The next Penasylvania Senate will stand 17 Republicans to 16 Democrats; the House of Representatives 63 Republicans to 37 Democrats; Republican majority, 26. Last year the Republican majority in the House was only 12, and the Democrats had one majority in the Senate. Owing to the Labor Reform ticket run by the coal miners. the Republicans gained a member in Schuylkill, and by the direct aid of the miners cleeted another in Luzerne. The miners also enabled the Republicans and "Reformers" to defeat the Democratic county ticket in Carbon. All these are strong Democratic counties.
