

A young married couple took up their residence at Mortonville, Chester county, where the wife was taken suddenly ill with the small pox. Her husband had her at once conveyed to the poor-house. He himself going with her as nurse; but she died in a few days, and was buried in the cemetery attached to the institution, the husband performing the sad duties of sexton and undertaker himself. After vacating the house in Mortonville, the citizens assembled and destroyed it by fire, including all its contents—first raising a sufficient sum to pay for the loss of the same.

Grumblers at Newspapers.
Horace Greeley hits the nail on the head when he says: "It is strange how closely men read the papers. We never say anything that anybody don't like but we soon hear of it, and everybody tells us about it. If, however, once in a while we happen to say a good thing, we never hear of that—nobody seems to notice that. We pay some men a hundred compliments and give him a dozen puffs, and he takes it as a tribute to his greatness and never thinks of it—never thinks it does him any good. But if we happened to say anything that man don't like, or something that he imagines is a reflection on him or his character, see how quick he fires up and gets mad about it. All our evils are daily charged to us, but we never, apparently, get any credit for what good we do."

Let me Turn Over.
I was a passenger on a steamer from Panama to San Francisco when the rush of travel on that line was immense. We were badly crowded, and there was no room for chairs or tables, yet we were bound to have our game of "old sledge." A Baptist minister, suitably by the last for gold, had deserted his flock, and occupied a sleeping place on the cabin floor. Being a large, corpulent man, and finding him a sound sleeper, four of us squatted around him, and commenced to play on his broad stomach, scoring the points of the game on his black vest. We played for several hours undisturbed, except by an occasional snore of uncommon force. I had won considerable, and one of my opponents, Jim Doyle by name, becoming excited at my turning up Jack, brought down his fist on the lower part of the person's stomach with great force. The pious old gentleman was awakened thereby, and looked up with some surprise; but seeing the state of affairs, he exclaimed: "Go on with your game boys; but if you are going to pound me in that manner, you had better let me turn over."

An Ohio Lady Dies Very Suddenly in Chicago—A Chase After the Corpse—Foul Play Suspected.

William Shorb, a baggage-master on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, left Chicago, Saturday, on the express, having in charge the corpse of Mrs. McCoy, who, it seems, died very suddenly there under suspicious circumstances. He was arrested upon his arrival at Crestline, on a telegram from Chicago officers, and after an examination was released before the arrival of the officers. He made it appear at the examination that she (Mrs. McCoy) was in Chicago buying goods, was taken suddenly ill and died, he doing all in his power for her. He also presented a certificate from the health officer in Chicago, stating who the physician was that waited upon her, &c. He left Crestline this morning, bringing the corpse here with him, the step-mother of the deceased and other relations accompanying him, who purposed conveying the remains to St. Mary's, Ohio, for burial. The officers arriving in Crestline and learning the state of affairs, telegraphed to Lima at once to the city marshal to hold Shorb and the corpse at all hazard until they arrived in the next train. This was accordingly done. Upon their arrival here they took the prisoner with the corpse on board the train to Chicago, to hold an investigation. The officers declare that the corpse was seen to come out of a well known assignation house there, and that there has been foul play either by poison or an abortion. Shorb has been waiting on the woman some length of time, and her friends state that they were engaged to be married soon. She had recently moved to Crestline and purchased a millinery store there, hence the statement that she was in Chicago buying goods. Shorb is a young man, probably twenty five years old, and has heretofore borne a very good character. Mrs. McCoy was a widow, thirty years of age, had two children, and is said to have been quite prepossessing in appearance.—Pittsburg Commercial.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE
Where can patients look for relief? The experience of every Dyspeptic tends to prove that the proper method of treatment of that wide spread disease, Dyspepsia, is not to be found in any of the regular schools of medicine. You cannot find any three physicians who will agree upon this point; each has some pet theory of his own; and each patient is but in truth a subject for experiment. The only effectual remedy for this terrible scourge is Mishler's Herb Bitters.

It alone is certain and uniform in its effects. It has cured thousands and will cure you. Try it!!
