

Amid the jarring wrangle of adherents of rival candidates for the several offices on the State ticket, to be voted for in November, it must be gratifying to the friends of General Harrison Allen to know that so well and ably he has served as Auditor General in opposition to him, and that, throughout the entire Commonwealth, his opinion seems for once to be unanimately approved of in the verdict of the faithful and intelligent manner in which the duties of the Auditor General's office have been discharged.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The growth of Philadelphia commerce, since the Evening Bulletin, is shown by the fact that during the year ending June 30th, 1874, exports to foreign ports amounted to $1,000,000, which is an increase of $800,000 over the previous year, and of $12,000,000 over the year ending June 30th, 1873. This increase is the more remarkable because the exports from many other ports have declined in the same proportion. The statistics of our import trade have not yet been made public, but they show a very large increase; while it is well known that the imports at New York and other ports have fallen off since the panic of last fall.

According to the impression which seems to be prevalent in the East, that nearly the entire State of Minnesota is overrun with grasshoppers and the crops utterly destroyed, the St. Paul Press, of the 14th inst., published a statement showing that the damage done by the grasshoppers' raid is equivalent simply to a loss of about one-tenth of the usual crop, or about the same as if the average yield throughout the State was diminished from any source something over 1 1/2 bushels per acre below the general average. It extends over only about one-tenth of the area of the State, and involves about one-thirtieth of the population. The crops outside of the devastated region promise a most abundant harvest.

The Williamsport Debating Society was discussing the subject of "endurance," the other night, and many were the incidents brought forward to illustrate the power of the human mind. One of the speakers put a damper on all others by telling this anecdote: "Some years ago I took a ball from one of our iron foundries, and dropped it into the ladle where the melted iron was, and had it run into a skillet. My old woman used that skillet every day for the last six years, and one day she broke it all to smithereens, and what do you think, members of the Society, that she did? She walked up to his hole where he'd been lying like a log in a rock, and made tracks for his old feet up stairs. But, by George, grave diggerman, he looked mighty pale!"

The Frontier Friends. A special despatch to the St. Louis Globe, from Dodge City, Kansas, says: "The Indians are very bad out here, and people are terror-stricken. Up to this time five hunters and four other men have been killed, scalped, and mutilated. One man was murdered and scalped only six miles from town, while on his return from a trip to Camp Supply. After killing him they took his stock. He leaves a wife and six children here. Their fiendish cruelty has no bounds. A hunter by the name of Butler was captured the other day. They tied him to a wagon-wheel, tore out his finger and toe-nails, one by one, scalped him from ear to ear, cut his hands off at the wrist, and then staked him to the ground with picket pins driven through his breast. There were eye-witnesses to this strange deed.

One of the boldest movements was an attack on the trading posts of A. C. Myers and Charles Rath & Co., down on the Canada. A band about two hundred strong attacked those places. One is a strong blockade, and the other is made of heavy stone walls. There were only eighteen men inside to do the fighting, and the most of these hunters, who are brave men and good shots. Two whites were killed outside the walls and one inside. Eleven dead Indians were left on the ground. Desperate efforts were made by the redskins to get their fallen warriors away, but the hunters kept up too deadly a fire on them, and they had to leave them where they lay. Doubtless many of the wounded they carried away afterwards died. Before leaving they killed all the stock outside of the blockade.

MONROE COUNTY
Mutual Fire Insurance Company.
STROUDSBURG, PA.

ESTABLISHED 1844.
CHARTER PERPETUAL.

The By-Laws of this Company and regulations governing insurance have, recently been very materially changed, placing it upon a basis equal to that of any Life Insurance Company in the State.

Important among these changes are the following:
Policies, instead of being perpetual, are issued for five years.
All property is classified and the rate of premium is fixed according to the risk of the property.
Premium notes are taken, and all assessments are made on the notes.
Property is insured for not more than two thirds of its actual cash value, and the full amount of insurance paid in case of loss, provided the loss be equal to the amount of insurance.
"Annual assessments" only are made, except in cases of heavy loss, and where a special assessment is necessary.
The Company is therefore prepared to insure property upon terms much more desirable than under the old system.

Applications may be made to any of the Managers, Surveyors, or Secretaries.

MANAGERS.
R. S. Staples, J. Deque LeBar, Robert Boya,
Silas L. Drake, C. D. Brodhead, F. Hagerman,
Jacob Knocht, John Edinger, T. W. Rhodes,

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!
Just published, a new edition of
Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance; Piles, &c.
Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps. Also, DR. SILL'S REMEDY FOR PILES. Send for circular.
