

THE WESTERN DELUGE.

Pittsburg and Allegheny City Flooded by a Rain Storm—A Hundred and Fifty Lives Reported Lost.

A terrible rain storm prevailed in the Western part of the State on Sunday evening, which resulted in a terrible devastation of life and property in the vicinity of Pittsburg. A morning paper in that city gives the following graphic narrative of the flood:

All the flood gates of the heavens were opened last night, and a vast volume of water was discharged upon the city. During the day heavy showers took place, but they proved only preparatory to which came down upon us between eight and nine o'clock in the evening. The rain was accompanied with vivid lightning, and for over an hour the storm was fast and furious. The water came down in sheets, which fairly glistened as the flashes of lightning fell upon them in quick succession. A fearful loss of life is reported from Allegheny, and a pecuniary loss beyond that caused by the late destructive conflagration. At the Union Depot the tunnel of the Pan Handle Railway was flooded with some four feet of water, and of course became impassable for trains, and traffic for the time being on the road was suspended. In the Thirty-sixth Ward were felt the most costly results of the deluge. The tremendous body of water which

into Sawmill Run raised that stream with great rapidity, and sent it whirling with tremendous velocity and power into the river. A large quantity of barrels and lumber were carried away, and fast piled up against the new iron bridge, which did not long resist the fury of the assault. The bridge by which Carson street crosses the river was swept from its abutments. So great was its force that large numbers of barges with coal were torn from their fastenings and swept down the river. The towboat R. P. Wood was also carried away. At Wood's mill occurred, covering the rails of the Pan Handle Road to the depth of about eight feet. A train coming toward the city was struck there, and was not dug out until nearly morning. Another train was bottled up just below the saw mill run. The damage to the track will be great. The damage done to business houses is very great, but cannot be computed at this time. Messrs. Arbutnot, Shauman & Co., in Liberty street, had a valuable stock of goods in the third cellar, and this was flooded and damaged to the amount of $5,900.

A TREMENDOUS SLIDE

IN ALLEGHENY.

The greatest damage done was in Spring Garden avenue, in the Seventh Ward. In one tavern a number of persons were seated when the water commenced to rise. A man named Hess thought to attempt an escape by swimming, and was drowned. A son of Alderman Bolster lost his life in a vain endeavor to save the life of a baby. A young lady, sixteen years old, is also among the victims. Thus far thirteen bodies have been recovered in this section of the city, and at Woods Run three bodies have been found. Five or six persons are missing. A well known citizen named John Schaefer, is supposed to have been lost; also, Adam Burgess, a police officer. The names of the drowned at Woods Run are Mrs. Brannon and a child named Gorman. The gas is extinguished, and until daylight some conception of the tragedy can be felt.

A Later Dispatch

affords additional particulars of the flood, and gives an increased, and, we trust, an exaggerated account of the loss of life. It says:

Over one hundred and fifty lives have been lost by the flood. Of those lost, over seventy bodies have been recovered. About one hundred persons were drowned at Butcher's Run in Allegheny; twenty eight at Saw-mill Run, of whom the bodies of seven have been recovered; and ten bodies have been lost at Castle Shannon.

AT WOOD'S RUN

the havoc has been fearful. Houses were swept away, and for hours the place was one sheet of water. One house was torn down completely, and another overturned. The lower story of the house was completely demolished by the stones hurled against it. Brady and Justin streets were completely washed away. Stones weighing from five hundred to six hundred pounds were carried from Centre avenue, through the culvert, to Fifth avenue. Seventh avenue is completely gutted and will have to be repaved. The curbstones were carried off. A wall at the head of the street was carried thirty feet. Eleven bodies have been recovered, and six are missing. On the south-side the was fearful. Up to this time eight bodies have been found, and there are twenty missing. One block of ten buildings was swept away. The West End gas-works, Temperanceville, are gone. It is now a complete wreck. Deputy Mayor Grice and Esquire Martin are holding inquests on the bodies. At Soho the destruction of property was large. One family there saved their lives by getting out of their houses into a stiff. A number of street and steam railways are stopped. The Connellsville Railroad is completely blockaded above the city, and no trains are running. The Birmingham, Ormsby, and Pleasant Valley Railway lines are all stopped. The stages of the Pleasant Valley lines are seriously injured. On the Connellsville road the earth is washed away from under the tracks.

THE GREATEST DAMAGE

confined itself within the block bounded by Spring Garden avenue, North Chestnut street, East Perry street, South Centre street west. The land within the described limit is considerably depressed, and consequently the torrent rushing from the hill sides emptied itself into the hollow, forming a mighty gulf, which in a brief space swallowed the inhabitants, the flood coming upon them between nine and ten o'clock. So sudden was its appearance that they did not have time to ascend to the upper stories before their houses were afloat. Some were overturned, while others floated on until striking against neighboring structures they were overturned or crumbled to pieces.

HOUSES ARE LYING ON THEIR SIDES, and others are completely overturned with the roof wedged in among the debris. Carpenter shops, stables, and stores are lodged in the trees, some completely broken into. The dead bodies have not all been taken out as yet, nor will they for some days to come. As near as can be ascertained fifty bodies have been recovered by half-past ten this morning.

A FORTY MILLION LAWSUIT.

The Great Case of Turnbull vs. Pardee Decided.

MAUCH CHUNK, PA., Tuesday, July 24, 1874.

The great $40,000,000 coal land lawsuit of Turnbull vs. Pardee and others, which has been pending in this State for two years, has been decided in favor of the defendants, under the provision of the law of Pennsylvania governing the gaining of title to land by Treasurer's sale for arrears of taxes.

The question at stake was the title of several thousand acres of land in lower Luzerne county, rich in deposits of coal, held by the defendants, and claimed by James Turnbull, as the heir of Alexander and James Turnbull deceased. The land is in the heart of the coal fields, and was the property of the Turnbull family, once prominent in Philadelphia, long before it was known to contain coal. The last Turnbull in whom the title rested was James Turnbull, deceased, father of the claimant. He neglected to keep the taxes on it paid, and it was sold at Treasurer's sale. The property subsequently came into the hands of Oris Pardee and other great capitalists. The father of the plaintiff died in Philadelphia about forty years ago, before the great value of the land was known. He left a divorced wife and the plaintiff, then a mere child. Some time after the death of his father, young Turnbull went to sea. His mother, in 1862, believing that her son was rightful owner of the land in Luzerne county, made efforts to have the claim substantiated. She found a friend and adviser in O. H. Wheeler, Esq., then a lawyer in this place. He shared her belief in the justice of her son's claim, and recommended an ejectment suit to recover. It being necessary to find the missing heir before anything could be done, they commenced a search for him. For twenty years they sought and waited anxiously to hear of his whereabouts. Finally, in 1871, they heard of him in Mazatlan, Mexico. He was summoned home, and arrived in Philadelphia early in 1872.

His career had been one of constant danger and hardship. On his first voyage he was shipwrecked. With eight companions he floated for nine days on the ocean in an open boat. It was picked up near the Island of St. Thomas, with all its inmates dead but Turnbull. Recovering from this voyage, he went to Central America, and in 1849, to California. He remained there a year or two and made considerable money, adhering to a resolution he made when he left home to touch no intoxicating drink and never to gamble. Leaving California, he went to Mexico, engaging in the construction of a canal at Mazatlan. While there he was robbed several times, and was once left for dead, with twelve daggers sticking in him, by a gang of Mexicans, who robbed him. On the way from California to Mexico he was the victim of a steamboat explosion, in which over a hundred were killed, he being one of a very few who escaped. He was several times shipwrecked, but lived to answer the summons to come home and prove his claim to immense wealth. He worked faithfully in his cause, but takes his defeat philosophically.

In Philadelphia, last year, the police made 39,409 arrests.

The government is reducing its laboring force all over the country.

Lancaster claims to have a girl, only eight years old, who weighs 135 pounds.

Cumberland county has an eleven-year-old girl who pulls the scales down to 168 pounds.

A Bellefonte man keeps a pet rattlesnake tied in his front yard, to keep away lightning-rod men, sewing machine agents and book peddlers.

A little girl in Reading has just died from the effects of having her ears pierced. This announcement is not expected, however, to top the sale of earrings.

James McCabe, a New York thief, robbed a jewelry store at Hartford, Conn., Tuesday, July 9th, was caught and tried, and at 3 P. M. was sentenced to the State Prison for seven years.

A terrible disaster was occasioned in Nevada on Friday by the bursting of a water spout in the mountains. Between twenty-five and thirty-lives are reported lost, and a great deal of property destroyed.

The oats crop is now about ripe in Bucks county, and quite a number of fields were cut during the close of last week. The growth is generally short, or not more than medium, but farmers say that the heads are well filled, and there is likely to be at least an average yield.

Gen. Charles Albright is favorably commended in certain quarters as a successor to Hon. John Scott in the United States Senate. Among his supporters are the Mauch Chunk Gazette, Montour American, and the Norristown True Witness.

The mystery of the Ross abduction case is yet as dark as ever. The Mayor of Philadelphia has offered a reward of $20,000 for the recovery of the child and the conviction of the kidnappers, but no light has been obtained. Such a reward ought to bring out the secrets of this harrowing case. No effort or cost ought to be spared to arrest and punish the child-robbers who have thus far managed to defy the officers of justice.

A bridegroom seldom renders his mother-in-law speechless, but here is an interesting case: A self-possessed young man called at a house in Atlanta, Ga., a few mornings ago, and asked to see his wife. "She is not here," replied the mistress of the house. "There is no one here but the members of my own family." "Well," he replied, "it's one of them I want to see. I married your oldest daughter last night."

An "infernal machine," containing three pounds of powder, enclosed in a box, was recently sent to Mrs. Charles C. Herring, living on Second street, Philadelphia. It purported to be a box of newly-invented articles, which Mrs. H. was to inspect, but proved to be in fact full of powder, with matches arranged to explode it when opened. The scheme happily failed of its purpose, and one Edward Wagner, her son-in-law, was arrested as the criminal party.

Where is Joseph Friedrich?

The aged mother of Joseph Friedrich (or Federich), who left Reading about thirteen years, is very anxious to hear from him. He was at times with relatives of his mother, residing near Delphos, Ohio, but his friends in Reading have not heard of him since the outbreak of the rebellion. Exchanges would favor a deserving, but poor old lady by copying.

Identified.

The body of the man found near Ellenberger's Island, a few weeks ago—as mentioned in the Free Press at the time—by a party of gentlemen fishing, has since been recognized as that of James Roney, an Irishman who fell in the creek at Stroudsburg some time in February last. His wife and brother removed to Freemansburg last week. Roney's brother went up to Stone Church, where the body was buried, recognized it and made preparations to have it removed.—Easton Free Press.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance; Piles, &c. Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents. The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice—that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically. This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents, or two plain stamps. Also, DR.
