The sand in the streams of this region have been found to contain gold, but whether in paying quantities has not yet been ascertained.

The silver mining in the region of Thunder Bay continues immensely productive. At Silver Islet the quantity of the silver daily dug out is only limited by the force the operators are able to employ, and the supply appears to be inexhaustible. Other mines in that region are yielding finely. The lands in which silver or gold have been found extend back from the lake from fifty to one hundredred miles. The population of this section of the country is rapidly increas-
