Mutual Fire Insurance Company.
STROUDSBURG, PA.

ESTABLISHED 1844.
CHARTER PERPETUAL.

The By-Laws of this Company, and the regulations governing insurance have, recently been very materially changed, placing it upon a basis equal to that of any Fire Insurance Company in the State.

Important among these changes are the following, viz:
 Policies, instead of being perpetual, are issued for five years.
 All property is classified and the rate of premium is fixed according to the risk of the property.
 Premium notes are taken, and all assessments are made on the notes.
 Property is insured for not more than two thirds of its actual cash value, and the full amount of insurance paid in case of loss, provided the loss be equal to the amount of insurance.

"Annual assessments" only are made, except in cases of heavy loss, and where a special assessment is necessary.
 The Company is therefore prepared to insure property upon terms much more desirable than under the old system.
 Applications may be made to any of the Managers, Surveyors, or Secretary.

An Impromptu Wedding.

A Missouri paper gives a detailed account of how a betrothed couple were persuaded to anticipate the day set for their wedding, and to have the ceremony abruptly performed at a birthday party, at which they chanced to be guests. It says: "Recorder Their was also present, and as soon as he saw the young couple come in, with an eye to business he suggested that if anybody was present who wished to be married, he was at their service. The young couple at once took the hint: The young man was willing, but the maiden was backward and would not consent. Adam concluded to use a little diplomacy, so he says, 'I will make a present of a $35 cooking stove to any couple that I shall marry to night.' This proposition so delighted the company that others commenced offering presents. F. G. Mueller said, 'I will give a nice bureau; E. G. Ahlers, 'And I a spring mattress; Fischer, the hatter, 'Call on me for a rocking chair; Miller, the gunsmith, 'I'll give a set of cushion bottom chairs; Mr. Volk, 'And here's an extension table; Mrs. Anna Nitebeck, 'I'll give a $50 bedstead; Mr. Gatz, 'Put me down for a fine looking glass; Mrs. Mitchell, 'Here's a breakfast set; Miss Fritz Nitebeck, 'I'll give a clock; and so they went on until the presents in the aggregate amounted to about $400, the young couple meanwhile blushing and hardly knowing what to say or do. Several friends of the young lady got around her, and told her she would not again have such a favorable opportunity to 'make a start in the world; and just as the party was breaking up, about 11 o'clock, Mr. Hunstock, who seemed to be working in Adam's interest and urging on the match, came round to the Recorder, and whispered in his ear: 'Stop a leedle, dot's all right—by chinks, we got a wedding anyhow poody, soon!' Adam called a halt, the company stood still in hats and bonnets, while the Recorder proceeded and said, 'I pronounce you man and wife, and may God bless you,' and Miss Sierin was Mrs. Green, to the intense delight of all present."

Protection to Cemeteries.

Among the late acts passed by our Legislature, was one giving police powers to superintendents or other persons entrusted with the care of Cemetery grounds, which we here reproduce. It is singular that persons can be found so lost to all sense of decorum or decency as to despoil the last resting places of the dead of their treasures of shrubs and flowers, planted by loving hands, but it is nevertheless true, and it would be well for such vandals to read and reflect that there is punishment to be meted out for such wanton desecration. "It shall be lawful for the trustees, directors or other officers of all organized cemeteries within this State, to appoint as many day and night watchmen of their grounds as they may deem expedient; and such watchmen, and also all of their superintendents, gardeners and agents, stationed on such grounds, are hereby authorized to take and subscribe before any mayor or justice of the peace in the township where such cemeteries may be situated, an oath of office, similar to the oath required by law of constables; and upon the taking of such oaths, such watchmen, superintendents, gardeners and agents shall have, exercise and possess all powers of police officers within and adjacent to said cemetery grounds; and they, and each of them, shall have power to arrest, on view, all persons engaged in violating the laws of this State in reference to the protection, care and preservation of cemeteries, and of the trees, shrubbery, structures and ornaments therein, and to bring such persons so offending, before a mayor or justice of the peace within such township, to be dealt with according to law."

A Word for Jersey.

Notwithstanding the jeers of outsiders at "Jersey," and the slurs of her being a foreign State, her sparse population of 10 or 12 miles distant, barren soil, &c., all must admit that her mosquitoes and gnat lynnipers are a first rate, lull grown production, complete in all their parts, from biting down. One of a party recently rusticated on the "Shore," avers that while lying down, defending himself from an attack by the affectionate animals, that he actually felt a rising sensation as though he was being lifted up. This may have been a delusion, as "Jersey lightning" is said to have produced the same sensation; but he avers it to be a fact that they could bite through three sets of clothing without difficulty. Yet for all this, the mosquitoes are not to be despised. They appear to be endowed with patriotism and defend their native soil with a vigor not to be ignored. It appears that a party of Pennsylvanians, who recently encamped in little Jersey, feeling rather independent, actually stole a railroad depot and carried it into the bushes to sit upon. The mosquitoes indignantly resented the outrage, and making a vigorous and united attack on the intruders, routed the whole crowd, retook the depot, and probably carried it back to its position. It is well for the "loved ones at home" that it was only the mosquitoes that went for the crowd, as Jersey justice is noted for the celerity and certainty of its operations on all misdoers.

The apple crop in Greens county is very large and of fine quality.

Heavy Sentence.

The Bank of England forgers have had their trial and sentence. It appears that one of them, George Bidwell, after the examination of witnesses, delivered an address to the Court, in which he exonerated Austin Bidwell and Edwin Noyes from all complicity in the frauds, and declared that he and George Macdonnell were the only guilty ones. Macdonnell also addressed the Court, bearing out the statements of Bidwell. The case was then given to the jury, who, after twenty minutes' deliberation, found all the accused guilty. Mr. Justice Archibald immediately sentenced each of the prisoners to penal servitude for life—the highest punishment under the laws for their offence.

A Horrible Murder.

SCRANTON, Sept. 27.—The bodies of Mrs. O'Marra, aged 65, and her daughter, aged 30, were found near Montrose Station, Delaware Lackawanna and Western railroad, this morning, but not injured by trains in any way. The coroner's jury elicited sufficient evidence to warrant the belief that they were murdered and placed on the track by Daniel O'Marra, the old lady's son, and his hired man, named Irving. Blood was found on Irving's clothes, and at several points between the house and the railroad, a distance of two and a half miles. Daniel O'Marra had inherited some property, on condition that he would support his mother and sister, the latter of whom was partially blind from her birth. The supposition is that he killed them to be relieved of the burden of supporting them. He and Irving have both held to answer.

The Moon's Orbit.

We commonly regard the moon as a satellite of the earth, and we are taught at school and in our text books, that while the earth travels round the moon revolves round the earth. But in reality this is erroneous, or at least is suggestive of error. The moon ought to be regarded as a companion planet, traversing with the earth around the sun. The distinction is not at all a fanciful one. The earth is not the body whose force the moon chiefly obeys. On the contrary, she is attracted more than twice as strongly by the sun. If the motions of the earth and moon could be watched from some far distant standpoint, the observed movements would by no means suggest the idea that the moon was circling round the earth; and in fact, if the earth were concealed from view while her satellite was thus watched, the moon would appear to circuit round the sun in an orbit which could not be distinguished from that which the earth herself pursues.—Corn Hill Magazine.

Porcelain.

Porcelain differs from glass in the great preponderance of silicate of alumina in its composition. It consists mainly of clay, which is infusible, and some alkaline silicate, which fuses and binds the clay together, rendering it impervious to moisture. The fineness of the ware entirely depends on the purity of the clays, &c. from which it is made. The glaze which covers porcelain is produced by dipping the "bisquit" ware into water in which is suspended finely ground feldspar; the porous mass absorbs the moisture, leaving the surface covered uniformly with the feldspar. It is then exposed in seggars to a very high temperature, by which the feldspar is melted and the glaze produced. Stone ware and common "pottery ware" are glazed by means of common salt. The ware is dipped in sand water, placed in the furnace into which has been thrown moist salt. The heat quickly converts the salt into vapor. In the presence of the steam the silica on the ware decomposes the salt, forming a silicate of sodium which glazes the article, and hydrochloric acid which escapes.—Cassell's Popular Educator.

Regular Liquor and Tobacco Dealers.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue decides that regular liquor and tobacco dealers holding special tax stamp as such, may close their ordinary place of business for the time being, and, on registry of the facts with the collector of the district, may do business under such stamp at one stand in the fair grounds situate in the said district, without the payment of additional tax, but before opening again their regular places of business should make a new registry with the collector of the district.

So we are yet to navigate the air with east iron balloons! A French savant has discovered and illustrated that hydrogen gas is composed of two elements, the levity of one of which is to oxygen gas as nine to one, and to illuminating gas as twenty-five to one. It is also inflammable and will extinguish fire. The discoverer filled a copper ball with the newly gas discovered and it arose to the walls.

A colored debating society in Trenton, Tenn., has just debated the question, "Which is the most of profit to man—money or education?" One of the debaters argued that if it had not been for education the world would not have been half as large as it is. This clincher was met, however, by the argument that "if it wasn't for money, how you gwine to ride on de kyars?" It was at once decided in favor of money.
