Four Hundred Lives Lost and 295 Houses

BLOWING 88 MILES AN HOUR—THE DE-PREDATIONS OF HUMAN JACKALS.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 23.—A special New Orleans despatch to the Times says that parties who arrived from Indianola last night, and who were there during the terrible cyclone, fully confirm all the reports of the destruction of life and property there. Out of three hundred houses only five are left standing. During Thursday night, while the storm was at its hight, the water in the city rose over six feet in two hours, the wind blowing eighty-eight miles an hour, driving the water and breakers through the city at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, sweeping everything in its way and covering the plain in the rear of the city for ten miles to a depth of several feet. Several small settlements, numbering a population of 150, were also swept out of existence, making with the 250 lost at In-dianola a total of 400 lives lost. The gentlemen conveying this information gave a most harrowing account of the destitution of the survivors. When they left Indianola Monday afternoon ninety bodies had been recovered. The stench in the city from the putrefaction of these bodies and with the stench from dead animals was almost intolerable. It is also stated that a party of Mexicans Sunday began robbing the dead bodies washed to the plain, four to six miles back of the city. The seoundrels chopped fingers, hands and ears from men and women to obtain jewelry. As soon as this was heard of in the The undersigned does hereby most respectfully offer city a party of citizens went out and killed five Mexicans, whom they caught at the five Mexicans, whom they caught at the devilish work.

The Life to Come.

What does a man take with him when from the extreme verge of life he launches into what lies beyond? It looks as if he took nothing. Be it the end, or be it a new beginning, it seems a fatal breaking off from all that life hitherto consisted in.

This is what makes it terrible. But if we look at it truly, his past life is just the thing that a man takes with him that self is the product of all his past ex- containing a limb was washed ashore, supperience and actions. His owner, an en-SEVEN FEET OF WATER-A GALE- gineer officer, asked my dear Dr. Webb if he could do anything to relieve the poor animal. The doctor said he would try the nitrate of silver, which was a remedy commonly applied to similar disease in the human eye. The large animal was ordered to lie down, and at first, on the application of the remedy, raised a most extraordingry roar at the acute pain which it occasioned. The effect, however, was wonderful. The eye was in a manner restored, and the animal could partially see. The next day when he was brought and heard the doctor's voice, he lay down of himself, placed his enormous head on one side, curled uphis trunk, drew in his breath just like a man about to endure an operation, gave a sigh of relief when it was over, and then, by trunk and gesture, evidently wished to'
