By order of the Committee,

HENRY M. HOYT, Chairman. A. WILSON NORRIS, Secretary,

The Senate of Pennsylvania, Republican, has evinced a steady desire to adjourn on the hundredth day of the session. The House, Democratic, however, opposes any such notion, though there is no business on hand that need require the extension of the session beyond that time. The fact is, however, that a large majority of the Democratic ate an act exonerating railroad and other members "feel it in their bones," that when corporations from taxation until they shall about the first of this month Timothy went
