THE Convention, of the unterrified Monday last, and organized by the appoint- Barger, for $3,700. ment of Samuel Case, of Tobyhanna, Chairman, and the usual number of assistants in shape of Vice Presidents and Secretaries. The business of the Convention was conducted with unusual an inward feeling that needed only a punch or does, too to cause the whole concern to burst out in a most destructive tornado. Several of the town-Delegates, but the "extras" were unceremoniously set aside, and the work of balloting proceeded with.

As candidates for the nomination, the West Esq., of Ross; the East, the names of Andrew Shoemaker and J. W. Eilenberger, and the Centre, or borough of Stroudsburg, the names of Richard S. Staples and Charles S. Detrick. Mr. Eilenberger's name was withdrawn, leavafternoon, and a portion of the evening it was ing. apparent that the work was proving quite a dry and salty affair to the Delegates. It was a stick and a shift all the way through, and somebody, and be seen by somebody.
