

The Jeffersonian,

THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1868.

Who will give Langford a job? The chap that used to write stories. Do not let him go away from Stroudsburg.

Gen. Todd, the Chairman of the late Republican Convention, has at length announced the names of the Republican State Central Committee. The Hon. Galusha A. Grow, of Susquehanna County, is Chairman of the Committee. This Congressional District is represented in the Committee by the following named gentlemen:

T. Frank Walter of Carbon.
John N. Stokes, of Monroe.
Wm. S. Kirkpatrick, of Northampton.
John Sherman, of Pike, and
C. P. Waller, of Wayne.

The Committee having now been perfected and organized, we hope to see work began in earnest. There will be no difficulty in carrying the State by a handsome majority if we but work faithfully.

Killed on the Railroad.

Cornelius Sweeney, for several years past, in the employ of the D. L. & W. Railroad, as watchman on the bridge, at Changelwater, N. J., was found dead on the bridge on Monday last. From injuries found upon his body, it was evident that he had been killed by a passing locomotive, though to what train attached is not known. The deceased was a very exemplary man, and a most faithful employee of the company.

The weather for the last week has been particularly balmy and spring-like, and our citizens, to a large extent, have taken advantage of it to dig garden and get seeds in the ground. The prospects are that the time of seedtime is really upon us, though we are not without our weather prophets, who yet prognosticate snows and frosts without end. Sunday last was a very fine day, and numbers of our citizens, in addition to the services in the sanctuary, exhibited an outside appreciation of the kindness of the Giver of all good gifts, by promiscuous family and friendly groups, and inhaling the pure and bracing out-door air.

The Lord's Prayer.

We were shown, a few days since, a copy of "The Lord's Prayer," a pen-drawing by Mr. D. F. Brown, really one of the most remarkable works of art ever exhibited in this country. By patient labor Mr. B. has succeeded in producing a design, which, for skill and beauty of execution, softness and delicacy of finish and general merit, it would seem scarcely possible to surpass. The work is highly recommended by Bishops and Clergy of all denominations, and, apart from its religious value, will make a most beautiful framed ornament, for either parlor or the drawing-room. The Rev. J. Kirby Davis has the agency for the sale of the work in this section of country, and can furnish from the miniature album size, photographed, up to the large full size for framing. The price placing them in the reach of all, everybody should secure one. A key to the Lord's Prayer, and a "monitor," small works of large interest, to those who would thoroughly understand the Lord's Prayer, accompany each copy of the Prayer.

County Temperance Convention.

A Mass Convention of all the friends of Temperance, in Monroe County (Ladies included), will be held in the M. E. Church, in Stroudsburg, on Tuesday, the 26th of May, at 10 o'clock, A. M., to continue during the day and evening.

In the morning, the Secretary will address the Convention, and explain the objects and plans of the State Temperance Union.

In the afternoon, a Constitution will be adopted and officers of the County Union elected, with other items of business.

In the evening, a public meeting will be held, when addresses, favoring the cause, will be made by the Secretary and others.

In order to present the cause and incite an interest in the subject, the Secretary will preach on Sunday, April 24th, in the Presbyterian Church, in the morning, on "The Sinfulness of the License System," and in the evening, in the M. E. Church, on "The Religious Character of the Temperance Cause in its Relations to the Christian Church," and on Monday evening, on "The Overthrow of the Liquor Traffic by the Powers of God, and the Aid of the People."

To all the above the public are urgently invited.

Rev. P. COMBS,
Sec. of Penna. State T. U.
Rev. Wm. Ridgway,

Sam'l Rees, Esq.,

The new State Normal School, of Pennsylvania, is to be established at Epporism, Cameron county.

Our Neighbor on the "Tariff."

In his last "Monroe Democrat" our neighbor gives up a half column, in double column measure, to an elucidation of his views, and the views of his party, on the Tariff question. Hitherto, as in 1844, it has been customary with the press and orators of the Democratic party, to head off all questions, and all arguments, touching the Tariff, by a respectfully reference "to my letter to John K. Kane,"—a letter written, and well written too, to suit every wind of opinion, whether it blew from the North, the South, the East, or the West. The letter had this advantage too, that it pretended to favor a Tariff for revenue, with incidental provision, for the protection of those branches of manufacture, which were yet in swaddling, and needed the fostering care of Government. This was the pretended policy of the party then, and was, to a certainty, as near an approach to free trade, as could with safety be made. Now a different policy appears to have been adopted; and if "The Tariff Swindle," spoken of by our neighbor, represents the views of his party we must bid good-by to all "John K. Kane" frauds, for the future, and look upon the Democracy as fairly committed to the policy of Free Traders; or, in other words, to the support of the manufacturing interests of the old world.

There is so much of the wonderful, and of the "bugga-boo" in our neighbor's article, that we would like to lay it before our readers—not because of its intrinsic merits as an argument on the subject, for it has no such merits, but because of the confirmation which it furnishes as to the lunatic point to which Democratic reasoning has at last driven Democratic editors—but we have no room for it at this time. From its peculiar one would almost suppose that these gentlemen, our neighbor among the rest, had, by some slight of hand, been pre-ported to China, where hideous noises and still more hideous distortions of countenance, are a potent means of quelling tumult, and driving the masses into the support of such measures, as the more shrewd among them may wish to have adopted. They must, most assuredly, have forgotten, that they are living in a land of intelligence; where, outside of the immediate precincts of Democratic majorities, the people read, and learn, and understand every measure adopted by the powers that be, and approve or condemn, through the ballot-box, as may be their well digested choice in the matter. In this nineteenth century, and in this land of liberty, where the official servant holds his position only at the will of his voting master, to speak, as the "Democrat" speaks, of the masses being a purchasable commodity, as are so many sheep upon the shambles, is an insult which should not fail to meet a proper rebuke. And then, too, to speak of a ballot-box corrupted, taxes wrung from the people, wages reduced to the pauper standard of Europe, and these backed by foul falsehood as to the increase in price of commodities necessary for man's consumption, in face of the fact that if these things do exist they must exist by the intelligent consent of those on whom the scare is attempted to be inflicted, is a piece of folly which we did not look for in one possessed of an intellect so obtuse, even as that which rules our neighbor's cranium. We can account for it under no other hypothesis, than that much waiting for the crumbs of official patronage has made the party and its editors and leaders besides themselves.

A part of our neighbor's confession of Tariff Faith, which would be laughable if it were not broached in all seriousness, is that in which he alludes to the wages of Democratic times. The Democratic times, with the business state of the country, the wages and the prices of commodities incident thereto, are not yet passed from the memory of the youngest of men now doing business for themselves. Closed factories and workshops, mechanics and laborers out of employ, corruptions in power, general stagnation in business, and, if a revival took place, hand to mouth wages and mere nominal prices for farm produce, where the peculiarities of those times, which culminated in the formation of the Republican party, and in the overthrow of Democracy, and the consequent good times which have ever since prevailed. A most notable result of those Democratic times, growing out of the "base bowing of the knee to the dark spirit of slavery," by the Democratic leaders, was the war and brood of evils which followed in its train. "Dough-facedness" ruled the hour, and Democratic editors had no other god to whom to shout hosannas, beside that Idolspur, Southern will, which, with its feet upon the necks of the people of the yielding North, was continually demanding more and more of privilege. Democratic times paid skilled mechanics in this neighborhood from one dollar to one dollar and twenty-five cents per day, and laboring men from fifty to seventy-five cents per day, with only occasionally a job of work for either, at that Democratic times paid the honest, hard-working farmer sixty cents a bushel for rye, forty cents for potatoes, forty-five cents for corn, from ninety cents to one dollar and ten cents a bushel for wheat, from twelve to eighteen cents a pound for butter, and from ten to twelve cents a dozen for eggs, mostly in store trade, and, owing to want of work for mechanics and laboring men, with but a very week home market to depend upon. Democratic times sent mechanics and laborers, and farmers through our streets, with the sombre, woe-begone look of men not knowing to-day where the provisions for to-morrow's meals were to come from. Republican times have changed all this, and the Republicans, with the aid of this our neighbor calls "The Tariff Swindle," has brought prosperity to the country, put work in the hands of mechanics and laborers, created a demand for the produce of our farmers, and put money into the pockets, and independence in the minds of all. Largely increased wages are the reward of labor of whatever kind you may mention; while the increase in the prices of the necessaries of life, have not been so great, as to prevent farmers from liquidating their debts, contracted during Democratic times, and which hung as millstones about their necks, or mechanics from purchasing town lots and erecting neat and comfortable residences thereon. The experience of Stroudsburg alone gives the lie, most unqualifiedly to all our neighbor's assertions, and the experience of Stroudsburg is but the experience of the whole country North.

Democratic editors, our neighbor among the rest, are proverbial for their denunciations of the Revenue Tax. Do they want Repudiation? If not, why seek to decry and outrage the tariff law, which but seeks to lighten the burden of direct taxation. We have a debt, to the payment of which, both principle and interest, all parties are pledged. How is this to be paid save by means of taxation, lightened as far as possible by an economical administration of Government? Follow the demands of these editors, and abolish your taxes, and whence comes the means of payment, and what becomes of the nation's pecuniary honor? These are questions worthy of consideration. Democratic editors, too, find fault with the large number of officers to carry out the laws for the collection of the revenue, and the other laws passed to secure the safety of the country, but instead of wishing to abolish these they only want to get possession of them.

Our neighbor, concludes with an array of figures, which, if correct, and unmitigated by the bright side of the question, would be well calculated to startle folks. But they are not correct, as can be readily proven by a visit to the retail stores anywhere in the country, and an inquiry into the prices of articles named—very many of which are offered at less than half the cost price to merchants, as set down in the "Democrat's" figures, while wages, with a full demand for labor, are up to the maximum of compensation. The whole article in the "Democrat," view it as you will, is but a clap-trap set up to frighten men who, like our neighbor, are apt to be scared at trifles. It has nothing more than this to sustain it.

Democratic editors are proverbially slow to learn the truth. Gen. Cameron, some six or seven weeks ago, moved, in the Senate, the appointment of a committee to investigate a charge of defalcation against Secretary Forney, to the amount of $40,000. The matter was promptly referred for investigation. Last week our neighbor had just learned the charge, and as a big hit could be made at an earnest worker in the cause of the loyal masses, it was published, and Forney's reputation maligned before the readers of the "Monroe Democrat." The investigation, which resulted in the complete refutation of the charge against Secretary Forney, was concluded, and the result made known, at least four weeks ago, but it was not convenient for our neighbor to have learned that fact.

To Physicians.

Mr. Speer takes the liberty of requesting physicians to institute an examination of the merits of his Port Grape Wine. The wine is the pure juice of the Port grape, cultivated by him for the purpose, and is now successfully used and prescribed by the physicians in the large cities, who have fully tested it, and who regard it as peculiarly adapted to their mode of practice.

A large Volume would not contain the mass of testimony which has accumulated in favor of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry as a safe, efficient, and reliable remedy in curing coughs, colds, and pulmonary disease. Many of the cures are truly wonderful.

A CARD.—LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Subscribers to the building of the Lutheran Church, in this place, are hereby informed, that, notwithstanding we have failed in procuring Mr. Singmaster's $5,000, we have resolved, nevertheless, to build the church, relying for success upon the fidelity of subscribers, a sympathizing public, and the blessing of God.

MORE ECONOMICAL, REMARKABLE certainty of prompt action, in fact, every good quality is guaranteed for Mrs. S. A. ALLEN'S IMPROVED (new style) HAIR RESTORER OR DRESSING. (in one bottle).—Every Druggist sells it. Price One Dollar.

A novel sight was presented in the Concord Railroad Yard, at noon Wednesday, in the shape of a special train of fifteen long platform cars, containing thirty elegant coaches from the world-renowned carriage manufactory of Messrs. Abbott, Downing & Co., all consigned to Wells, Fargo & Co., Omaha and Salt Lake—probably the largest lot of coaches ever sent from one manufactory at one time.

The coaches are finished in a superior manner, the bodies red, and the running gear yellow. Each door has a handsome picture, mostly landscapes, and no two of the sixty are alike. They are gems of beauty, and would afford study for hours. The scroll work is very handsome, and varied on each coach.

They are built in some particulars much stronger than are many coaches, especially the iron work. They are designed for nine persons inside, and eight or ten outside. The average weight of the coaches is 2250 pounds, and the best part of fourteen sides of leather were used up on each coach in the boot, thorough braces, etc.

It is expected the coaches will go through to Omaha without charge of cars, unless some accident should befall the train. They will ply between the Eastern and Western Division of the Pacific Railroad.—Concord Monitor.

Distressing Casualty.

On Thursday last week, Mrs. William Robinson, living at No. 2, Texas township, filled a pail with boiling water from a kettle, and set it upon the floor, preparatory to scrubbing. She then went out after more water to fill the kettle, and on returning was horrified to find that an interesting little daughter, not quite two years of age, had fallen backwards into the pail. On taking off the little sufferer's clothing, portions of skin and flesh fell off with it. She lingered until the following evening, when death put an end to her agony.—Wayne Co. Herald.

A New Swindle.

A new swindle is said to have been started in New York city, which is well calculated to deceive people living in the country. A circular is sent out with samples of prints, which are represented to be manufactured at print works whose owners have an office in New York. Enclosed in the circular are samples of goods of which twelve yards will be sent on the receipt of one dollar, or ten yards for eighty-five cents. A messenger was recently sent to the office named, when it was found that the place was in charge of a boy, and that no business was transacted there beyond receiving letters, which usually numbered from thirty-five to fifty a day.

Broke Jail.

On Saturday night, last, three prisoners made their escape from our county jail by sawing a bolt from the lock of the back door. They were all from Hawley, two of them being awaiting trial for larceny, and the third, we believe, for burglary.—From the latest traces of their course, it seems clear that they have made their way out of the State, which is perhaps the best disposition that could have been made of them.—Wayne Co. Herald.

Pictures of the Impeachment Trial.

While the long-winded impeachment debates are in progress, Fessenden whittles the end of his pen-stick, Grimes slowly rubs his chain, Ross and Norton snow up the floor around them with bits of torn paper, Conkling strokes approvingly the peninsula of light curly hair which stretches down the centre of his forehead; Trumbull is always in his seat, his desk covered with law books, and he gives the eagle noticeable attention. Notwithstanding his constant writing, Sumner is attentive to the trial, and always informed of each aspect of the case as it comes up. Yates, who sits beside Sumner, keeps his desk unoccupied generally, as well as his chair. When he is in the Chamber, Saulsbury acts like a Polar bear in a menagerie, except a Polar bear doesn't chew quite so much tobacco, nor spit on fine carpets. He is the most uneasy of the Senators. He marches up and down, turning quickly and walking rapidly for an hour at a time. No Senator on the floor takes a greater interest in the trial than Reverdy Johnson, or pays it more steady attention. He chews his lips, and when his hands are not nervously picking at his pantaloon, or rubbing them, his mouth is never still. He leans back in his chair and is, or looks to be supremely happy. Chase is still fine-looking, the most imposing personage in the chamber. Some blockhead doctor, on account of some throat affection, last fall advised the Chief Justice to allow his beard to grow under his chin, and a thick clump of white hair in that region is the result.—The friends of the Chief Justice have been looking for that doctor ever since.—If he is found, you will hear or another impeachment trial. Whiskers helped Lincoln's appearance; but they spoil, as much as such trifles can, the face of Mr. Chase.—Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.

A communication from the Secretary of the Treasury shows that the department has recovered, of Confederate property in Europe, $144,157, and has disbursed $90,000 for counsel and other expenses.

A clergyman in the eastern part of Massachusetts, a few Sundays ago, opened services by reading, without explanation or comment, a very full and correct local price current—how much flour, butter, meat, lard, eggs, etc., were worth, and the price of shoes, cloth, prints and muslins. No obtuseness (observes a local paper) could fail to understand this straight hint, and he was rewarded by a liberal donation.

In 1867 the city of Philadelphia consumed 90,000 beebes, 175,000 hogs, and 368,000 sheep. In 1860 the number of beebes was 9,000 greater than last year. The stock of cattle was wasted during the war. The North American says:—Experience shows that while the consumption of both sheep and hogs increases largely, an extreme increase of the one is accompanied by a depression in the other.

The Price of Coal Lands.

The property of the Susquehanna Coal and Mining Company, located at Mount Carmel in the Shamokin coal basin, has been sold at private sale to Messrs. Thomas Wilson, George W. Abell and William A. Fisher, for two hundred thousand dollars.

A tract of coal land, containing three hundred and sixty-one acres, known as "Partnership," in Rush township, Schuylkill county, has been sold by U. S. Marshall Ellmaker for $130,250, to John M. Marls, of Philadelphia.

The bill to make the Clerk of the County Commissioners of Northampton County an officer elective by the people, passed both branches of the Legislature and became a law. It provides that at the next October election a clerk shall be elected for three years, at a salary of $800 per annum.

An Irishman, a short time in this country, was eating boiled green corn. After eating off all the corn, he passed the cob back to the lady who sat at head of the table, saying:—"Would you please be so kind as to put some more beans on the stick."

The general Militia law of Pennsylvania requires all able-bodied men under forty five to pay one dollar annually in lieu of service—except in time of war or invasion—the fines to form a brigade fund, and each man who drills in a volunteer company is to receive twelve dollars a year.

Lancaster, Pa., voted Democratic on Friday, by 324 majority—a loss of 187. The Republicans gain eight members of the Council, which make a tie vote on the joint ballot. One branch of the Council is Republican by three majority—the first time in many years. The Republicans are jubilant.

DR. S. I. TOBIAS' Pulmonic Life Syrup,

FOR THE CURE OF Incipient Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, and General Debility. For several years I have been urged by kind friends, who have used, and been benefited by, my Life Syrup, to put it up for general sale; but few know the large expense, now that the country is flooded with Patent Medicines, which attend the same. For years past I was reluctant to do so, as the capital required would be large, and I do not wish to curtail the operations of my Venetian Liniment business. But, thanks to the generous public, who have appreciated my Venetian Liniment, I am now able to do so, without any detriment to my large business in that medicine. The foundation of my success I attribute to the attending to the manufacture of every drop myself, and shall do the same in regard to my Pulmonic Life Syrup. The ingredients are perfectly harmless, but act on the Lungs and Liver with astonishing effect. Price 75 cents. Depot, No. 56 Cortlandt Street, New York, near Jersey City Ferry. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers. [May 7.—Im.]
