

The Jeffersonian.

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1875.

Where the salary of the Superintendent of Common Schools comes from.

The election of County Superintendent will take place on Tuesday, the 4th day of May next, at the Court House, in this place. The question as to where the salary of the Superintendent comes from, and what bearing it had on the general school fund, has long bothered School Directors, and we must acknowledge that we used to be of that number.

But by referring to page 111 of School Laws and Decisions, and paragraph 270, it will be found that the State Superintendent has officially settled that question as follows: "The salaries of County Superintendents are payable out of the gross amount of the State appropriation. Each (Superintendent) is not paid out of the gross amount or dividend of State appropriation coming to his proper county. This mode was adopted during the first year of the office; it has been ever since sanctioned by the Legislature in making the annual appropriations, and will be adhered to while the law remains unchanged."

Thus it will be seen that the school money appropriated to this county will not be lessened of any perceptible amount by the Superintendent's salary whether it be one thousand, twelve hundred, or fifteen hundred dollars per annum. If the salary were increased five hundred dollars, it would perhaps not lessen the appropriation to this county more than about seven dollars. This may appear unaccountably strange to those who have not given this subject any particular attention, but it is nevertheless a mathematical fact; $500 divided among 70 counties will render this very clear.

The State Superintendent recommends that the salary be fixed before balloting for Superintendent, as the subject of salary would be more likely to be considered on its true merits at that time than at the close of the convention.

The Republicans should not forget the State Convention, which meets at Lancaster, on the 26th of May. Candidates for Governor and State Treasurer are to be placed in nomination, and we should see to it that we have a voice in saying who they shall be. At no previous time in the history of party has the importance of the Convention and its nominees been so exalted. Undoubtedly he has the State in our power, but it cannot be denied, that power will not remain with us unless we act with such circumspection in our nominating convention as to secure confidence and thus ensure the union of our working material. We have no doubt but that good candidates will be selected in any event, but even with that belief we do not believe it to be good policy to set quietly by and fail to take a hand in the choice of standard bearers for the campaign. On the contrary, we believe that our only true policy lies in getting up and doing, and for our earnest work give the public an assurance by more than a common display of energy and carefulness, that in voting for our candidates they will be voting for precisely the right man for the right place. Let us, therefore, meet and counsel together and select a man to represent us at Harrisburg. The result of last fall should teach us to discard the idea then entertained, that all was safe, when really all was at loss ends.

We have suggested to the Democracy of Monroe an excellent candidate for Associate Judge, in our distinguished neighbor over the way, and if they do not second our motion and elect him, they will not show that have the least idea of what constitutes an appreciation of the idea of justice. The office, it is true is not much on salary—affording as it does the incumbent but $300 dollars per annum, though even that sum is not to be sneezed at in these times—but it is heavy with honor and dignity. And where will you find these points more certainly centered, or more clearly defined, than in our distinguished neighbor over the way. Look at him as he walks along the streets, and you will find him not only dignified in carriage and intelligent in aspect, but, also, possessed of an avowed poise that, we will venture a wager in shape of a pound of old type, will fill the Associate Judicial chair to a nicety. If the Associate Judgeship is, as is said, altogether ornamental, we cannot conceive of a more ornamental figure than our distinguished neighbor would cut, seated on the alter of Justice's temple, and assisting in holding the traditional scales on an even balance. Think of this Democrats, and see if your own common sense does not prompt you to say that we are right on this point, every time. For Associate Judge, therefore, let us all lay heartily Amandus O. Greenwald. Let us make it unanimous.

The advertisement of Leander Emery, in another column, is worthy of special notice and mention. Leander will be remembered as a former steady, industrious, honest sober Stroudsburg boy—one whose memories left behind him here are all to his advantage. He is a young man, yet skilled in his calling, and we are satisfied that all who patronize him, in his line of business, will be justly and honorably dealt with. If any of our citizens feel that they must go abroad for anything in his line, we can confidently recommend Leander to their patronage.

The farmers in portions of the west end of the county were busy plowing last week. The storm of Saturday must have been rather damaging to their prospect for getting "seed" to right ways.

New goods will arrive at N. Ruster's this week and next. Don't fail to call and see them.

THE SHERIFF of Northampton county is going to assist twelve real estate owners to dispose of their lands.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT election at the Court House, in this borough on Tuesday next. Several good candidates in the field from whom to make a choice.

Goods cheaper than ever at N. Ruster's. He has them marked way down to bottom prices.

THAT storm on Saturday was not very suggestive of warbling birds, green peas, new potatoes, young "ingons" and "sitch." It was a snow storm and extended far and near.

IMPORTANT.—In order to quit the Boot and Shoe Business, Simon Fried offers his entire stock of Boots and Shoes, at first cost and below cost. Come one and all, now is your chance for Bargains.

MESSES JOHN C. STRUNK AND LEVI HOFFMAN, sold their Mill property, at Marshall's Creek, to Michael H. Wolf and A. J. Pipher, of Smithfield township, for $5,250. Wolf & Pipher have taken possession, and are fully prepared to fill all orders in their line of business with promptness.

A new lot on hand at Stokes' Mills. Price $8 per ton or 30 cents per bushel. Grain wanted in exchange. Corn 85 cts. per bushel, Rye 90 cts. at present. N. S. WYCKOFF & SONS, April 22, 1875.—1m.

THE Eastern Argus is anxious to know "why it is that the newspapers of this place say nothing upon the subject of the Centennial?" Hold on brother, we will both be there directly. We just want to think a while. When we quit thinking then look out for work, short, sharp and decisive. Ain't it, Amandus?

Those wishing to secure a good bargain will do well to call at N. Ruster's, as he is bound not to be undersold.

The eggs advertised by B. T. Wolf, in another column, will produce a first cross between the celebrated Boardman Smith and Piteairn stocks of Leghorns, and are the product of first premium imported birds. The Silver Spangled Hamburgs are from equally celebrated strains, selected by Mr. Wolf with the greatest care. Chicken fanciers would do well to make a note of these facts.

OUR townsman, Harry S. Wolfe, in conjunction with the Ellenberger brothers, has entered into a three years engagement to travel as a concert troupe. There is no reason why the engagement should not prove a profitable one, for a more worthy band of sweet singers could hardly be selected. The troupe will be under the management of a gentleman belonging to Washington, N. J., whose experience in such matters eminently qualify him for the position. The troupe have our best wishes for a full measure of success in every respect.

THE Sinking Fund Aid Society of the A. M. E. Church, of Stroudsburg, will hold a Grand Exhibition, in J. S. Williams' Hall, on Thursday evening April 29th and Saturday evening, May 1st, 1875, for the benefit of Rev. J. T. Hammond, pastor in charge, who will leave us on Monday, May 3d, to attend the Philadelphia Conference, which meets in Harrisburg, May 6th.

We will represent the Jubilee Singers in some of their Slave Melodies.

J. QUACKO, Sr., Chairman.

THE Milford correspondent of the Port Jervis Gazette, says: "That Aaron Crook, proprietor of the Stroudsburg and Milford stage route, and John Findlay, proprietor of the Milford and Port Jervis route, will consolidate and run a line of stages between Milford and Dingman's Ferry, during the coming Summer. The stage will leave this place in the afternoon, and return in the morning in time to connect with the stage for Port Jervis from this place. The arrangement will afford great accommodation to the traveling public, particularly those living below."

VERY AGREEABLE NEWS TO CLOSE CASH BUYERS.—We now have what we long have wanted, a cash store, that sells at cash prices. THE NEW YORK STORE has put prices within the reach of all. They have a full, new and clean stock of dry goods and notions, which they propose to sell at bottom cash prices, you can't go amiss when you go there for anything in their line. A call will convince the most skeptical. You will find the place two doors above the Post Office, nearly opposite the Methodist Church. Large signs across the side walk. Read their advertisement in another column.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—About six o'clock last Saturday morning, the body of a man, terribly mangled, was found lying up on the Del. Lack. & Western Railroad track at the southern end of the Forge Cut. The body was brought to East Stroudsburg, where it was identified by several persons as that of Freeman Starner, a resident of Tobyhanna Mills, and about twenty years of age. The facts as told by his brother an employe of the road, are, that he accompanied his brother to Washington on Friday night, started on his return on a coal train Saturday morning intending to get off and go to his brother's house which is close by where the accident occurred. The train on which he was coming up on, passed another train going south at this point and it is supposed that as he jumped off he was caught by the passing train and instantly killed. His neck was broken, left leg crushed to atoms and his right leg terribly mangled.

A fire in Richmond, Va., Friday caused damage to the extent of $37,000.

Two men named ——— Beam and ——— Lance, were committed to jail in this county, on charge of burglary committed on the store of Jacob Blakeslee, in Tobyhanna township, on Thursday last. They will experience the tender mercies of Hotel de Troch, until the May term of our Courts, when it will be settled what further disposition is to be made of them.

P. S.—One of the prisoners named above, Lance, in company with another prisoner named ——— Berger, who had been committed to jail on a charge of stealing geese, belonging to Peter Shafer, of Eldred township, made their escape, on Tuesday evening by digging out the stones in the rear-end of their cell, carefully piling the stones on the bed, until they had made a hole large enough for their egress, when they departed, we suppose, for a more congenial abode.

WHAT are we to do for flowers on decoration day? is a question easier asked than answered. The times and season have not been propitious for the shooting out of stems and blossoms, and the prospects are that the securing of a sufficient supply, as was the case last spring will be doubtful indeed.— And yet there is a remedy for the trouble, in this respect, which the backwardness of our late season puts us to. If we cannot secure flowers in bloom, we may procure living stems which in time, make our soldiers graves redolent with beauty and spots lovely from their exhalations of sweet perfume. Our suggestion of last spring—to procure roses and other permanent plants and plant them on the grave of each departed hero—is as worthy of consideration now, and there is sufficient time in which to secure them by the 30th of May. It is a most fitting way in which to show our respects for the honored dead—for while the fading, withering flower, is a reminder of mortality to the living—the growing plant is no less a reminder of that permanent remembrance of the deeds which we reverence, which should be fast and unalterably fixed in the heart of every true American. This thing should be speedily considered, and a subscription be at once started with a view of raising means to accomplish the end.

The Wilmington Jubilee Singers gave two of their unique concerts in this place last week, and a better satisfied audience never greeted, more enthusiastically, caterers to their amusement and instruction. The performers were all negroes, and their programme embraced song pictures of slave life in all its originality and eccentricity. A large audience greeted them both nights, and all were delighted and surprised at what they saw and heard. Untutored as they were in the science of songs, their efforts were extraordinary portrayals of deep devotion, of the broadly ludicrous, and of the sublimely sentimental. They sing with a freedom and ease that is truly astonishing—and yet with a pathos with all that touches the most sensitive chords of the listeners heart. Even when listening to their most comic catches, one becomes, as it were, entranced by the sublimity of sweet sounds, and is literally carried away to the realms of pleasant dreamland. Enthusiastic themselves they impart their spirit to all around them, and tears fill the eyes of the audience or the most rapturous applause burst, involuntarily, upon the scene of their efforts. In the group there are many fine voices, and their management of the spirit and harmony of the pieces rendered, are in sweet accord with nature's order, and captivate even the cynic who ventures to hear "what the darkies can do any how." Miss Dickson's voice was particularly rich and powerful, possessing a depth rarely marvelous, and a power to soar amid the upper register seldom witnessed in the most favored and carefully cultured voice which adorned the lyric stage. Decidedly, the concerts of Wednesday and Thursday nights were the best that ever favored Stroudsburg, and there was greater value received for the money paid than it is often the lot of our citizens to secure.

Ann Eliza Young, in her lecture, says the Mormons on being baptized take an oath to bear eternal hostility to the government of the United States. If this be true Elder Cannon has no right to sit as a delegate from Utah in Congress. Such an oath is a far more serious bar than the fact that he practices polygamy.

Hon. George H. Williams, Attorney General of the United States, has resigned that position, to take effect May 15th, and the resignation has been accepted by the President. The reason given is the desire of Mr. Williams to devote more attention to his private affairs, but it is also said that he means to look after the next Senatorship from Oregon. A successor has not yet been announced, but Ex-Senator Carpenter, Secretary Bristow, and Edwards Pierrepont of New York are supposed to be thought of by the President in connection with the office.

The unusual severity of the past winter, it is said, has had a damaging effect upon the small fruits in West Jersey. Strawberries in many sections are entirely winter-killed. The early Wilson and Lawton blackberries are very much injured, and the crops, under the most favorable conditions, will be light. The Dorchester berry, which is very hardy, is not materially affected. The Philadelphia raspberry, which was gradually succumbed to the severity of the late winters. Grapes are looking well. Peaches are done for, and other small and large fruits look as thrifty as they generally do at this season of the year.—Newark Advertiser.

A farmer named Bennett, living at West-field Flats, N. Y., lately tore up the rails of the Midland Railway running through his farm, and carried them away. He then destroyed a culvert and ploughed up the railroad bed. He claims that the company owes him for the land the road occupies, and that as it is abandoned as a railroad the property is his. Shortly after the Midland ceased operations he fenced the road in on his land and took up the rails. The company tore down the fences and replaced the rails, and obtained an order of court forbidding Bennett molesting the property. Bennett was arrested for contempt of court, and is under bonds to appear for a hearing in Albany.

Tickets can be had at P. S. Williams' and D. R. Brown's Jewelry Stores.

A Cure for Locked Jaw.

Judge Rank, of Lebanon county, has handed the Editor of the Lebanon Courier, the following cure for locked jaw, which he took from a publication as far back as the year 1813, and which he has seen successfully applied:—"An application of warm lye, made of ashes as strong as possible;—if the foot or hand was wounded, the same to be dipped repeatedly into the lye, and if a part of the body which could not be immersed in it, then in that case the part affected to be bathed with flannels wrung out from the warm lye."

Donaldson and his Balloon.

BERLIN, N. J., April 21.—Prof. Donaldson is at Cake's Hotel, at this place, safe and sound. After leaving Philadelphia, the balloon sailed in nearly a southern direction and landed at Conrad's terra cotta works, on the Williamstown Railroad, near Ateo, New Jersey. The balloon became unmanageable and, no assistance being at hand, Prof. Donaldson was obliged to cut the basket loose in order to save it, and the main part of the balloon reascended and was lost. The upper currents of air were very cold—so cold in fact that mineral water taken along by the aeronaut was frozen.

Herman, the celebrated magician, was married recently. And his wife doesn't have to get up at daylight to go to market. When she wants a dozen of eggs, she simply hands her husband the empty egg bag and he produces them by slight-of-hand; then he cooks an omelet in a borrowed hat and converts a can of saw-dust into that much white sugar, and a similar cup filled with chipped paper is changed into hot coffee; then he takes the same hat, stirs up its emptiness with a magic wand, and presto, change! out comes a loaf of bread, a fresh shad, two pickles, one pie, a bucket of coal, a dish of hash with natural hairs in it, and half a dozen knives and works. This is much cheaper than going to market. But Mrs. Hermann is not happy. When her husband wants a gold dollar he mysteriously picks it off the end of his wife's nose.

And she is dissatisfied because she can't perform the trick herself.—Norristown Herald.

The Williamsport, Pa., Gazette of the 17th has an interesting article on the lumber trade in that vicinity. Thus far the spring has been favorable for the log floaters, and the indications are that the entire stock will reach the boom in safety, and that the mills will start up about the first of May under favorable circumstances. It is estimated by well informed manufacturers that the total amount of stock to be received in the Williamsport and Lock Haven booms will not exceed 250,000,000 feet. At present it is thought there are about 75,000,000 feet in the Williamsport boom, and the logs are coming lively. According to official reports made to the Lumber Exchange, the stock on hand at Williamsport on January 1, 1875, was: Pine, 234,748,992 feet; hemlock, 19,536,339 feet; lath, 40,636,254; pickets, 3,828,405 pieces. During the year 1874 the shipments of lumber from Williamsport, by rail and canal, reached 236,806,289 feet, a decline of only 6,656,200 feet under the shipments of 1873. The shipments from other points on the West Branch brought the total for 1874 up to 298,322,984 feet. For the first quarter of 1875 the shipments from Williamsport foot up 22,941,650 feet, a decrease, as compared with the same period in 1874, of 29,499,149 feet. This falling off was caused by the depressed condition of the lumber market during the winter. As the spring opens up trade increases, and it bids fair to grow better as the season advances. The stock of lumber on hand, January 1, 1874, at Williamsport, was as follows; Pine, 220,961,922 feet; hemlock, 19,872,444 feet; lath, 58,541,100 pieces; pickets, 1,280,250 pieces. The Renovo Record estimates the amount of logs and square timber out in that locality at 50,400,000 feet.
