Judge Williams.

In asking the people to vote for Judge Williams for the position, which has been more than once disgraced by the show of mere partisanship, on the part of Judge Woodward, and to prevent a repetition of the disgrace by the elevation of Judge Sharswood with his Calhoun secession proclivities, the republican party, while seeking for a candidate whose loyalty to the country in its hour of greatest need was and is undoubted, has not been unmindful of the fact that ability, legal and otherwise, is just as necessary to the maintenance of the high respect gained for the Supreme Court, by the honesty, the patriotism, the talent, and the herculean legal ability of Chief Justice Gibson and his co-peers. Nor have they been unsuccessful in this respect. On the contrary they have been eminently successful, as the following facts fully in every particular, sustained by the record, will show. We affirm, therefore, without fear of contradiction by the Record,

First.—That Judge Williams has sat in Judgement upon, and decided as many important and intricate cases as Judge Sharswood, or any other District Judge, during the same term of service, in the State.

Second.—His opinions have met with fewer reversals, upon appeal, than those of Judge Sharswood, or any other District Judge, during the same term of service, in the State.

Third.—His opinions have been adopted as the law in the case, by the Supreme Court, more frequently than those of Judge Sharswood, or any other District Judge, during the same term of service, in the State.

The following are a few of the cases presenting new points, in which the Supreme Court, affirmed the judgement for the reasons given by Judge Williams in the Court below

Crawford vs. Murphy—1853—10th Harris, 84.
McClowry vs. Croghan's Administrators—1856—1st Grant, 317. See how this opinion is regarded by Woodward, Justice, in 5th Wright 213. We do not lay much on Woodward's opinion, but refer to it merely to show what a Democratic chief justice thinks of the legal ability of a Black-republican candidate for the Supreme Bench.

Edgar, Administrator, vs. Shields—1856—1st Grant 361.
Leonard's Executors vs. Winslow, Lanier & Co—1856—2nd Grant 129.
Brown vs. Lynn—1858—7th Casey, 570.
Campbell vs. Laocok—1861—4th Wright, 140.
Craft vs. Fleming—1863—10th Wright, 259.

Oakland Passenger Railway Company vs. Fielding—1864—12th Wright, 329. We might fill columns of our paper with the titles of cases in which Judge Williams was fully sustained by the Supreme Court upon points before decided, and with other cases, decided upon constitutional grounds, and in which the Judges reasoning was so plainly correct, that Attorneys did not deem it worth while to carry them farther. But we forbear. Our object is to show the people of this section of the Commonwealth, that as a lawyer Judge Williams stands inferior to none, and as a Judge is with out his peer on the District Bench. In the language of a cotemporary, "his nomination does credit to the integrity of the party, and his election, will be a tribute to the intelligence of the State.

The Meeting of the Democracy.

A "billious old time," to use a quaint saying of a democratic friend, was that which the Democracy had at the Court House, on Monday evening last. The forces were drummed up, the leaders were kept busy all day, the Court House bell was jingled, yet notwithstanding the fact that it was the first day of Court week, when everybody comes to town to see and to be seen, the assemblage, was no where near that of the Republicans, on the evening of the preceding Tuesday, either in point of numbers or of enthusiasm.— Judge Michael H. Dreher presided, assisted by the usual number of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries, while the meeting was fugled by Judge De Young, John B. Storm, Gen. C. Burnett, Deputy Collector Pauli, and our amiable friend Greenwald, of the Monroe Democrat. We were not present at the opening of the quarry; in fact, we did not get there until our old friend, O. H. Myers, had waded considerable of a ways into the depth which he had selected for his speech, but we found him floundering away in a manner that was calculated to arouse the deepest sympathies of his hearers. But one Democrat, of the few present, gave any indication of an appreciation of the situation; and he was so "elevated," and so noisy that it required several of the piercing looks and sharp threats of constable Snyder to bring him to any thing like the quietness which the occasion seemed to demand.

If friend Oliver Hazzard had nothing better to urge against Judge Williams, in the commencement of his speech, than what he brought forth at its close, the capital stock of the Democracy in the campaign is small indeed, and he might better have remained quiet. He brought but two charges against Judge Williams—the first was, that he was pledged to decide according to the principles of the Radical party, in case of his election, which Oliver knew to be a wilful and deliberate lie; and, second, that he was born in the State of Connecticut, forgetting, as in honor bound, at the same time, to state that he has been a sound, loyal citizen of Pennsylvania for over thirty years, and a Judge of the District Court of Allegheny County for the last fifteen years. It was probably well for Oliver, when he was raising this objection to Judge Williams, that our County District Attorney, elected by the Democracy last fall, and who also pleads guilty to the soft impeachment of being a native of the Wooden Nutmeg State, was not present, or he might have got his foot in a mix. We could not help noting Oliver's lameness, of manner and tameness of matter, on Monday evening, in the contrast with his vivacity in the free soil days of forty-eight, when his present bed-fellows, used, in derision, to call him "Owly Myers," because of the aid he gave in the defeat of that sterling Democrat, Gen. Cass, by joining and supporting the Van Buren spite against Democracy. Then, Oliver was all uglier, while now, he does not seem to be, nor does he feel, quite so good as the darkies. His conclusion was greeted with a marked sigh of relief from the audience.

At the conclusion of Mr. Myers's speech, our distinguished Senator, Gen. C. Burnett, arose in all the fullness, the beauty, and the sublimity of a most perfect dignity, and such a tirade as he let forth against the "elevated" Democrat who interrupted the meeting during Mr. Myers's speech, we never heard. But it was lost upon the culprit Democrat, who was not in a condition to appreciate its imputations, though we hope it may have had a good effect upon the rest of the brethren. From the unusual quietness in which the speeches were allowed to pass, we judge that the feelings of the leaders over the dreariness of the prospect, led to the tabooing of all semblance of enthusiasm. On no other ground can we account for the officiousness of constable Snyder or Gen. Burnett; for what they mistook for interruption, was, in fact, but a "queer way" of the "elevated" Democrat had of showing his appreciation of the speaker, the occasion and the cause. At the conclusion of his rebuke, which he clinched with the threat of handing the culprit over to the tender mercies of the Grand Jury, Gen. Burnett introduced the Hon. Allen Craig for the next speech.

Mr. Craig, with meekness of look, and lowliness of movement, slowly but surely responded to the call. He felt altogether too unwell to speak his speech, but inasmuch as he had just succeeded in electing Monroe out of her right to the representative, and had, on former occasions, been made the recipient of kindness at her hands, he would do his duty on this occasion. He was evidently, badly afflicted with a combined attack of "nigger" and "constushin" on the brain, and belabored both unmercifully, until both his voice and ideas gave out, when he slid into the chair which Deputy Pauli vacated for him, glad that the ordeal was over. Allen is a nice young man, and a sly fox in using the "bowlers" against friends Detrick and Place in a scramble for the Assemblyship, which, for the sake of peace in the party, he is willing to accept even though the position of representative is not a pleasant one; but, he will never set the river to running upstream, nor gain the reputation of a Webster in elucidating constitutional problems.

A breathing spell having been indulged after Mr. Craig's speech, Gen. Burnett informed the meeting that the Hon. D. M. Van Anken, our representative in Congress, was stopping at the hotel, and, though laboring under indisposition, he had no doubt the honorable gentleman could be induced to come to the rack and made a speech. He therefore directed the chair (motions being obsoleted among the great lights of the Democracy) to appoint a committee to await upon the Hon. D. M. Van Anken and invite him to address the meeting. While this thing was being put in ship-shape, our amiable friend Greenwald, of the Democrat, having his pockets surcharged with resolutions breathing fire, tow and brimstone towards Republicanism, moved the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting. Now there was nothing out of the way in this—indeed it was perfectly in order, and, from the way in which he turned, first white, then blue, and then red, we are satisfied that our modest, blushing neighbor felt that he was but performing a stern duty in making the motion. But the dignitaries thought differently, and Chairman Storm and Senator Burnett set upon him so roughly that the poor fellow was literally "scared out of his boots." We really felt for him, and must protest against a repetition of the treatment. How is a modest, ambitious young man ever to rise, if he is thus to be snubbed before folks. But Greenwald wilted, and before he had time to recover, a motion was made that John B. Storm, Esq., address the meeting. Here was another fix. John blushed, stammered and swung himself, and pleading indisposition settled quietly down in his seat. A motion was then made that Gen. Burnett address the meeting, which, after the committee had started out in search of the Hon. D. M. Van Anken, he proceeded to do.

The General did not say he was unwell, but during the whole of his speech, it was evident that he was laboring under a severe attack of rush of blood and negro to the head. His head, arms, body, and legs swung around with the wildest possible contortions, while his bosom swelled with indignation, and his voice, disguised with huskiness, belched forth such tirades, such invectives and such appeals as pen would fail to depict. No set of words could better set forth the chief characteristics of this speech than the single, yet comprehensive word "im-mense." We all know that the General is some as an Orator ordinarily, but on this occasion he was himself extraordinary, and we could not but feel thankful when at the close of his effort we found that nothing serious had "busted." He feared the radicals would impeach President Johnson, and then he feared that the consequences would be if the Democracy, which had happily, so carefully saved its strength during the rebellion should throw itself into the breach. He evidently smelt blood, felt blood, and tasted blood; and we felt a little scared ourselves, for we did not know but that Brigade order No. 4 would be next on the carpet. But happily the General subsided before doing anything so rash as that, and we settled down in security again. We recollected hearing just as bold talk at the commencement of the rebellion, and that it ended in talk and felt, relieved. It was during the delivery of this speech, we believe that the "elevated" Democrat again essayed applause in his queer way when he was at once grasped by constable Snyder and thrust out of the Court House.

The Hon. Daniel M. Vanauken was then by the bungling of the committee, compelled to introduce himself to the meeting. Daniel commenced by saying that he was quite unwell and had been under the hands of a Physician. If he had stopped here he would have saved both his credit, and the patience of his friends. As it was, his reputation, as sprightly Dan Vanauken of several years ago, suffered terribly from his lumbering, nonsensical, ungrammatical production of Monday night. It might have been illness—indeed illness doubtless was at the bottom of all the failures, and all the speeches were such, of Monday night, but it was such an illness as is the natural result of supporting a sin king, unworthy cause. Even Connecticut, California, Kentucky, and Maine, much as the speakers attempted to draw inspiration from the recent results in these States, failed to strip from before their eyes the appalling spectacle of the Skeleton of what was once a living and a triumphant Democracy—now so dead, and so deeply damned in the estimation of all honorable men as to be beyond redemption.

At the close of Mr. Vanauken's speech, Messrs Storm and Burnett rejoined, and our neighbor of the Democrat was permitted to read the resolutions which were burning a hole in his pocket. He looked so glad at the opportunity, that, in spirit, we heartily rejoiced with him, and cannot now avoid congratulating him on the victory which injured innocence thus gained over the machinations of heavy political sinners. He needs but to throw off some of the modesty which at present covers the brazen part of his countenance, to open the eyes of those who would keep him down if they could, to the fact that though he may have a considerable "of the other" in his composition, he is still "some pumpkins". After the adoption of the resolutions, the meeting, at the direction of Deputy Pauli, adjourned with one big howl, from the "elevated" Democrat who had managed to get back into the meeting, and several lesser howls from others present. Those were intended for tremendous cheers, but, like the meeting and its speeches, they were failures. We were impressed with the remark of an old Democrat who attended the meeting. Said he—"I swear, I felt for the Democracy of Monroe when I heard those speeches." Sadly indeed is the party degenerated.

With what joy and gladness do the people hail the advent and discovery of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. It is a sovereign cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. All druggists keep it.

McCarty, the furniture man, whose advent among us nearly two years ago, inaugurated a new era in the furniture business in this place, is again before the public with an advertisement giving, in outline, the various articles he has on sale. You can't go amiss in asking for anything you want in his line, for if he has it not on hand he will have it so soon after the order is given, as to be surprising even in these days of Telegraphs and Expresses. From a rolling pin to an imported Carpet, it matters not what, just call for it and you will be sure to get it. In the Undertaking business, which he has made a speciality, no one that we know of can approach McCarty, whether in neatness of his receptacles for the dead, the order of his management at funerals, or the lightness of his prices. Bear this in mind.

The Agricultural Fair.

Don't forget the Fair, reader, which commences on Tuesday next. Though late in the season, it is not by any means too late to do something towards making the efforts of the Directors towards conferring a real benefit upon the Agricultural interests of Monroe County, a perfect success. There is not one of you but can gather up something to assist in making a good show, and you will not have done your duty unless you make the effort.—Remember it is not the managers of the concern who are to blame for a slim exhibition. They do their share in offering liberal premiums; and if you find reason to grumble, ten to one the fault will be your own, for having done nothing to entitle you to enter competition for one or more of those premiums.—Bring something, no matter what, so that it has agricultural, horticultural, mechanical, or house wife merit, and see whether you don't help make this the best fair ever held in the county.

Know Nothingism Revived.

The Copperhead Democracy have recently become the most malignant and proscriptive Know Nothings the country has ever been infested with.

The Monroe Democrat is the mouth-piece and chief of their foul organization in this County. "Sam," in his palmiest days, required foreigners to reside in this country only 21 years before they should be entitled to hold office. But the Copperhead, Know Nothing, Democracy now require and demand that no person shall be entitled to hold a State office who was not born in Pennsylvania.

Judge Williams, our candidate for Supreme Judge, was born in the Nutmeg Democratic State of Connecticut, but left it for this State at an early day, and has now resided in Pennsylvania over 31 years—10 years longer than "Sam" ever required foreigners to reside in the United States before they should be eligible to office. But the foul Democratic Know Nothings are now yelling all over the State, that Judge Williams was born in Connecticut and that, therefore, no true Democrat should vote for him.

Could any mode of exciting ignorant prejudice against a worthy man, be more mean and contemptible? But what is too mean for the leaders of the so-called Democratic party? But this foul manner of electioneering only shows how desperate the so-called Democracy are. But they will realize next October that their meanness is a foul bird which will come home to roost on the shoulders of its owners. The leaders of the so-called Democracy know well that Judge Williams in moral worth and legal attainment is second to no man in the State, and certainly not to Judge Sharswood. As it is well known that fewer of Judge Williams' decisions during the last fifteen years have been reversed by the Supreme Court than those of Judge Sharswood.—And further, the record shows that more of Judge Williams' opinions have been adopted by the Supreme Court as the precise law of the case, than have those of Judge Sharswood. In many cases the exact terms of Judge Williams' decisions on complicated and difficult questions of law have been adopted by the Supreme Court as being "the choicest solution, uttered with the happiest expression that could be found for the purpose." But let no one be blinded by side issues raised for the purpose of diverting the attention of voters from the real question involved in the canvass.

Judge Williams is a true representative of the Union-loving, loyal sentiment of the country, which, in our greatest need, was never found wanting; and which shouldered the musket, marched to the front, and drove the Southern Rebel Democracy and their Copperhead aiders and abettors from power, and now ask that they be made harmless for future evil. While Judge Sharswood is the representative of the party which sympathized with the Rebels, and aided them all they could when they were trying to destroy the Union, and are now, in connection with Andrew Johnson, striving to give them supremacy at the South. We ask every patriot, every true Democrat, which of the parties ought to be successful? We doubt not you will respond next October, Judge Williams.

The Phoenix Gifts.

The last day of the fair will prove the last day of grace, to many who will then wish they had moved earlier to secure tickets in the Phoenix Grand Gift Enterprise. Think of this and secure your chance at once. Remember $500 is not to be sneezed at in these times, and your ticket purchased even at this late day may be the one to secure it. There are other gifts too worth securing, and while you are thinking about it the chances are going off "like hot cakes off a griddle."

Our readers will regret to learn that Mr. Charles M. Price, so well known to everybody in this section of country, was thrown from a wagon, in which he was riding on Sunday a week ago and severely injured. A rumor on the streets yesterday has it that Mr. Price has since died of his injuries.

To the Editor of the Jeffersonian and Monroe County Voters:

Will the Monroe Democrat tell us by what authority it issues orders to the voters of this County, telling a certain number of townships that they shall vote for a certain candidate, while another certain number of townships shall vote for another certain candidate? This is playing the dictator about as decidedly as anything we ever saw, and besides this repudiating the law, which provides that two candidates for Jury Commissioner shall be voted for throughout the County. But this dictating, law-defying assumed autocrat districts the County off, and has the impudence to tell the voters for which candidate they may vote. When did the people of this County make A. O. Greenwald their master? We doubt not many voters will demand an answer to the above question, as they have been too long in the habit of voting as their own judgments prompted. But Mr. Greenwald seems anxious to relieve the people of exercising their own judgment, for fear, perhaps, that they may not exercise it according to his astute notions. So he orders them to do thus and so; and those who recognize him as being their lord and master, will, of course, obey his order, while those who think with their own brains, will act according to their sense of propriety in the case.

The law authorizing the election of two Jury Commissioners was expressly designed to have a Commissioner elected from both parties, and thus put the selection of jurors outside of politics, as it should be.

I have not a word to say against either of the candidates proposed by the Democratic dictators. They are both good men, but one of them ought to withdraw from the field. The profits of the office will amount to a mere nothing, and therefore can be no inducement to either of the men proposed as candidates. I am a Democrat, pure and unadulterated, but I confess I am decidedly in favor of the law authorizing the election of Jury Commissioners.

Common interest, and common justice demand that politics should have nothing to do with the selection of our jurors, who are selected for the purpose of meting out equal and exact justice to all.

Jacob H. Fetherman and either of the other candidates would make an excellent board to select our jurors, and I, therefore, ask any Democrat, worthy of the name, to vote and use his influence to make Jacob H. Fetherman and either of the other candidates said board. This they can accomplish either by not voting for Commissioner at all, or by voting for Mr. Fetherman. A DEMOCRAT.

Dr. WISTARS BALM OF WILD CHERRY.

In the whole history of medical discoveries no remedy has performed so many such remarkable cures of the numerous affections of the Throat, Lungs, and Chest, as this long-tried and justly celebrated Balm. So generally acknowledged as the superior excellence of this remedy that but few of the many who have tested its virtues by experience fail to keep at hand as fully believing that its remedial powers are comprehensive enough to embrace every form of disease, from the slightest cold to the most dangerous symptoms of pulmonary complaint.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

From Rev. Francis Lobdell, pastor of the South Congregational Church, Bridgeport, Connecticut. "I consider it a duty which I owe to suffering humanity to bear testimony to the virtues of Dr. Wistars' Balm of Wild Cherry. I have used it—when I have had occasion for any remedy for Coughs, Colds or Sore Throat—for many years, and never in a single instance has it failed to relieve and cure me. I have frequently been very hoarse on Saturday, and looking forward to the delivery of two sermons on the following day with and misgivings, but by a liberal use of the Balm my hoarseness has invariably been removed, and I have preached without difficulty. I commend it to my brethren in the ministry, and to public speakers generally, as a certain remedy for the bronchial troubles to which we are peculiarly exposed." Prepared by SETH W. #### CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES.

TO CURE CONSUMPTION, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good, wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS cleanse the stomach of all bilious or mucous accumulations; and, by using the Sea-Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP is nutritious as well as medicinal, and, by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good, wholesome blood made, which will repel all disease. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, Consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhoea they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the room as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well. [2d w. ca. mo. 1 yr.]
