

About Women.

Women are now admitted to fifty American colleges. Louisa Muhlbach, the historical novelist, has sued a Dresden paper in $4,000 for libel. To balance Huxley's conversion to orthodox George Sand has become a Catholic. The engineer of a locomotive on one of the western railroads is a gushing blonde of the softer sex. Widow Fay, of Oregon, has set up a cigar manufactory, and her weeds are said to be the best in the State. A Boston girl has sued a good-looking mulatto for breach of promise and recovered a thousand dollars damages. Matilda Fletcher, of Iowa, the "queen of the Western platform," has completed a brilliant course of lectures in Ohio. A lady belonging to one of the best families in the South, is keeper of a toll bridge over the Neuse river in North Carolina. One-half of District Attorney Corbin's audiences, when he was stamping New Hampshire, are said to have been composed of women. A Philadelphia lady of three score and ten on receiving an offer of marriage simperingly referred the octogenarian who made the offer to her father, and that gentleman, aged ninety, graciously gave his consent and danced at the wedding. An Illinois editor thus sarcastically speaks of the marriage of a professional brother in Indiana: "He stepped upon the hymeneal platform, adjusted the fatal noose, and was swung off into that unsilent bourne whence he can never return, save by the Indianapolis connecting lines." The Methodist ladies of St. Louis recently met in solemn convocation and appointed a committee to present a memorial to the General Conference which meets shortly at Brooklyn, asking that body to sanction and provide for the ordination of women as ministers of the Methodist Church. At New Years, the Mormon Sisters of Ephraim, Utah, resolved to lay aside all the eggs laid by their chickens during the Sundays of 1872, towards a subscription for the benefit of the poor matrons of that persecuted church. Unfortunately for the scheme, the chickens are so pious that so far not an egg has been laid or laid by. The Duke of Somerset, in his "Christian Theology and Modern Skepticism," thinks that this gender of works has a great deal to do with our religious beliefs. He insinuates that if the word spirit, which is feminine in Hebrew, had not been changed to masculine in Latin, one or more of the Trinity would be of a different sex. A Kentucky paper gives an account of a $2,500 hog pen built by a woman farmer in Scott county. It states that it is painted and grained, furnished with hot and cold water, heated by steam and lighted with gas. The troughs are mahogany, inlaid with ivory. Plans of the pen have been forwarded to Greeley, and receive his warm approbation. Heretofore 99 per cent. of the telegraph operators in the Grand Duchy of Baden have been women. Hereafter the working of the wires is to be in the hands of the Imperial authorities, who think that women's propensities to gossip has too wide a range with the telegraph in their possession, and accordingly measures are being taken to provide the dismissed operators with a husband and a home. A prepossessing and lady-like girl a few days ago was detected in stealing a pair of silk hose in a Boston store. On being approached and reproached by one of the proprietors she began to weep pearly tears and offered him $20. He magnanimously charged her only the regular price of the hose and handed back the change. Her artless guile was remembered by him with a tender smile till it was discovered that the bill she gave was a counterfeit. A correspondent of the Baltimore American says the following is a true copy of a letter recently received at one of the Fulton street prayer meetings: "Fulton street prayer meeting—I write because I am hopelessly wretched; I am young, wealthy; the world says happy. I live in the first circles here. I am married to a man I dislike. I have two children by a man I love, and he lives with his wife. I have no faith, no hope, nothing. I am wretched and miserable. I don't believe in your meeting and yet I write because I am so unhappy." There was no signature. The St. Louis Christian Intelligencer thus talks of the woman-women: "They are not decided what to be, but they will not be women. They are determined to be somebody else, not recognized, not classified, nor ticketed for a place in the world. They will be feminine men, husbandly wives, paternal mothers, matronly lawyers, delicate doctors, dapper divines, States ladies, city mothers, alderwomen, bearesses and bullesses in Wall street. They are determined to see the universal petticoat wave triumphantly over a subjugated world, while woman herself shall flourish in every conceivable product of Beblam and Beldam. A St. Louis woman hearing that the boarding house of her lover was in flames, and that he was in an upper story unable to escape, rushed frantically to the spot, seized a ladder and mounted it, despite the entreaties of her friends. Agilily ascending, she soon disappeared amid the smoke and flame which enveloped the windows of his fourth story room. A breathless silence fell on the multitude below, but soon the brave girl reappeared with her darling in her arms. As she descended, the ladder bent and swayed beneath the double burden, and the increasing flames caught in her long crinoline and crinoline, but the steamer played on her unceasingly, and amid shouts which rent the skies preserver and preserved reached mother earth in safety. In answer to the women suffragist argument that the female politician will discountenance corruption and render lobbying a pure and virtuous occupation, the Washington Star says: Even good women are not proof against contamination when they go into lobbying. From the report of the New York Commission of State Charities, we learn that the ladies who have engineered most of the charitable appropriations to the hospitals, &c., have countenanced bribery to a shocking extent. One lady wished to get an appropriation of $5,000 for the New York City Woman's Dispensary. Some man unknown to her offered to get her $7,500, provided she would give him all the grant above that sum. This specimen refiner of politics accepted the offer, got $7,500 out of a $10,000 appropriation, and took a falsely signed receipt for the balance.

An Odd Proposal of Marriage.

Pitts is a sharp business man; and, when Pitts goes into a store to trade, he always gets the lowest cash price, and then says—"Well, I'll look about, and if I don't find anything that suits better, I'll call and take this." Now, quite lately, Pitts said to himself, "I'm getting rather along in years, and guess I'll get married." His business qualities won't let him "wait," so off he travels, and calling upon a lady friend, opened the conversation by remarking that he would like to know what she thought about his getting married. "Oh, Mr. Pitts, I am not so very greatly interested, and I prefer to leave it with yourself." "But," says Pitts, "you are interested, and, my dear girl, will you marry me?" The young lady blushed very red, hesitated; and finally, as Pitts was very well-to-do in the world, and morally and financially of good standing in society, she accepted him; whereupon the matter of fact Pitts responded—"Well, well, I'll look about; and if I don't find anybody that suits me better than you, I'll come back."

Leap Year.

It is remarkable how the ladies keep leap-year here, says a New Orleans correspondent. The usual form is gone through with on the streets as well as in the parlor. On Saturday I attended the matinee at the new Varieties Theatre, and was much amused with the witty freaks of the ladies. Several who had invited gentlemen to accompany them stepped up to the ticket office, purchased tickets, offered their arm to their company, and seated them in their proper places. The performance over, the lady, the lady again offered her arm, and, after a promenade along Canal Street, the usual courtesy would be extended by the lady paying the fare in the street cars. The other evening, in one of the Baronne Street cars, just about the time there is a great rush and the cars crowded, an elderly gentleman entered the car. Every seat was occupied, and, as he turned to leave, a lady left her seat, and taking the venerable gentleman by the arm, said, in a low, sweet voice, "Pray, be seated, sir; take my place." As he was about to decline, she said, "No, sir; I insist upon your taking it. This is leap year, you know." This little action caused many a compliment to pass from the lips of the male passengers.

Many young men are removing from Alabama to Texas. There are said to be a million and a half of people in Germany who speak the English language.

The newest style of coffee pot has a little steam whistle attached, which warns folks when the coffee is ready.

It is reported that there are seventy-five counties in Texas in which there is not a single Sunday school.

A saw log passed through Harrisburg a short time since which contained 5,000 feet of lumber and weighed 12,000 pounds. It was from McKean county.

The oyster trade in New Orleans employs 5000 persons, and the sum realized for the bivalve in the shell on the wharves is $1,250,000 annually.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great diseases of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this. It is a certain remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that Cherry Pectoral, will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the fore-runners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence, and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, and the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centre of them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.
