Friday evening Lecture at 71 o'clock. MORNING SERMON : The Gospel Feast. EVENING SERMON : The Yoke and Burden 1873, and providing that all claims filed of the Gospel.

G. W. MARRIOTT, D. D., Pastor.

Religious Notice .- Rev. E. Schodler, of Brodheadsville, will preach in place of Rev. J. R. Focht, at Tannersville, on Sunday, April 21st, in the German language one of the largest ever held in that city. 6,564, making a total of 25,593 for the county. in the forenoon, and in the English language in the afternoon. All are welcome.

THE MONROE DEMOCRAT, after Dix, Moses H. Grinnell, Marshall O. thanking him for documentary favors, speaks thusly about Congressman Storm, his course prominent citizens. A declaration of princiin Congress, what the people think of him, and his prospects for the future :

"Mr. Storm has made a very good representative and we find his course is quite all departments of the public service, and satisfactory to the people of this district. He that the "one term principle" for the Presiis young yet, and if he acquits himself as dential office will conduce more to that end well hereafter, as he has heretofore, no doubt higher honors await him.

Now we would like to know the precise meaning of all this. The language is ambiguous ; but, Democratically speaking, he "has made a very good representative," having voted, on all occasions, under the strict lead of the chief fugleman of his party. Only once did Mr. Congressman Storm swerve from a straight line, and that was when he spoke against and voted for the National Education bill. But even for this apparent contre-tems, Mr. S. had the valid excuse. that he followed the lead of the greatest Democratic exponent of Constitutional law in Congress. And this reminds us that neither the Easton Sentinel nor the Wayne County Herald, speaking for a large body of Congressman Storm's Democratic Constituents, they being of the people, are, on this point satisfied with his course. We reminded the Democrat of this, and suggested that it give us its opinion as to the right or wrong of this vote. Thus far the Democrat is mum on that point, but it does not hesitate to claim satisfaction for the people of the whole district, even with the facts staring him in the face that the people of a large portion of the district have, through their accredited organs, expressed dissatisfaction with his course-a dissatisfaction which was not appeased even by Mr. Congressman's feeling. But what are we to understand by the last sentence of the laudatory notice copied above "He is young yet, and if he acquits himself as well hercafter, as he has heretofore, no doubt higher honors await him." Is there an "Ingin" hidden behind that bush. Has our friend of the Democrat concluded to join with the rest in the play of "Big Ingin" against the young Congressman ? Has he too smeared himself with paint, assumed the breech clout, grasped the tomahawk and scalping knife, and thus prepared himself for the war path, as soon as the War whoop has been sounded? Congressman Storm has need to keep his eves about him if that is the case. Just think of HE of the Democrat assuming the toggery and style of "Spotted Tail," or "Red Cloud," and joining, yelling and hooting, in a foray against our youthful Congressman. The idea alone is terrible, but what would the reality be. But are fears of such a result groundless? Now what is here insinuated? That is the the amount of about $1,000. cry of all who speak against Mr. Congress man Storm's renomination. Does the Democrat think with them ! "And if he acquits or gents wear Ruster has all the novelities. himself," &c., says the Democrat. Does the Democrat in this if seek for a cause for suspicion against him. The completion of the sentence reads, "as well hereafter as he has heretofore, no doubt higher honors await him." What more fair interpretation of this, in view of all the Democrats recent surroundings, than that, as with his present term his honors rest easy, if he behave himself hereafter, yield to the desires of others equally ambitious to serve the dear people in a congressional way with himself, and sup port their pretentions, in the future, when added years have matured his wisdom, and given still further evidence of his fealty to party, "no doubt higher honors,"-a United States Senatorship, the Governorship, or the Presidency perhaps,-"'await him." We have no desire to interfere with the intentions of our Democratic friends in their dispensation of the honors and emoluments of the offices they have under control, but we do dislike to see an innocent young man blarnied with honied words, and then, while his eyes are closed in the extacy of his joy, look on and see him tomahawked and scalped before our very eyes. If they intend displacing Congressman Storm with some one else, let the leaders go boldly to work at it.
