Coal is $5 60 @ $6 10 in Stroudsburg. Nearly a dollar more than in the cities. Is this compelling us to pay extra merely because we are in their hands just the thing on the part of the Railroad Company?

Cold, wintry weather, but no snow, of any consequence, is still the order of the day, in this latitude. Our lumbermen, and those who depend upon lumbering for the earning of extra dollars in winter, are beginning to look despondent.

Hon. John Sherman was re-elected Senator from Ohio last Wednesday. He received 73 votes; against 64 for George W. Morgan, and three scattering. This will be Sherman's third term in the Senate, where he has served most ably and usefully.

The weekly report of the Philadelphia Board of Health, up to Saturday noon, shows 216 deaths from small-pox. This mortality is but slightly less than that of the preceding week, although there is said to be a marked diminution of new cases.

The School Festival.—This beautiful little Quarterly Magazine, devoted to new and sparkling matter for School Exhibitions and public days, is received for January. No teacher or pupil should be without it. It costs only fifty cents a year; single copy, fifteen cents. Write for it, to Alfred L. Sewell, Publisher, Chicago, Ill. Send your subscriptions now and you will not regret it.

Mrs. Wharton's trial, at Annapolis, for the murder by poison of General Ketchum, is not yet ended. The last two weeks have been consumed by the defence, who have brought forward numerous scientific men to prove that Ketchum really died of spinal meningitis, and that the testimony on the part of the prosecution to show the presence of antimony in the dead man's stomach was unwarranted by the facts. It now seems pretty certain that Mrs. Wharton will not be convicted.

A stranger from the benighted regions of Pike county, was in this city this week, and attempted to dupe several dealers by arranging for the purchase of goods, in each case giving a different assumed name. Among the firms with whom he left his orders, are Hunt Bros., M. R. Colvan, J. H. Phelps, M. Orr, and others. He stopped at the St. Charles Hotel, and failed to pay his bill. He ordered the City Journal to be sent to him, but failed to comply with our terms for advance payment, giving his name and address as Sperling Custer, Bushkill, Pike county, Pa., which is said to be correct. In palliation of his strange acts, it is said that he is an inveterate opium eater, and is under its influence most of the time.—Scranton City Journal.

The pardon report is annually accomplished by the Governor to secure, fixing the responsibility of all pardons on the people, judges, juries, prosecuting attorneys and witnesses, who appeal for Executive clemency in behalf of criminals with whose crimes they are well acquainted, of the crimes for which they are incarcerated, they are cognizant. The public begin to know where to put the blame, when wrong is done in this connection.

The Brethren of the I. O. of O. F. have had quite a gala time during the past week, and have appeared as happy, and well pleased with each other as larks. On Thursday, of last week, the brethren were visited by the officers of the Grand Encampment, and members of the Grand Lodge. A reception, in accord with the standing of the visitors, was given them, and in the afternoon a meeting of the general brotherhood was held in the Hall of Fort Penn Lodge, where speeches, and interchange of sentiment, and instruction were made, had, and given, relative to the work of the order, and the best means to secure its still further advancement. The meeting was one of real interest, and its proceedings may well be set down as a genuine, unadulterated flow of reason. In the evening the visiting brethren, accompanied by a number of the brethren residing herabouts, committed themselves to the tender mercies of mine Host Allender, of the "Stroudsburg House, and our word for it they were well cared for. The table, groaning under the weight of all the luxuries of the season,—the appointments connected therewith, and the cheerfulness and clock like regularity with which every want of every one present was anticipated and supplied, attested beyond doubt that the Captain of that ship knew how to keep a Hotel. The feast over, and the last word said, the company separated for the night, and rested well in the consciousness of having spent a day and an evening rationally and with moral profit to all.

On Friday morning the visiting brethren were shown the chief matters about town, and at noon took the train for their homes. Their gentlemanly and fraternal deportment while here, left the impression upon every brother here, that an order with such ornaments at its head could not but be prosperous and useful in the production of a vast amount of good in every community in which it obtained a foothold. The visit of Brothers STOKES, LEVERGOOD, PEAFF & HEISS, will ever remain a green spot, in the memory of every Odd Fellow who came in contact with them.

On Monday evening last the brethren of Fort Penn Lodge celebrated the 26th anniversary of the institution of the Lodge, by a supper at the Stroudsburg House. Some fifty of the brethren, many of them accompanied by their wives and sweethearts, sat down to the table, and for about an hour indulged in knife and fork exercise in a manner that was most complimentary to the skill of the caterer for the occasion. And it could not well be otherwise, for Brother ALLENDER, if possible, really eclipsed himself, in the liberality of his provision and superiority of the attendance. We would not attempt to particularize, and content ourselves with the assertion that a most generous bill of fare was literally overflowed, both in quantity and quality, with good things set before the guests. After the good things substantial were fully discussed, the cloth was removed, and the good things intellectual came upon the board. After an excellent address, suitable to the occasion, by Brother GREENWALD, wit, sentiment, and song took charge of the hour, and such a time was had, until the hour beyond the twelve, as only Odd Fellows know how to indulge in and enjoy. We were there, and may we, and all who were present, live to enjoy many such reunions. We were particularly pleased with the presence of the Ladies. Though Odd Fellows are always reasonable in their enjoyments, yet the presence of the ladies gives a still more enjoyable tone to the gay and good feeling prevalent.—The fact is they are the jewels in humanities diadem, and their sparkling eyes and radiant smiles impart additional zest to any occasion.

To all concerned with the house, from the landlord down to the humblest waiter boy, the brethren are under obligations, for at least one of the pleasantest evenings of their lives. It will not do to omit particular mention of Mr. Secretary POINSETT. Edward was his own ubiquitous self, and whether behind the Bar, or in the Dining Room the comfort and welfare of the guests was his chief aim, and success crowned his efforts.

Mr. Editor:—It is a pleasing fact to all who are interested in popular education, that the schools of Monroe county are receiving more attention than they have heretofore.

"The Wickersham Normal School" project is a good one. We do not hold, as some persons in this vicinity, any antagonistic views in reference to this enterprise. An institution of this kind if properly conducted, will undoubtedly contribute to the promotion of the common schools in our county. We admit that the place which has been chosen for the Institution is not as suitable as it might be, yet this does not condemn the undertaking.

Aside from this there are other school interests worthy of our attention. East Stroudsburg has done well in the erection of a commodious school building. But, it can not boast of paying its efficient principal teacher a high salary. Perhaps the school patrons of the place think, since their principal is an unmarried man, he can live on moderate pay. Foggysism in Smithfield township has been recently thrown into violent convulsions by the prompt action taken by the school board which has been supported by the intelligent caste of the township. But like all spasms, these contortions have left their victims in a comparatively debilitated condition.

Stroudsburg is behind its neighbors in school buildings, but by the judicious management, of such men as Thos. A. Bell and others, of its educational affairs, there is no doubt but what it will soon have a building of which any town may feel proud.

The Court of Pardons, which met at Trenton, refused to take any action in the case of George Botts, convicted of the murder of 'Pet' Halstead, at Newark. The Governor of N. J., has therefore issued a warrant for the execution of Botts on the 26th inst.

To the C. P. Officers and Fellow Patriarchs of Monroe Encampment, No. 161 I. O. of O. F.—We the undersigned a committee appointed to draft preamble and resolutions expressive of the feeling of this Encampment, beg leave to submit the following for your consideration: WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in the exercise of his Omnipotent will and the dispensations of his divine Providence, to call one of our number from our midst, we trust to himself, and to add another link to the chain of departed Brothers, who, having thrown off the mortal have put on immortality, and have bid farewell to Time and entered upon Eternity, and,

Resolved, That in this sad bereavement we are again admonished that life is short and knowing not the day nor the hour when the change cometh, it behooves us to beat all times ready, burning our lamps trimmed and our light burning, that we may be cheered and comforted in our passage through the gloomy valley and shadow of death.

Resolved, That in the death of Patriarch Charles Waters, we acknowledge the loss of one who, during his intercourse with us was a good and useful member of our Encampment, one whose principles of action being grounded upon our principles was just to himself and the brethren, an upright man, a consistent christian and a faithful member of our Fraternity.

Resolved, That we sympathize most deeply with the family and friends of our deceased brother, tendering to the widow the protection of our beloved Order, and may He who tempers the winds to the shorn Lambs, ever rule all things for her good whilst remembering that her husband is not dead but sleeping. Resolved, that in appreciation of his services while living and our sorrow at his departure, our Charter be draped in mourning for the space of three months, and that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased, also be published in THE JEFFERSONIAN and Monroe Democrat.

J. E. SNEYDER, J. I. ALLENDER, GEO. JACKSON, Committee.

To the Editor of The Jeffersonian: For the first time in the history of this County, we are visited with the disease called Cerebro Spinal Meningitis. It has so far only made its appearance in Tolyhanna, the sufferers from it being a young girl of Mr. Samuel Stitchee and also one of Mr. Peter Gruber's children, of that place.

The pathognomonic symptoms of the disease were present in each case, viz: The characteristic chill at the commencement, followed by the stiffness or rigidity of the muscles of the neck, the head thrown backwards, difficult deglutition opisthotonos or arching of the body forwards, deafness, semi-comatose condition, or partial stupor, picrosthotonos or turning of the body to one side,—and in one of the cases, that of Mr. Gruber's child, the purple colored spots, made their appearance on the arms and legs and some portions of the body. Mr. Gruber's child died on Sunday evening, the 14th inst. Mr. Stitchee's child is doing well and in a fair way of recovery. G. W. J. Stroudsburg, Jan. 16, 1872.

What is there so strange in the bloody fate of Jim Fisk that any man or set of men should become excited over it? The poor wretch is now cold and stark in the embrace of death, and we take no delight in writing harsh words of censure over or upon his remains. But there is some thing due to the living in referring to such dead men and their careers, which all chroniclers of human affairs should render without fear, favor or affection.—Jim Fisk's death was a logical end to a fearful career—a result which was natural as a conclusion to such a man's life. He lived in defiance of all law, maintaining brothels by the plunder of helpless stockholders in a corporation over which he presided—disarding a lawful wife to cohabit with a painted bawd, making public displays of his licentiousness in all public places, and pursuing a social and business career outrageous of all decency and all integrity. He delighted to trample on other men's rights, and gloried in the triumphs of a libertine. Surely, it was not strange that a fiend the equal of Fisk in all but financial means, who, made frantic by lustful jealousy, should murder his rival. New York is full of just such men, to day, as Fisk and Stokes—and while society applauds the acts of the former, the latter will play assassins. Men of their grade and instincts are beasts who destroy each other, but the sad part of the work is that the dececencies and securities of society suffer thereby. Stokes, like Fisk, is a married man, and both paid court to the same harlot. Fisk having died by the hands of Stokes, he will be sent out of the world by a hangman. What will be the fate of the harlot? This is still another phase in this bloody affair to which public attention will be directed and riveted. The woman Mansfield, is the she devil who lured Fisk to his final fate. She beguiled and seduced him to her lair of death, and wore the winding-sheet of his soul. She got his diamonds and sapphires, his gold and his bonds, and then laughed him to scorn as she dragged him into a court of justice. Will men profit by this lesson?—Harrisburg Weekly State Journal.

If numbers constitute power then Britannia still rules the waves, despite American monitors and ponderous French iron clads. Mother England's mercantile marine is now made up of thirty seven thousand vessels, representing six million tons. Of this immense tonnage four million of tons is in steamships. This gives Great Britain more merchant craft than all the other nations of the earth combined. In this calculation the navy proper of England is not included. The number of her war vessels is proportionately large, and if there is virtue in iron and oak Britannia now, as in the days of CAMPBELL, "needs no towers along the steep," for she can surround the sea girt three kingdoms with a portable cordon of fortresses, and then have ships to spare to make sorties on the commerce of the world.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

To be Held in Philadelphia on Wednesday, the 5th of June.

The Republican National Committee met at Washington on Thursday last, for the purpose of designating the time and place of holding the National Convention for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President.

For some time past efforts have been made by representatives of different cities, including St. Louis, Boston, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, to secure the favor of the Committee, but the most powerful influences were exerted in favor of the latter city. Philadelphia was also the preference of Gen. Grant and most of the Washington officials. When the Committee met, eighteen out of the thirty votes were given for Philadelphia on the first ballot, and the choice was then made unanimous.

The formal call agreed upon by the Committee, and signed by the members, is as follows:

The undersigned, constituting the National Committee designated by the convention held at Chicago, on May 20, 1868, hereby call a convention of the Union Republican Party at the city of Philadelphia, on Wednesday, the 5th of June next, at twelve o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of President and Vice President of the United States. Each State is authorized to be represented in the convention by delegates equal to twice the number of Senators and Representatives which it will be entitled to in the next National Congress, and each organized Territory is authorized to send two delegates.

In calling this Convention, the committee reminds the country that the promises of the Union Republican Convention, of 1868, have been fulfilled. The States lately in rebellion have been restored to their former relations to the government. The laws of the country have been faithfully executed, public faith has been preserved, and the national credit firmly established. Governmental economy has been illustrated, the reduction, at the same time, of the public debt and taxation, and the funding of national debt at a lower rate of interest, successfully inaugurated. The right of naturalized citizens have been protected by treaties, and emigration encouraged by liberal provisions.

The defenders of the Union have been gratefully remembered and the interests of labor recognized; laws have been enacted and are being enforced for the protection of persons and property in all sections, equal suffrage has been engrained on the National Constitution, the privileges and immunities of American citizenship have become a part of the organic law, and a liberal policy has been adopted toward who engaged in the rebellion.

Complicated foreign relations have been adjusted in the interests of peace through out the world, while the national honor has been maintained, corruption has been exposed, offenders punished, responsibility enforced and safeguards established. And now, as heretofore, the Republican party stands pledged to correct all abuses and carry out all reforms necessary to maintain the purity and efficiency of the public service. To continue and firmly establish its fundamental principle we invite the co-operation of the citizens of the United States.

Alexis on the Plains.

NORTH PLATTE, Nebraska, Jan. 13.—The Grand Duke Alexis and party arrived here this morning, and started immediately for the camp. The permanent camp for the buffalo hunt is on Red Willow Creek, about 50 miles south west of this post. The camp consists of two hospital tents, 10 wall tents, and a tent for servants and soldiers, Box stoves and Sibley stoves are provided for the hospital and wall tents. The hospital tents are used as dining tents. An extensive culinary outfit is also provided; and also 10,000 rations each of flour, sugar, and coffee, and 1,000 pounds of tobacco for the Indians. Company K of the 2d Cavalry, under command of Capt. Egan is at the camp. Company E of the 3d Cavalry, under command of Lieut. Shower, acts as escort, and the whole is under the command of Gen. Palmer of the Omaha Barracks. Lieut. Hays is Quartermaster of the expedition. Cody, alias Buffalo Bill, met the Duke and party here. A relay of horses is at Medicine Creek, about half way to the camp. The party expect to make the trip in eight hours. The buffaloes are in great numbers within ten miles of the camp. A few hours ago, 400 Indians were reported at the camp, with their families, and others were coming in rapidly. It is expected that the war parties of Spotted Tail, Whistler, War Bonnet and Black Hat will be there, with their respective chiefs and bands.

A Warning.

An article in the Mining Register concludes as follows: "There is a large hole in the side of the Pocono mountain, north of Stroudsburg, which ought to be photographed for the benefit of the farmers of Pennsylvania. It was dug by the farmers of the neighborhood, between 1830 and 1840, at the suggestion and under the superintendence of one of those wandering charlatans, who declared that he had 'come upon the track of a silver mine' on the north bank of the mountain, where the Aquacheola flows down towards the Lehigh Water Gap. He had 'followed it' across the creek, and over the hills about Stroudsburg, and over hill and valley for twenty miles, and found it on the steep side of the Pocono mountain. With this story he lived on the people for more than six months, and suddenly disappeared after they had spent between $1,500 and $2,000—a great sum in those days and to such people—and could give him nothing more.

By the fragments of bone, alone, the doctors were enabled to determine that a human being had met his fate upon that spot."

The experience of every Dyspeptic tends to prove that the proper method of treatment of that wide spread disease, Dyspepsia, is not to be found in any of the regular schools of medicine.
