

A Western physician has just discharged a case of confluent small pox, without a trace. He painted the face of his patient with collodion and ivory black, applied as often as necessary to keep up a complete mask.

The fishing smack Sylvan Glen, of New London, captured a monster animal resembling a turtle, off Montauk Point, recently. The animal is seven feet long two feet through. Unlike the ordinary turtle, the project animal has no feet, but large fins projecting on either side, which measure eight feet and six inches across. The head is unquestionably that of a turtle, but is crowded with teeth of an elastic texture. The animal is incapable of drawing in its head. Its neck is about a foot long. The back is jet black, and ridges run horizontally at equal distance apart. Its shell is not thick, and resembles gutta percha. It is estimated that it weighed from 800 to 1000 pounds.

How to Destroy Insects.

The Boston Journal of Chemistry says that hot alum water is an effectual insecticide. It will destroy red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders, chinchbugs, and all the crawling pests which infest our houses. The Journal gives the following directions for its application: Take two pounds of alum, and dissolve it in three or four quarts of water; let it stand upon the fire until the alum disappears; then apply it with a brush, while nearly hot, to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves, and the like. Brush the crevices in the floor of the skirting on mopboards if you suspect that they harbor vermin. If in whitewashing a ceiling, plenty of alum is added to the lime, it will also serve to keep insects at a distance. Cockroaches will flee the paint which has been washed down in cool alum water. Sugar barrels and boxes can be freed from ants by drawing a wide chalk mark just round the edge of the top of them. The mark must be unbroken or they will creep over it; but a continuous chalk mark, half an inch in width, will set these predators at naught. Powdered alum or borax will keep the chinchbug at a respectable distance, and travelers should always carry a package of it in their hand-bags to scatter under and over their belongings in places where they have any reason to suspect the presence of such bed-fellows. To this we may add that we have recently got rid of an army of large ants, which invaded a pantry, evidently by way of the soil pipe connecting a water-closet with the sewer, by scattering powdered camphor on the shelves and wherever they harbored. In three days there was not one to be seen.

Abyssinian Slaves.

The Abyssinian girls are remarkably pretty, with large eyes and delicately-shaped features. These girls are brought down from the Galla country by the slave-dealers from Abyssinia. That beautiful country, which had not wantonly deserted it, might have become of great importance, is now a prey to anarchy. The opposing tribes are only too happy to sell their female prisoners to the Arab slave-traders. These people bring down the young girls in gangs by various routes, but the principal outlet is the Red Sea, at Massawa. A great market is at Gallabat, the frontier town of Abyssinia. There I have seen them crowded together in mat tents, waiting for purchasers from those commissioned to procure slaves by the wealthy Arabs and Turkish officials. At Gallabat a handsome young girl of sixteen is worth about £15, but the same girl at Cairo would fetch £40 or £50. The Abyssinians are a much advanced race compared with the negroes of Central Africa. The women are very affectionate and devoted to those who show them kindness. Thus, as they combine beauty with devotion, they are much sought for, and command a high price in the market. They are seldom purchased by common people, as their price is too high, and they cannot earn money by bodily labor like negroes, being too delicate and unable to sustain fatigue. Although they are generally termed Abyssinians, (Abbeshees), I have never met with a true high-caste Abyssinian girl—these would be Christians; whereas all I have seen have been Gallas—a Mohammedan race. Many of these poor girls die from fatigue on the desert journey from Gallabat to the sea-coast. Those who reach Khartoum, or the towns of Lower Egypt, are sold to the wealthy, and generally take a high position in the harems, often becoming the wives of their purchasers. In the Sudan I have met several charming Abyssinian ladies, who, having married European residents, have become perfectly civilized; proving the race is capable of great advancement.

Estate of MARY SHAFER, de'd.

The undersigned appointed by the Orphans' Court of Monroe County, Auditor to make distribution of the funds in hands of Alonzo B. Shafer, Administrator of the Estate of Mary Shafer, deceased, will attend to the duties of his appointment, on Tuesday, the 30 day of August, 1875, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the office of Hon. J. B. Storn, in Stroudsburg, where and where all persons interested are required to attend or be forever debarred from coming in for a share of said fund.

LOST,

From my wagon on the public road between Stroudsburg and the residence of Jacob Treible, in Smithfield township, on Thursday, July 8, 1875, one blue and white striped woolen blanket, and a piece of checked flannel—red, blue, black and white. The finder will be suitably rewarded for his trouble, by sending me word, and I will call and get them.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN.

A LECTURE on the Nature, Treatment, and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage, generally, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book," &c. The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
