CHARLES B. KELLER,

BOOTS, SHOES, LEATHER & SHOE FINDINGS.

You must have BOOTS and SHOES.

You want, First, to get a GOOD article.

You then want them as CHEAP as POSSIBLE.

This is natural and right enough.

The question is WHERE to buy?

The subscriber's Store is on Main Street, a few doors above the Stroudsburg House (Marsh's), and is by all odds the most extensive concern this side of Philadelphia.

I have on sale in all their most fashionable varieties.
1st.—LADIES' & MISSES'
BOOTS, SHOES, GAI-TERS, SLIPPERS, &c.
2nd.—MEN'S & BOYS' BOOTS, SHOES and BROGANS.

3rd.—LEATHERS, LIN-INGS and LININGS.

4th.—FINDINGS in full assortment.

5th.—BOOT TREES, LASTS and SHOE-MAKERS' TOOLS in endless variety.

And these things I am determined to sell at prices to suit customers. Call, examine goods and learn prices before purchasing elsewhere, and you will not regret it.

A College "Poem."

The following "poem" comes from Wheaton College, Illinois. Some of the Latin is rather original, but it requires only a moderate familiarity with that language to get a tolerable understanding of the "lingo."

TALE OF A POSSUM.

The nox was lit by lux of luna,

Quam t'was a nox most opportuna

To catch a possum or a coona;

For nix was scattered o'er this mundus

A shallow nix et non profundus.

On sic a nox with canis unus,

Two boys went out to hunt for coonus,

The corpus of this bonus canis

Was full as long as octo semis is;

But brevity legs had canis never,

Quam had hic dog; bonus, clever,

Some used to say in stultum jocum

Quod a field was too small locum

For sic a dog to make a turnus

Circum self from stem to sternus.

Unis canis, duo puer,

Nonquam braver, nonquam truer,

Quam hoc trio unquam fuit.

If there was I never knew it.

Hic bonus dog had one bad habit,

Amabat much to tree a rabbit,

Amabat bene chase a cattus.

On this nix moonlight night

This old canis did just right,

Nonquam troed a starving rattus,

Nonquam chased a starving cattus,

But occurrit et intentus,

On the track and on the scentus,

Till he troed a possum strongum

In a hollow trunkum longum.

Loud he barked in horrid bellum,

Seemed on terra venit hellum.

Quickly ran the duo puer,

Mors of possum to secure,

Quam venerat, one began

To chop away like quique man.

Soon the axe went through the truncum,

Soon he hit it, per, cher, chunkum,

Combat thickens; on ye bravus!

Canis, puer, bite, et stavus!

As his powers non longus terro,

Possum protest non pugnare,

On the nix his corpus lieth.

Down to Hades spirit lieth.

Joyful puer, canis bonus

Think him dead as any stonus.

Aint his corpus like a jelly?

Quid plus proof ought hunter velle!

Now they seek their pater's domo,

Peeling proud as any homo,

Knowing certe they will blossom

Into heroes when with possum

They arrive, narrabunt story,

Plenus blood, et plentior glory.

Pompey, David, Samson, Cesar,

Cyrus, Blackhawk, Shalmanazer!

Tell me where est now the gloria,

Where the honors of Victoria,

Quam at domum narrent story,

Plenus sanguine, tragic gory,

Pater praiseth, likewise mater;

Wonders greatly younger frater.

Possum leave they on the mundus,—

Go themselves to sleep profundus.

Somniunt possum slain in battle

Strong as ursae, large as cattus.

When nox gives way to lux of morning,

Albam terram much adorning,

Up they jump to see the varmen,

Of the which quid est the carmen.

Possum hic est resurrexerunt,

Leaving puer most dejectum

Possum reliquit track behind him,

Sed the puerus never find him.

Cruel possum! bestia vilest!

How the puerus tu beguilest.

Puerus think nen plus of Cesar,

Go to gramen, Shalmanazer!

Take your laurel, cum the honor,

Since ista possum is a goner.

And now I'll leave the language brindle,

And will wind up on a spindle,

Made of English every bit.

And I'll try and draw a moral

That with possum tale won't quarrel.

We the people of this nation

Killed a beast we called secession,

And 'tis known the ugly creature

Seemed a possum in each feature;

What the moral is, you can guess it,

So it's useless to express it.

The New York Tribune.

The following brief sketch of the New York Tribune is taken from the Morning

Post. As the editors of the latter journal are said to have been recently connected with the Tribune, the statements contained therein may be set down as reliable:—

"The New York Tribune has over three hundred editors, reporters and correspondents. Amos J. Cummings has charge of the City Department, and has well earned his reputation. Dr. John B.

Wood is his principal assistant. Mr. J.

C. Warner, formerly of Philadelphia, attends to the base ball and chess, and does some of the best reports of the races.

Mr. MacAlpine, also a Philadelphian, is on the City staff. John P. Foley is one of the most trusted on the same department. Mr. George O. Selheimer, lately of Chambersburg, has charge of news department of Weekly. Mr. V. B. Den-low, late of the Chicago Tribune, is one of the new strong writers in politics.—

Prof. A. S. Schem, formerly of Carlisle

College, Penna., is the principal foreign editor, and knows twenty different languages. Mr. J. R. P. Hassard, some time ago managing editor of the Chicago

Republican, is one of the finest writers on the paper, and shares with Mr. Chas.

T. Congdon the reputation of the satire and the brilliancy. A. D. Richardson is a stockholder and a special correspondent.

James R. Young is the Washington editor, with six men to help him. Clarence Cook does the art criticism, and some of the best editorials, and William Winter is the theatrical critic. The place of Kane O'Donnell, who was musical critic, and has gone to Mexico, has not yet been filled. Ralph Meeker, a quaint and foreign writer, attends to the agriculture, Edward H. Clements, of Boston, is the night news editor, vice Cummings transferred to the City Department. Mr.

Clements writes capital verse. S. J.

Clark is the financial editor. Mr. F. J.

Otterson has left the paper. Samuel Sinclair, the publisher, has the supreme charge of the business. Dr. George Ripley is the literary editor. Most of these gentlemen have assistants. Horace Greeley, who by some people is supposed to write very little, writes more than any other man on his staff, and has been known to come in the office at night and said that he wanted the whole editorial page. John R. Young, the managing editor, holds an editorial meeting daily, at which he receives a report from each department, and determines the character of the next day's paper. Mr. Young writes a great deal on American politics, and made his reputation when he first went to New York by a six-column review of Buchanan's administration. It is said his political essays will be soon printed in book form."

An Eventful Career.

A few days ago there died in this city a woman whose life has been a strange admixture of opulence and indigence.—

Her name was Theresa De Noyer, a na-
