Improvements.

Our streets are beginning to become completely lumbered up with piles of stones, lumber, and brick, preparatory to the commencement of improvement operations in the spring.

The Lecture.

We understand that Dr. Jackson's lecture on 'Egypt and the Holy Land,' delivered last Tuesday evening in the Court-House, was unusually interesting and instructive.

The next and last lecture of the course will be delivered next Tuesday evening, by Stephen Holmes, jr., Esq. Subject—'Curiosities of Language.'

We have had now, in this neighborhood, nearly three months' of uninterupted good sleighing. In the memory of the oldest inhabitant it is not recorded when we have had just such a winter as the present.

About as ingenious and useful an invention as has recently come under our observation is a newly patented 'Swift or Reel,' of which Mr. J. A. Clements has the disposal.

The lawyer and the soldier have met in conflict, and the entire correspondence between the two appears in the newspapers. Without the space to give the whole of this interesting and characteristic correspondence, we are compelled to furnish an abstract, which we endeavor to make entirely truthful.

Upon this point the difference is irreconcilable. The facts, as conceded by both parties, are that on Saturday, the 11th of January, Gen. Grant visited the President to consult with him on the action he should take, were Secretary Stanton reinstated by the Senate.

The Duetts were very natural. 'Mr. and Mrs. Brown,' and 'Not at all Like Me,' were as perfect in their utterance as any thing we have yet witnessed.

It is the first time. Can any man say the same for his antagonist? In the meantime, while the President has directed Gen. Grant to pay no attention to orders received from the Secretary of War, his constitutional superior, Gen. Grant has flatly refused to follow the instructions of the President, and in a letter dated January 30th, says:—

But that ugly Court House—dingy and criminal from floor to ceiling—its old stove pipe and pillar obstructing the view of every one. It is the last place in the world to hold a concert: no sound escapes paralysis—it drops from the instrument or the voice downward, and remains so, and is heard at the farther end without a vibration, or a swell. It is hard for one to be content, but we must wait till our people propose to build something better,—a Town Hall,—and leave the Court-House to the jurors and their criminal friends.

The Grant-Johnson Correspondence. The lawyer and the soldier have met in conflict, and the entire correspondence between the two appears in the newspapers.

On the 25th of January Gen. Grant wrote to the President a lengthy letter, requesting the latter to give him written instructions in reference to the obedience that he (Gen. Grant) should accord to orders received from Mr. Stanton as Secretary of War.

In Bagor, on Tuesday of last week, the horse and pony of Joseph Kearney, a smuggler of liquors from Woodstock, N. B., was seized by the Excise collector. The pony was constructed specially for concealment of the contraband.

The Morris and Essex Railroad Company earned for the last six months in 1867, $32,450.09; and in 1867, $856,409.84. The increase of last six months of 1867 was $320,959.75.

The Honorable Republican mentions that David Jillard, keeper of a grocery in that town, shot a rowdy customer through the heart one day last week, killing him instantly.

The Auditor General of Pennsylvania is authorized to seize property and assets of defunct corporations, and hold them for the benefit of individuals investing.

Gov. Geary has offered a reward of $2,000 for the apprehension of the murderer of John Casey, witness in the Senate contested election case of Robison against Shugart.

Our own impression, derived from a careful perusal of this correspondence, is that Gen. Grant in the very difficult position in which he has been placed, has acted with a true, soldierly honor, that has defeated and disgraced the legal tactics of the President.
