

A Steam Man.

The old adage, which proclaims that "there's nothing new under the sun," has been daringly and yet successfully refuted. Mr. Zaddock Dedrick, a Newark machinist, has invented a steam man, one that moved by steam will perform some of the important functions of humanity; that will, standing upright, walk or run, as he is bid, in any direction and at almost any rate of speed, drawing after him a load whose weight would tax the strength of three stout draught horses. The history of this curious invention is as follows:

Six years ago Mr. Dedrick, the inventor, who is at present but twenty-two years of age, conceived the novel idea of constructing a man that should receive vitality from a perpetual motion machine.—The idea was based on the well known mechanical principle that if a heavy weight be placed at the top of an upright slightly inclined from a vertical, gravitation will tend to produce a horizontal as well as vertical motion.

The project was not successful. However, by observing carefully the cause of the failure, persevering and perfecting the manform, and by substituting steam in place of the perpetual motion machine, the present success was attained.

The man stands seven feet nine inches high, the other dimensions of the body being correctly proportioned, making him a second Daniel Lambert, by which name he is facetiously spoken of among the workmen. He weighs five hundred pounds. Steam is generated in the body or trunk which is nothing but a three horse power engine, like those used in our steam fire engines. The legs which support it are complicated and wonderful. The steps are taken very naturally and quite easily. As the body is thrown forward on the advanced foot the other is lifted from the ground by a spring and thrown forward by the steam. Each step or pace advances the body two feet, and every revolution of the engine produces four paces. As the engine is capable of making more than a thousand revolutions a minute, it would get over the ground on this calculation at the rate of a little more than a mile a minute. As this would be working the legs, faster than would be safe on uneven ground or on broad street cobble stones, it is proposed to run the engine at the rate of five revolutions per minute, which would walk the man at the modest speed of half a mile a minute.

The fellow is attached to a common rock-way carriage, the shafts of which serve to support him in a vertical position. These shafts are two bars of iron, which are made fast in the usual manner to the front axle of the carriage, and are carved so as to be jointed to a circular sustaining bar, which passes around the waist, like a girth, and in which the man moves so as to face in any direction. Besides these motions machinery has been arranged by which the figure can be thrown backward or forward from a vertical, nearly forty five degrees. This is done in order to enable to ascend or descend all grades. To the soles of the foot spikes or corks are fixed which effectually prevent slipping. The whole affair is so firmly sustained by the shafts, and has so excellent a foothold that two men are unable to push it over, or in any way throw it down. In order to enable it to stop quickly, it is provided with two appliances, one of which will, as before stated, throw it backward from the vertical, while the other bands the knees in a direction opposite to the natural position.

An upright post, which is arranged in front of the dashboard, and within easy reach of the front seats, sustains two miniature pilot wheels, by the turning of which these various motions and volutions are directed. It is expected that a sufficiently large amount of coal can be stowed away under the back seat of the carriage to work the engine for a day, and enough water in a tank under the front seat to last half a day.

In order to prevent "the gait" from frightening horses by its wonderful appearance, Mr. Dedrick intends to clothe it and give it as nearly as possible a likeness to the rest of humanity. The bodied and such parts as are necessarily heated will be encased in felt or woolen undergarments. Pants, coat and vest of the latest styles, are provided. Whenever the fires need coaling, which is every two or three hours, the driver stops the machine, descends from his seat, unbuttons "Daniel's" vest, opens a door, shovels in the fuel, buttons up the vest and drives on. On the back between the shoulders the steam cocks and gauges are placed.—As these would cause the coat to set awkwardly a knapsack has been provided that completely covers them. A blanket neatly rolled up and placed on top of the knapsack perfects the deception. The face is moulded into a cheerful countenance of white enamel which contrasts well with the dark hair and moustache. A sheet iron hat with a gauge top acts as a smoke stack.

The cost of the "first man" is $2,000, though the makers, Messrs. Dedrick & Grath, expect to manufacture succeeding ones, warranted to run a year without repairs, for $300. The same parties expect to construct, on the same principle, horses that will do the duty of ten or twelve ordinary animals of the same species. These, it is confidently believed, can be used alike before carriages, street cars and plows. The man now constructed can make his way over any irregular surface whose ruts and stones are not more than nine inches below or above the level of the road.

GOOD NEWS FOR ALL

IN SHAPE OF

New Goods at Stormsville.

THE subscriber takes pleasure in informing the public, that he has just opened the largest and best selected stock of Goods, at his old stand in Stormsville, Pa., ever brought into Monroe county, and that he has determined to dispose of them at prices much cheaper than they can be bought at any other establishment, whether in town or country. His stock comprises, in almost endless variety, and of the best quality.

DRY GOODS,

NOTIONS,

HARDWARE,

QUEENWARE,

GROCERIES,

DRUGS, MEDICINES, &c., &c.

He has, also, on hand a very large assortment of new and fashionable

Boots and Shoes,

both city and home-made, all of which he will dispose of at prices which will make purchasers wonder. Look at a few of the prices at which I am really giving away goods, and you cannot fail to be convinced that my store, in Stormsville, is the place at which to secure real bargains:

PRINTS from 9 to 12 1/2 cents per yard,

MUSLINS from 12 to 15 " yard,

DE LANES from 18 to 22 " yard,

and all Woolen goods at figures proportionately low.

Boots and Shoes very low—home-made at least 50 per cent. below Stroudsburg prices.

SUGARS from 10 to 17 cents per pound, MOLASSES from 50 cts. to $1 per gal. In short, all articles in my line far below the monopoly prices which have heretofore prevailed.

The excitement growing out of these great reductions has already begun, but come one, come all, my stock will always be found full up to the demand.

BUTTER, EGGS, and country produce generally will not be refused in exchange for goods, and the highest market prices allowed.
