

The Jeffersonian.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1875.

THERE will be no fair here this Fall.

WHAT has become of John J. Lagan?

THE last of the peaches will be picked this week.

COURT commences at this place, on Monday next, 27th.

THE enormous corn crop of the West is now generally considered safe.

THE cry all over town, is that John G. is married. How about it Johnny?

A SLIGHT frost occurred at this place on Tuesday morning last. Nothing injured.

A SNOW storm prevailed on Mount Washington, N. H., Friday night and Saturday.

LEHIGH coal is being shipped across the continent to California, costing $31 per ton delivered.

ELEVEN refreshment stands of the Berks county fair sold for $1,520, the largest sum ever realized.

It is estimated that the people of York have spent over $25,000 for excursions, fairs and picnics this summer.

THIRTEEN ACCIDENTS—four of them fatal—occurred in the Luzerne mining district during the month of August.

NEARLY complete returns from New Mexico indicate the Hon. G. B. Elkin's election as Delegate by about 1500 majority.

ASSESSORS who have failed to post up alphabetical lists of voters in their various districts are liable to a fine of one hundred dollars.

A NEW kind of potato bug, an inch long, and with a mouth big enough to swallow his Colorado brother, has appeared in Minnesota.

THERE were found in the craw of a quail lately killed in Ohio, one cutworm, twenty-one striped vine bugs and one hundred chinch bugs, but not a single grain of corn.

WESTON, who undertook to walk 100 miles in 22 hours, commencing at New Heaven on Friday, finished Saturday afternoon in 21 hours, 31 minutes and 15 seconds.

SNEAK thieving is becoming very common again as winter approaches, and people cannot be too careful to keep their front doors locked as well as closed both night and day.

SEVERAL hills of iron ore have lately been discovered in the Indian Territory, and bid fair to yield a good return when developed. Valuable coal deposits have also been found.

ONE day last week, Thomas Walton, the Caldono pitcher, while playing catch on the street, the ball struck him on the finger, which has been very sore. Tom look out for your fingers the next time.

HON. CARL SCHURZ will make nine speeches in Ohio during this campaign in favor of a sound currency. The first will be made in Cincinnati on Monday evening, September 27, in response to an invitation from the merchants of that city.

THE 17th annual Fair of the Warren County Agricultural Society, will be held on the grounds of the Society, at Belvidere, N. J. commencing October 5th and closing on the 8th. The Secretary, J. T. Kern, has our thanks for a complimentary.

FULL returns of the late election in New Jersey give a majority of over 43,000 for each of the Constitutional amendments voted on, except the 12th which is carried by about 7000. The latter is the one declaring that mortgages shall be uniformly taxed, five of the counties adjoining New York having been exempted from such taxation some years ago.

FOR the benefit of our Republican friends it may be stated that at a meeting of the Republican State Committee at Harrisburg, last Friday, reports of the most satisfactory character were received from all parts of the State. The attendance was large, and the belief was universal that something more than the Erie platform and candidates would be required to defeat Hartranft and Rawle.

WE are in receipt of a note from Peter E. Wolfe, formerly of this place, but now of San Francisco, Cal., who states that he intends paying this place a visit about the 1st of December, with a troop of Japanese and Chinese including twelve of the Crowfoot Indians, and expects to give entertainments several evenings. The performances will consist of their own native exhibitions of skill and entertainments peculiar to themselves.

THIS troop is the only one of the kind in America, we are informed. So look out for fun and amusement next Winter, of a peculiar type.

THERE are now under process of erection in and around Greensburg, forty dwelling houses. All of these are good buildings and many of them elegant structures. This don't look as though times are remarkably hard.

THE birthday anniversary of Mr. Fred W. Born, was celebrated at the residence of his father, in this Borough, on Friday evening last, it being Fred's 24th birthday. A number of invited guests were present and enjoyed the hospitality. "Katie" and "Crissy," Mr. Born's eldest and youngest daughters, served up an inexhaustible supply of choice bivalves, in various styles while the genial Peter and sons "Fritz" and George dispensed the sparkling lager to the thirsty. The Stroudsburg Cornet Band furnished the music for the occasion and shared the pleasures of the evening. In the language of the accomplished leader of the Band, "Smick," we say: vice la "Fritz," may your birthday come every month.

To Tax-Payers.

The attention of all interested is directed to the fact that Friday, October 1st, is the last day on which to pay Borough Taxes and have a deduction of ten per cent. After that date the unpaid Taxes will be placed in the hands of a Collector for immediate collection.

Real Estate Sales.

Mrs. Geo. W. Brown, of Strout township, sold her farm, containing 103 acres, to Mr. Isaac Trimble, of New York City, for $8000 cash.

Mrs. Sally Ann Morgan, of this Borough, sold a lot on Monroe street, 50 feet front by 114 feet in depth, to George Philman, for $500.

Personal.

Theo. G. Wolf and wife, of Scranton, were in town, on Saturday last.

S. P. Kase, President of the proposed Lehigh and Eastern R. R. was in town on Friday last, in consultation with General Burnett, of this place, relative to securing the right of way, &c.

S. HOLMES JR. Esq., moved into his new office, adjoining D. R. Brown's Jewelry store, on Main street, on Saturday last.

Improvements.

Wm. Garis, C. U. Warnick and George W. Delong, have completed flag-stone walks, in front of their residences on Analomink avenue.

The Odd Fellow's Hall Association, of this place, have the material on hand for the erection of stone steps, in front of the Odd Fellow's Hall, on Main street, which will be completed in a few days. A creditable improvement.

The Town Council have completed two substantial stone crossings at the corners of Monroe and Sarah streets.

William Walton, has commenced laying down a flag-stone pavement in front of his brick property, on Main street, now occupied by J. P. Brown, Dr. J. Lantz and B. S. Jacoby.

Mr. Fred Bartholomew completed a brick pavement in front of his dwelling on Pocono street.

Mr. Philip Miller has set the curbs in front of his property, on the same street, and will during this week lay down the brick.

Messrs. Baltz, Palmer, Setzer and others, are arranging to lay brick pavements in front of their dwellings on the same street.

Mrs. John Caffey and Samuel Rees, Esq., have finished pavements in front of their property, on Monroe street.

Our neighbor of the Democrat, has the curb stone on hand for a pavement in front of his lot on the same street.

J. H. Butts, has the curb set, and will lay down a neat flag-stone pavement in front of his residence on Walnut street.

George W. Drake and Mrs. John Shively, have finished paving in front of their property on Ann street.

M. R. Brown, has commenced the erection of a two-story brick building, 32 by 18 feet, Kitchen attached 16 by 18 feet, on Scott Avenue, in this Borough.

Peter Williams, Ex-Sheriff Marsh and John Edinger, have completed their pavements on Monroe street.

Mr. Jesse Albert, of this place, is making alterations in the building on Monroe street, he recently purchased of J. B. Storm, Esq. When completed it will be an ornament to that part of the town.

Mr. C. P. Mick's new frame building, on Sarah street, is rapidly approaching completion.

Fred Norton is making the necessary arrangements for the erection of a brick dwelling house on his lot nearly opposite the residence of Ed. Baltz, on Pocono street.

We had nearly forgotten, or were almost too modest to state, that we have just completed as neat and substantial flag-stone pavement in front of our office, as this town can boast of; and we must be excused if we feel just a little proud of it.

The stone is first class, and the work done by Peter O'Hare is in harmony with the quality of the stone.

The stone came from the deservedly popular flag-stone quarry of Dr. Lentz of this place.

Lehigh & Eastern Railway.

We are credibly informed that the officers of the above company having met with such ill success, in getting the right of way from Stroudsburg to Port Jervis, now contemplate surveying a route from Stroudsburg through the Delaware Water Gap, to Portland, connecting at that point with the South Mountain road, the right of way on that road having been cheerfully donated, on the Delaware River to Middletown on the Erie Road. We regret the contemplated change in the route of the projected road, as we would prefer to see it pass up the Delaware Valley.

Pic-Nic at Snyder'sville.

The Sunday School picnic came off at Snyder'sville last Thursday, and in all particulars was a grand success. The dinner which was served in the grove all that could have been desired. The turn out on the part of the citizens was large. Two Sunday Schools, and Neola Lodge, No. 827, I. O. O. F. was out in strong force, seventy members being present.

The addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Shafer, and by an Albricht minister, whose name we did not get. Every thing was going on finely, when in the middle of afternoon the rain, which had been threatening up to that time, broke out in full force and broke up the assembly.

"The Eldridge Recitals," Etc.

J. Prescott Eldridge, of New York, known as "The American Recitationist," who has during the past ten years or more appeared before hundreds of audiences in the United States, will present his peculiar Entertainment known as "The Eldridge Recitals," or "An Evening with the Passions," "Psychological Science," Etc. At Williams' Hall, on Monday, September 27th.

The programme he will offer will embrace Dramatic Imitations, Character Representations, Classic Recitals, etc., together with a Portrayal of "The Passions," occupying the first hour of the evening, after which will be presented an hour of Mirth, Wit and Humor, entitled "Psychological Science," and "The Monstrous Banquet," in which will be introduced a number of original novelties of an intensely humorous nature, thus in an Evening's Entertainment presenting a varied program of amusement as to invite smiles and tears from all, pleasing the most fastidious taste, the cultivated and refined, as well as the untutored mind. From a perusal of the Programme designating the various features of the Entertainment, as well as from noting the very strong endorsements Mr. Eldridge has received from eminent critics, as well as the Press, we are satisfied that the Entertainment will prove one of the most interesting and pleasing amusements of the season, and we strongly recommend our readers to not allow it to pass by their attendance.

OBITUARY.—The wife of Ex-Judge Michael H. Dreher, of this Borough, died suddenly, on last Saturday morning, aged 72 years 1 month and 13 days.

Mrs. D. was of a domestic turn of mind always loving home and laboring to make it pleasant. She was charitable and kind to the poor and distressed, and what she did in this direction was done meekly, without any ostentatious show. She was the mother of nine children, five sons and four daughters, all of whom are living, her death being the first breach in the home circle.

Forest and Stream Sportsmen's Club of Monroe County, for the protection of Game and Fish.

FOR some time past, Col. E. E. Norton, Samuel Buckley, Hon. Wm. Davis, Hon. C. Burnett, District Attorney Lee, Samuel Huffman, Chester Fulmer and a number of other gentlemen, have been discussing the necessity of forming an association for the protection of game and fish in this County, from the merciless slaughter of unprincipled sportsmen, out of season. Nor did they stop here, they also discussed the necessity of adopting some measures by which farmers might be protected from the intolerable nuisance of having their fences thrown down and crops destroyed by these same persons whose sole object seems to be, not only to shoot every thing that has feathers on, but to do as much mischief as they can in throwing down fences and running through grain fields. Col. Norton has, ever since his advent amongst us, taken a great interest in protecting the game that abounds in this County, and says there is no county in the State so suitably adapted for game as Monroe, if the game laws were only enforced and the game protected from the wanton slaughter out of season. The result of their discussing the subject was a meeting of the above named gentlemen, and several others, at the office of District Attorney Lee, last Monday evening, and a Club formed, to be known as the "Forest and Stream Sportsmen's Club of Monroe County, for the protection of Game and Fish." A permanent organization was effected, with Col. E. E. Norton, President; D. S. Lee, Esq. Secretary; Benj. F. Butts, Ass't Secretary; Chester Fulmer, Samuel Huffman, Samuel Buckley, Hon. C. Burnett, Hon. Wm. Davis, John Baldwin, and John Selwood, Vice Presidents, and Edwin Fisher, Treasurer. At the next meeting which will be held at the "Burnett House," next Monday evening, Vice Presidents will be elected from each township, thus securing a hearty co-operation in the enforcement of the game laws in every section of the county. Several invitations were sent to prominent citizens of the different townships to attend the meeting last Monday evening, but owing to the short notice they failed to attend; however, several letters read from different gentlemen expressing their regrets at being unable to attend on account of the short notice and heartily endorsing the object of forming the club, and pledging their support. The Club deserves a liberal support from all who are interested in the game laws, and especially from the farmers who suffer the most from having fences and crops destroyed by a set of fellows whose only delight is to kill and destroy.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in the laudable object of the Club, to attend and join, at their next meeting, on Monday evening next, 27th inst.

"Don't get Angry."

One of the easiest and most perfectly silly things in this world, is to get angry, no matter with whom, man or woman, or upon what provocation. There is nothing to be gained by it, no necessity for it, and no manner of use in it.

And yet strange as it may appear, one half of the world is angry with the other, and for the most trivial thing too. Theologians get angry and quarrel, politicians, lawyers, doctors and the king and peasant follow close on the heels, with dogs and cats, birds and beasts, about all sorts of things, and on all occasions.

If there is any thing in the world to make one feel ashamed, it is to get angry. No man or woman fails to think less of themselves after making a display of their temper, it degrades them in their own eyes, and the eyes of others—and, what is worse, blunts the finer feelings and increases the power of passion and irritability.

Religion and politics should never be argued by friends—they are sure to end with being angry with each other, and the more angry they become the more they show to the world their ignorance on either subject. How senseless for politicians to quarrel—they are themselves denying the first principles of freedom, of thought, moral liberty, without which, politics is not worth a toss of a copper. It is wrong upon principle. All have a right to their own opinions, and one and all have a right to convince each other pleasantly if you can, but don't get angry, keep cool, and in nine cases out of ten you will gain your point; but, if you let your temper get the better of your judgment, all is lost, and you will be reduced to begging somebody's pardon before getting through. Angry words have more to answer for than actions, they live and have more vitality in them.

We are apt to think that a word or two does not matter—that we need not trouble ourselves, to be very particular as to what we say. Sin does its work in many ways—and sorrow comes from a variety of sources. And angry words have much to answer for among the rest. "All men are liars." Who but a man in a violent passion would have said that? The assertion is so sweeping and unjust that if David had not prefaced it by his profession: "I said it in my haste," we should not have understood it. Perhaps the cause of these words is, that the speaker feels himself aggrieved. We often do in this life of many trials, we cannot have all we wish for—and so we allow ourselves to become slaves to our meaner natures, instead of being masters, simply because we find only few things coming to us—when we should have all, or at least the lions share.

CECILIA.

JUDGE PERSHING's record during the war is now being sharply overhauled. He was then an active Democratic politician, and was most of the time a member of the Legislature. As such, in 1863, he voted for a bill prohibiting colored people from coming into this State to make it their temporary or permanent residence. At the same time he voted for resolutions condemning the emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln. In 1864 he voted against the law enabling our absent soldiers in the field to exercise the right of suffrage. In 1865 he voted against the ratification of the thirteenth Constitutional amendment, which declares that human slavery shall not exist in the United States or any place subject to its jurisdiction. In 1866 he voted against a resolution requesting our members of Congress to support measures to protect the credit of the Government, to prevent the payment of the Rebel debt, to prevent payment for liberated slaves, and to secure to the nation the just fruits of the war. As a member of the Democratic State Convention of 1863, held at Harrisburg, while the Rebel army was devastating the Cumberland valley, he voted for the celebrated "peace and surrender" resolution. All this was done while Gen. Hartranft was nobly leading his division in the field against the national enemy. On certain civil issues the record of Judge Pershing is no better. In 1863, while in the Legislature, he voted against a bill to prohibit the payment of employees of corporations by orders upon their stores; and in 1865 he voted for a bill making the employees of railroads responsible for accidents instead of the corporations themselves. These are facts that are verified by the public records of the State, and they present the Democratic candidate for Governor in a light that cannot recommend him to the good opinion of the people.—*Bucks Co. THE court of Washington county has fined several of the township auditors $50 each for not publishing a report of the financial condition of their several townships, as required by law.

THE Pennsylvania Knights Templars contemplate arranging the largest encampment of Knights Templar in the Philadelphia Park next year ever witnessed in the world's history.

THE Grand Lodge of the United States I. O. of O. F., met at Indianapolis on Monday last, Grand Sire Durham, of Kentucky, presiding. Representatives attended from all parts of the country, and from Canada and the Sandwich Islands. The session was principally devoted to the transaction of formal business. R. H. Morrison, of Michigan, was appointed special deputy to establish the order in Great Britain. In the afternoon there was a formal reception at the Academy of Music, the address of welcome being delivered by Governor Hendricks.

TWO sons of the Emerald Isle paid a visit to Frimont Park, Philadelphia, recently. They visited the water works. Looking on with amazement at the great turbine wheels while in motion, one exclaimed to the other: "Faith, Pat, the Americans must be quare people; they must have their wather ground before they can drink it."

THE baby basket mystery on the Welsh Mountain near Morgantown is at last explained. It was done by a young lady who is an excellent ventriloquist, who had, with the aid of some companions, a basket arranged, and a large rag baby made and placed in the basket, and the whole was worked from a secluded place by a wire. When the basket would disappear it was pulled to the place where the lady and her companions were concealed and taken away.

BELOW we give the circumference of several trees standing in Heidelberg township, Lebanon county. Although not quite as large as the enormous monarchs of the Golden State, these trees may well be considered monsters for these parts. Three chestnut trees measure respectively twenty-eight, twenty-seven and twenty-six feet in circumference, or nine and two-thirds, nine and eight and two-thirds feet in diameter. There is also on the same farm an oak tree which measures twenty-six feet in circumference.

ON Thursday night the moon shone brightly, and a young man on his way home from the club halted under a certain window and warbled forth, "Darling, I am growing (hic) old. Before he had grown ten minutes older the window went up with much emphaticness, a night-capped head popped out, and a voice like a cross-cut saw, belonging to a maiden lady of forty-five, squeaked out, "Young man, you'll grow four thousand years old before you'll find your darling in this house; so you'd better stop your noise and run home." The serenader had halted at the wrong mansion.—Norristown Herald.

THE corn crop throughout the United States this year is something immense. In scarcely any part of the country has it failed, while in Illinois, the great corn State, the crop is estimated at one-fourth of that of 1872, the largest hitherto obtained. The latest news from Europe is that at least sixty millions of bushels of grain will have to be imported into Great Britain from America. The cotton and sugar product of the South is the largest since the war; and throughout the West the hog crop will be enormous. Taking all together, we have now an excellent prospect of retrieving the disasters of the last two years.

THE Democrats of this State had a hard time to get a Chairman for their State Committee. Either John Miller would not have it again, or the party would not have him, and it doesn't make any difference which. Then it was offered to Gen. W. H. H. Davis, of Bucks, but he spit on the platform and refused the place. Finally, they settled upon poor, old, broken-down Wright, of Luzerne, and he has accepted. McCullen succeeded so well in coaxing him back into the chair at Erie, after he had adjourned the convention, that the bullies prefer to have him as chairman. They can drive him into doing anything they want.

A BOSTON family has a remarkably intelligent parrot, which repeats nearly everything it hears and which some bad boys have taught to swear awfully. It finally did little talking, except of a profane character, and, to cure its propensity, was repeatedly soaked in cold water, and placed near the stove to dry. During a recent storm, some chickens, which had become very wet and chilled, were brought into the house and put by the stove to revive them. It so happened that the parrot had just been ducked himself, and, after surveying the chickens for some time, he cried out, in oracular tones: "Little d—d fools, been swearing!"

THE way the story got afloat that the doors of Governor Hartranft's stable, at Harrisburg, were made of walnut, at a great cost to the State, is thus explained: A Democratic country editor was in Harrisburg some time ago, and in the course of his travels around the streets he noticed an engine house, and made inquiry of a fireman to know what kind of a building it was, to which the fireman replied that it was Governor Hartranft's stable. His eyesight not being very good, especially on this occasion, he was very easily imposed upon. The doors of the Governor's stable are made of oak and painted with the common fire-proof paint, and they were there at the time of his election.

REPUTATION IN POLITICS.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The nominations made by the two State Conventions in Pennsylvania are still young, and though the people, who fancied themselves pretty well informed as to the characters of their eminent fellow-citizens, had congratulated themselves upon the exceptionally excellent character of the respective candidates, they are now beginning to hear, from superserviceable organs of the one party and the other, accusations most damaging to Hartranft, Rawle, Pershing and Piolet.

This sort of business was once more popular than it is at present, and its fast-growing unpopularity is a sign of the more advanced civilization of to-day. Personal defamation was the chief stock in trade of the journalistic opponents of Governor Hartranft in 1872, but they invested and dealt so extensively in it as to create a strong sympathy and support for him, even among men whose political opinions were adverse to his. There is now no doubt whatever entertained that his majority was very significantly increased by the cruel, mendacious and cowardly assaults then made upon him by certain newspapers, which, for political and personal reasons, were given up for months together to the vile work of calumniating that brave soldier and honorable citizen. A decent public opinion, however, brought confusion upon his traducers by triumphantly electing him Governor of Pennsylvania; and, indeed, some of the papers which waged the unclean fight most fiercely have never recovered the respect and confidence they lost by their scrupulous assaults upon General Hartranft.

We only cite this instance to show that personal detraction of honorable gentlemen by partisan newspapers, simply because they are candidates of a party, is not only disgraceful in itself, but that it is inexpedient, being a weapon that returns to plague its inventor. As against Hartranft, it failed utterly in 1872, and so it will in 1875.

Considering all things, we very much doubt if it would be possible for the conventions to have nominated four gentlemen of higher character than those elected by the Lancaster and Erie Conventions as competitors for the offices of Governor and State Treasurer. And it would be well if the superserviceable organs of either party were to closely consider the recent speeches of General Hartranft and Judge Pershing, in which each candidate for Governor spoke of the personal character of the other in terms of the greatest respect. And this is characteristic of both men, for both are men of character and honorable instincts.

It fortunately happens that the present contest in Pennsylvania is one into which the question of personal character does not enter. The issues are greater and broader—questions of political economy, wise government, State-craft. It also, fortunately happens that the qualifications of the Republican candidate for the office of Governor are already known. Experience—that best of teachers—has demonstrated the peculiar fitness of Governor Hartranft for the office he now holds, and to which he is to be re-elected. For nearly three years he has daily testified to his fellow-citizens his intelligence, fidelity and statesmanship; his administration has been alike wise, progressive and economical; not only has the debt of the Commonwealth been steadily and largely reduced, but taxation also. The burden has been lifted from the shoulders of the people in many ways, and, if he had no other claims to the respect and support of the voters of Pennsylvania, he had not fought their battles daily for years together, risking fortune and life in the cause of human liberty, and winning battles for the perpetuation of our free institutions, his three years' record as Governor of this Commonwealth would entitle him to a reelection.

If the personal character of Judge Pershing is without reproach, so also is that of General Hartranft. But Judge Pershing is a man untried in the onerous position to which he aspires; he is without the experience of his opponent, and because he is a good judge it cannot be safely assumed that he would make as good a Governor. The one servant we have tried, finding him faithful, energetic, honest, economical, wise. Shall we displace him for one altogether untried, whose fitness is a mere matter of speculation? Besides, what patriotic service has Judge Pershing ever rendered to commend him to the gratitude of his countrymen? When General Hartranft was in the field, daily exposing his life before the enemy, courting the distinction of being the first in the fight, the last out of it, doing great and chivalric deeds for his country, Judge Pershing was living in inglorious ease, ranged politically with those against whom Hartranft was fighting.

We are of those who have for years urged that the bitterness of the war should be buried, that the enemies of the Union should be forgiven and forgotten; but we are not of those who demand that those who sided against the country, because they did not side with it, shall mount to places of honor and trust over the heads of those who fought the most desperately, bravely and victoriously that the Union should endure and the bondman go free. While they live our debt of gratitude to those who fought our battles and gave us the victory is an ever active debt, and while they prove still worthy of new honors, it would be the blackest ingratitude to withhold such honors from them.

There are other reasons, to be hereafter referred to, equally potent why Governor Hartranft should be re-elected in November, but this alone should be sufficient to induce his fellow-citizens to stand up for him at the polls, as he in a score of hard-fought battles stood up for them, shoulder to shoulder, with their sons and brothers.

Snow Storm in Quebec.

RIVER DU LOUP, Quebec, Sept. 19.—During the storm yesterday twelve inches of snow fell. Much damage has been done to fruit and ornamental trees.

A HEAVY frost, the first of the season, occurred at Omaha, Nebraska, on Sunday night. Vegetation of all kinds is said to be out of danger. The weather is remarkably cold, but clear.
