kept crawling on, step by step, until at last, gathering strength, it appeared to rush with the most demonaic fury towards the town. The fight continued bravely until Wednesday evening, when despair seized upon the citizens, and they began to feel that all was lost unless aid from abroad came to the succor. At about 8 o'clock p. m., on Wednesday evening a dispatch was received from Isaac Case, Esqr., stating their great danger in brief, and asking that the Steamer Pocono, with the fire Company, be sent their assistance at once. Our town having been startled with an alarm of fire in the afternoon the cause for which was only prevented, from culminating in a most destructive conflagration by the opportune labor of several persons near by, there was some hesitation in sending away our only security, in shape of Steamer and men. A discussion of the matter, however, led to the improvising of such means of protection as could be gathered together, and by 11 o'clock, p. m., both the Steumer and men were on the cars, slowly winding on their way to the rescue of the apforming in line and receiving the flowers to parently doomed town. After a ride of some two hours the scene of our labors was reached, and being used to seeing burning brush, but unused to the antics of a fire rushing rampant through the woods, we mnst confess that we did not, at first, see the cause for the look of utter hopelessness, which we saw upon the contenance of almost we met. A few moments however, served to open our eyes to the true state of affairs, for wreaths &c., will be received at the Hall of and crackling as though the elements were the "Phœnix Fire Co." in the fore-noon of all let loose, and the forked tongue of fire said day, (May 30). The air was filled with stifling smoke, and look which can Union will be gratefully received at the way you would, it was nothing but fire. Upon unshipping the Steamer we found that a plan of operations, and the only one which promised the least success, had been agreed upon by the spirits who had thus far led the fight against the destructive element. The rains of Sunday and Monday, we learn The Steamer was, in consequence, at once ton, are deserving of the highest praise for their extraordinary exertions on this occasion. They really appeared to be ubiquitous and the judgment and perseverance displayed by them was beyognd all praise.

We cannot close this article, long as it is with out calling the attention of our citizens to the fact, that in our Steamer, the Pocono. and her gallant managers, they possess matchless treasure. For some Eighteen hours, through 1850 feet of hose, stretched through, around, and over immense board piles, with but an average of sixty copounds of steam, and with very inferior fuel, she threw a stream, through an inch and a half nozzle. at least one hundred and eighty feet in length, steady as a clock, and as telling in its effect the theme of praise from ested in the property saved by her, and himself greatly skilled by experience with Steamers and hre Engines generally, in the exuberance of his feeling stired up by her excellent services, declared that the man who built her, "deserved a crown of glory !" A letter before us, from a prominent citizen of Tobyrendered, closes by saying:

"Your Steamer saved this place. This ed to their utmost capacity, and frequetly your Steamer and her boys did."

It was a risk to leave town as we did ; but it is cause for thankfulness that we run the risk, and that everything turned out so well. finished up the fire fiend most effectually.

The value of property destroyed by the recent fire at Somerset, in this State, was keeping of the Companies extensive board about one million of dollars. The best piles, containing several million feet of dry part of the town was consumed. Yet the sawed lumber, the bark piles, containing amount of insurance on the property lost several hundred cords, the buildings near was but sixty thousand dollars. The Tennessee Republican convention met on Wednesday and chose delegates to the Philadelphia Convention. A letter from Senator Brownlow, endorsing Presi dent Grant, was read and cheered. N nomination for Governor was made, a contest being deemed useless.

Of the 25 State delegations which have been chosen for the Philadelphia Conven tion, 22 have been formally instructed to cast their votes for Grant, and threefrom Connecticut, Missouri, and South Carolina-while they are not pleded, are understood to favor the same nomination. This gives Grant 412 of the 714 delegates, and, of course, assures his nomination.

Simultaneously with springtime the swindlers have started on their annual upon the fire as would be a thunder bolt upon tour among the farmers, introducing their dry pine building. Her work was new machinery for mowers, plows, &c .every When they meat a man who don't take one; and one individual, largely inter- the papers, they appoint him an-agent for the township, take a contract, which the farmer signs, and this "contract" when cut in two, proves to be a note which greency has to pay.

The emigrition from Ireland to the United States is on the increase, the movement this year having commenced hanna, after giving expression to the thanks earlier and being more general than ever of his neighbors for the important services before. The steamships sailing from Liverpool and from Irish parts are crowd s just as true, as that it was here. I never twice as many emigrants as the vessel is saw such a fire in my time before, nor did I able to accommodate secure passage in a ever see better or more effective work than particular steamer. To Test Flour.

The following rules are given for testing the quality of flour : 1. Look at its color; if it is white, with a slightly yellowish or straw-colored that, it is a good sign; if it is very white, with a bluish cast or with black specks in it, the flour is not good. 2. Examine its adhetsiveness -wet and knead a little of is between the fingers; if it works dry and clastic, it is good ; if is works soft and sticky, it is poor. Flour made from spring wheat is likely to be sticky. 2. Throw a little lump of dry flour against a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface ; if it adheres in a ump, the flour has life in it; if it falls like powder, it is bad. 4. Squeeze some of the flour in your hand ; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that too is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests, it is safe to buy.
