THE ELECTION.

The Election on Tuesday was a very quiet one, and the day being "a good Buckwheat day," the vote in this county was a light one. The Democratic majority for the State Ticket, will hardly reach 1,500.

For Representative, Kistler, irregular Demo leads Dimmick, regular, in seven townships heard from, by 371 majority. The probabilities are that he will carry Monroe county, and be elected. For Commissioner, the figures appear to seat Frable in the office by a majority of several hundred. For Treasurer, with four townships heard from Gunsaules leads Altimus 135 votes. The vote is too close to enable a judgement as to which is elected

Our District-Attorney, accompanied by the enterprising clothier Fried, and S. Robeson, reporter for the Monroe Democrat, left town for Kresgeville, on Friday morning last, to be present at a post mortem examination held on the body of the lad, Muffly, who was so brutally murdered a couple of weeks ago. The operation was performed by Drs. Lesh and Drake, in a skilfull manner, but revealed nothing but what was known be fore, that the lad came to his death from the wound inflicted on his throat—the throat being cut from ear to ear. Rumor has it that during the operation, a general faint struck the Stroudsburg dignitaries, in the follow ing order: First, the District-Attorney sickened, leaned and keeled over; next Fried concluded that he would feel better if he haid down rather suddenly; and, after him, Reporter Robeson succumbed to the, to him, inevitable. But, after all, is it not shocking to civilized sensibilities that after a murder, a Coronor's inquest and burial, the farce of exhaming a dead body, and cutting and slashing it, even in a scientific manner, must he gone through with. It is certainly not necessary if acting Coronors understand their duty; and if they do not it is, just as certain-natural way. THE parade of Saturday night, gotten up as an escort of honor to a young man of our borough, who had been imprisoned for a confessed crime, was an outrage which should have been abated, by the officers of the law, could not ascertain, attempted to commit without a moments hesitation. We mention suicide, by cutting his throat, at Pocono, on no names in connection with the matter, be- Saturday morning last. He was alive when cause that is not necessary; but there is a last heard from, but with little hopes of his principle involved in the act, which should meet the strongest reprobation of every well meaning citizen. Now let us see what the true meaning of last Saturday nights proceedings were. Laws are made for the protection of the citizen, in his rights to life, liberty and immunity from danger to person, as well to property. Under these laws the penal- do not believe its like was ever witnessed large rooms, one for technical collections, and was impossible to extract himself. The ties step in to punish the offender for every before. violation of these rights; and crimes against them are punished in proportion to the magnitude of the aggression. In the case under consideration a violation of the rights what there is must be cut and punched into fesors' studies. The fifth floor of the centre of a citizen to safety in his person, confessed by the aggressor, had been most leniently and schpeck," is an appetiser not to be for original researches. In determining what met by the penalties of the offended law. It was not the desire of the sufferer that the penalty should be extreme-nor did the to produce the desired effect, to wit: the im- ahead. parting of the knowledge to the pugnacious young man, that he could not club and chair his fellows with impunity. The mercy dis played by the Court, when months instead of days might justly have been the sentence, met the approbation of the public, and the culprit and his friends should have been satisfied with this, and with the additional concession of the privilege of friends to visit him, whenever he saw fit. But not so. The criminal must be prestoed into the martyr. and the leiency of the laws demands counteracted by a triumphal procession, and with drums, and torches and huzzas the culprit be led, as a very hero, to his home and his friends. What is the use of Courts and Jails, and the expense necessary to maintain them, and what the value promised protection in the full enjoyment of the so called inalienable rights of man, if such things are to be permitted. The sentence of the Court complied with, the young man should have been permitted to return to his home, purged of the heniousness of his offense by the penalty he had suffered-not as a hero worthy of adulation, but as a young R. Harps, V. G., Eugene B. Marsh, Sec., man, simply, entitled to the respect of his A. L. Bittenbender, A. S., George Sayde fellows, in the future, so long as he behaved himself. The doings of Saturday night was an outrage upon law, and only calculated to bring it into disrespect, and the officers of the law failed most wofully in their duty when they permitted it. We hope never to see the same thing repeated.

THE Lutheran church was crowded on Sabbath morning and evening, to hear the new preacher. The Rev. Kohler delivered excellent discourses, introductory to his settlement among us, and made a favorable impression on all who heard him. We see no reason why, under such a pastor, the con gregation should not grow, and become a power for good among us.
