We will sell Boys' and Youth's suits from four to seven dollars, good cloth and well made.

What Next?

We will sell our five dollar Mens' Boots for $3 50, and Mens' good lasting Boots for $1 75, worth $2 50.

What Next?

We shall sell Ladie's good lasting Gaiters for $1 25 and $1 50, worth $1 75 and $2 25 in some stores. We shall keep a good assortment of Ladies' and Misses' and Children's Shoes, and sell them wonderful cheap.

What Next?

We will sell good soft fashionable Hats for Men for $1 50 and $1 75, worth $2 and $2 50 in some stores. Small Boy's and Youth's Hats and Caps, very cheap.

What Next?

We intend to keep on hand fashionable Dress goods, in quantities so that none need to go away without being suited, both in style, quality and price.

What Next?

People wonder how Decker can sell goods so cheap. The reason is simply this. Mr. Decker lives near the city and can be there a great portion of his time hunting up the pretty and cheap goods, and buys them for cash, and this is the reason he can sell them so cheap for cash.

What Next?

Our customers will find in Mr. QUACKENBUSH, the Superintendent of the Store, a gentleman who will always be glad to see them and show them the cheap goods with great pleasure.

What Next?

Be sure and go to the Cheap Auction Store, town town, 4 doors below the Post Office.
