogizing Davis, Lee,-Such stuff must not be spoken; The cause a failure, they the same, Dig deep the whole together. Build up the new, build up the true The Union live forever.

While these men were being thus tortured, their female relations came in and had pieces cut out of their arms, to show their appreciation and valor, and devotion to their kinsmen. Still, as soon as the victim could be prepared, the music was renewed, and the dismal dance went on; the victims' bodies now mingled with blood,

Dogs and Drums.

When the war in Italy commenced, the Zouaves embarked for Genoa; but as they were going on board the ship they saw a formal order forbidding the entrance of all dogs upon the vessel. As they were very much attached to their dogs they were stricken with grief. It was not easy to deceive the sharp look out advanced along the narrow gangway one by one, as their names were called. The moment the drums began to beat innumerable dogs began to howl and bay, to the astonishment of everybody but the Zouaves. Every body looked right, left, backward forward-no sign of a dog anywhere: and yet, the more the drummers beat, the more the dogs howled. At last a spaniel fell out of a drum, rolled over and over on the ground, got up and took to his heels howling louder than ever. Roars of laughter greeted the explanation of the mysterious howls .-The attendants ordered the drummers to advance on board, one by one, and roll the drum as he came. If a barking was heard, the drums was unscrewed, and the dog put ashore. Only one dog got on Major-General Curtis, in a letter, thus board; this was Touton, who kept quiet

SOUTHERN CONVENTION.

WASHINGTON, July 11 .- The followkept by the intendant, for every soldier, ing is the call for a Convention of Southern Unionists to be held in Independence Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, on the first Monday of September, 1866 :-

To the Loyal Unionist of the South :cealed in the drums, which were screwed The great issue is upon us. The majoriup again. We have seen the doctrine of State Sovereignty carried out in its practical results until all authority in Congress was denied, the Union temporarily destroyed, the constitutional rights of the citizens of the South nearly annihilated, and the land desolated by civil war. The time has come when the restructure of Southern State Government must be laid on constitutional principles, or the despotism grown up under an atrocious leadership be permitted to remain. We know of no other plan than that Congress, under its constitutional powers, shall now exercise its authority to establish the principle whereby protection is made coextensive with citizenship.

We maintain that no State, either by its organic laws or legislation can make transgression on the rights of the citizen

We demand, and ask you to concur in demanding, protection to every citizen of the great Republic, on the basis of equality before the law; and, further, that no State Government should be recognized as legitimate under the Constitution so far as it does not, by its organic law, make impartial protection full and com-

Under the doctrine of "State Sovereignty," with Rebels in the foreground controlling Southern Legislatures, and embittered by disappointment in their schemes to destroy the Union, there will be no safety for the loyal element of the South. Our reliance for protection is by the nationality, by the constitutional rights, and by the beneficent principles of free government. For the purpose of bringing the loyal Unionists of the South into conjunctive action with the true friends of Republican Government in the North, we invite you to send delegates, in goodly numbers, from all the Southern States, including Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Ma-
