AGAINST THE STREAM.

In the world I've gained my knowledge,

And for it I've had to pay,

Though I never went to college,

Yet I've heard the poets say—

Life is like a mighty river,

Rolling on from day to day,

Men are vessels launched upon it,

Sometimes wrecked and cast away.

So, then, do your best for one another,

Making life a pleasant dream,

Help a worn and weary brother

Pulling hard against the stream.

Many a bright, good-hearted fellow,

Many a noble-minded man,

Finds himself in water shallow;

Then, assist him, if you can.

Some succeed at every turning,

Fortune favors every scheme,

Others, too, though more deserving,

Have to pull against the stream.

If the wind is in your favor,

And you've weathered every squall,

Think of those who luckless labor,

Never get fair winds at all:

Working hard, contented, willing,

Struggling through life's ocean wide:

Not a friend, and not a shilling,

Pulling hard against the tide.

Don't give way to foolish sorrow—

Let this keep you in good cheer;

Brighter days may come to-morrow,

If you try and persevere,

Darkest nights will have a morning,

Though the sky be overcast;

Longest lanes must have a turning,

And the tide will turn at last.

SPEECH OF SENATOR MORTON.

On Saturday night, April 8th, Senator

Morton was serenaded at the National

Hotel, in Washington, by the Indiana

Republican Association and other resident Republicans. President Grant, Vice President Colfax and several Indiana delegates, appeared at the balcony, and were loudly cheered. Representative Williams read a series of resolutions, pledging fealty to and confidence in the integrity of the Republican party; deprecating any attempt to disunite the organization; expressing hearty and sincere approval of the course and policy that have marked the administration of the General Government during the past two years; recognizing in President Grant one who has proved himself true to his promises to the people and to the great principles of the Republican party; thanking Senator Morton for his devotion to Republican principles, and referring with pride and pleasure to the course of Vice President Colfax, after which Senator Morton spoke substantially as follows:

The Southern people are committed to slavery, because they have declared that slavery was wrongfully and illegally abolished. The result of such a policy would be the disfranchisement of the colored people, taking from them the right of suffrage. They would be able to disfranchise the colored man in 60 days.—

They would do it now were it not that the Government is in the hands of Republicans. Having the military power, they would vote the colored men from the polls, or vote their disfranchisement. If not, they would reduce them to slavery publicans will make further reduction, and modify the tariff in important particulars.

I voted against the repeal of the income tax because I thought the time had not arrived for it, but if the Administration goes on with the same success in the future as in the past, I believe we shall repeal it at the next session. We cannot do everything at once; we do not pretend that we can repeal all taxes, because the public credit must be maintained, and the Government supported. Our Democratic friends say they can abolish all taxes and carry on the Government by a sound policy—we cannot do that.

The President has proved faithful to every principle of the party. He is a greater Radical to-day than some of those who started before him. He is not a Johnson, a Fillmore, or a Tyler. He is carrying out in good faith the principles on which he was elected, and as long as he does that he cannot be beaten down.

Look at the Indian policy of President Grant. It is the peace, kindness and good will inaugurated by William Penn.

Not in a hundred years has there been so much quiet among the Indian tribes as there is to-day. His paths are paths of peace, and though in trying to preserve the peace of a neighboring Republic he has been arraigned as a criminal; he has been acquitted by public opinion. Those who attempted to impeach him of high crimes and misdemeanors have impeached themselves of supreme folly. Several weeks ago the Democrats took great courage at the election in New Hampshire. They recorded it as an evidence of a reaction in their behalf, and as an evidence that the Republican party is dying. The result was owing to local dissensions and the apathy which follows the continuation of triumphs. But we have had another election. It was in his Connecticut. You have doubtless heard of it. The State has been very close for a good while, but the Republican cause showed the Democracy they counted without their host.

The people do not intend to put the Government into the hands of that party which nearly brought ruin to the country. So far from the Republican party being in a state of decay, it is full of life, and will have a victory in 1872. If there should be an election in Indiana to-morrow, the State would be carried by the Republicans by a majority of 10,000 votes. In the election of 1872 they will not forget the services of our soldiers and their glorious leader. They have not forgotten the principles of that party that can save the country, and they have not forgotten the heroes who led our army to victory. In conclusion Senator Morton said there were present distinguished friends whom the crowd would be glad to hear, among them the Vice President from his own State, a gentleman who presides over the Senate with distinguished ability, and representatives from Indiana who had faithfully served the country for years. One word about the District of Columbia. It was said in the Senate that the Republicans had shown

The Umpire's Decision.

The umpire, to whom was referred certain points in reference to the control of the collieries, upon which points the arbitrators here present, chosen respectively by the operators and miners, have failed to agree, makes the following report:—

First. The right of an owner or lessee and operator of a colliery to the entire and exclusive control and management of his works is guaranteed to him by the law of the land, and is of such an unquestionable character that it ought not to be interfered with either directly or indirectly.

Second. The umpire concurs with and adopts as a correct statement of the law that part of the late proclamation of the Executive of this Commonwealth, where in he says that it is unlawful for any person or association of persons, by violence, threats or other coercive means to prevent any laborer or miners from working when they please, for whom they please and at such wages as they please, and alike unlawful by such violence or threats to deter or prevent the owners or operators of mines from employing whomsoever they may choose to employ, and at such wages as may be agreed upon between the employers and the persons employed.

Third. It is the undoubted right of men to refuse to work except upon such terms as shall be agreeable to them, but
