While hunting near Nashville, Illinois, the other day, a young man shot a wild turkey, and, observing it drop near some dark-colored object, made an investigation, which resulted in the discovery of a partially decayed pair of saddle-bags, containing $35,000 in gold and bonds.

General Francis Fessenden, Republican, was elected mayor of Portland, Maine, yesterday, by 526 majority, in a total vote of 5045. Last year the city went Democratic by 420 majority. The Republicans were also successful in the municipal election at Saco, Bath, Lewiston, Rockland and Gardiner.

President Grant has appointed Hon. Richard Henry Dana, Jr., of Massachusetts, minister to the Court of St. James, vice Gen. Robert C. Schenck, resigned. Mr. Dana is one of the most distinguished lawyers of the Bay State, and his edition of Wharton's International Code is regarded as a standard.

The net income of the Girard estate last year was $365,503.29. The number of pupils in the college at the beginning of 1875 was 550. Fifty-six orphans were admitted during the year, having 148 at this time on the books waiting for admission. Fifty-five were, during the last two years, excluded from the charity by becoming ten years of age before their turn for admission was reached.

The newspapers waxed humorous two months ago over the possibility of just such an incident as we have now recorded as fact by the Blue Ridge (N. C.) Blade: "The wife of Mr. Joseph Whisenhant, of Burke county, gave birth to twins the last night of the old year—one was born ten minutes after 12 o'clock and the other ten minutes after 12. So one was born on Friday and the other on Saturday, one in 1875 and the other in 1876. Their birthday is not the same, yet they are twins. We doubt if such a thing ever occurred before in the history of the world. Another noticeable circumstance is that one was a boy and the other a girl; the boy was born in the old year and the girl in this—leap year."

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has lately put into effect a new system of running trains and collecting the tickets and fares of passengers. Sixty men have been appointed, who are known as "train agents," and whose sole duty is to collect fares and tickets of the passenger. They have nothing whatever to do with the running or stopping of the trains, which is to be attended to by the regular conductors. At the end of each trip the "train agent" is required to make a full account or statement of his results, showing exactly how much the train has earned for the road, and each of its branches when it connects with any. He is a cashier, and not a conductor. This arrangement is made in consequence of the expected large increase of travel during the Centennial.

A Finnish murder was perpetrated in James City county, on the Peninsula of Virginia, last Saturday, the victim being Henry Jones, Esq., of York county. It appears that he had two gangs of laborers cutting wood for him, and it was his custom to pay them off every Saturday. He started with a considerable sum of money on his person to pay off one party of laborers, and, not returning, the other party became impatient and went in quest of him. Upon arriving at the place Mr. Jones' body was found lying on the ground, partially covered with leaves. The head and arms had been chopped from the trunk, the hands having robbed him of all the money he had about him. An alarm was at once given and a party organized, who succeeded in capturing seven of the eight criminals, and they are now safely lodged in jail awaiting trial.

Almost immediately after Tweed's escape, Governor Tilden proclaimed semi-officially that he would remove the Sheriff and proceed against him to recover the amount of Tweed's bonds if he did not immediately reappear him. Over two months have passed, the Governor has not moved an inch on the premises, and the New York papers are beginning to demand the reason why. They will get no satisfactory answer. The man who worked so harmoniously in the political harness with Tweed, Sweeney and Conolly is not likely to put forth any explanation. Tweed will probably remain in hiding until the suits against him are settled, when he will appear upon the streets and laugh at his prosecutors. The Boss's adherents form a very considerable power in the Democracy of New York, and Tilden does not dare to offend them and alienate them from him by any special effort looking to an interference with the liberty of their old leader.

A Poland was arrested in New York city on Tuesday on the charge of cruelty to animals, his offence consisting in piling shavings and straw around a trap in which was a rat, in the street, and then setting fire to them and roasting the rat alive. The offender was held for trial.

A teacher in a Boston Sunday school was last Sunday explaining to his class of boys the meaning of "Jacob's ladder," when one of the number, more inquisitive than attentive, inquired: "If the angels had wings, what was the need of a ladder for them?" This was a poser, and while he was meditating a reply and unable to answer, another by exclaimed—"I'll bet I can tell what they used the ladder for." "Out with it, then," said the teacher. "Oh, I guess they were molting." The teacher did not dispute him: Another teacher asked a boy "Who was the first man?" "George Washington," was the reply. "What makes you think so?" "Father says he was first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." "That only means that he was the leading man in this country; but there were millions of men before this country was known. Adam was the first man." "Perhaps he was, if you count foreigners," was the reply of young America.

A Model Community.

In a lecture recently delivered in New York, Dr. Hays, who visited Iceland last summer, told many interesting things of that country and people. He said the population is 70,000, and they are admirable representatives of hardy Norse stock, from whom Anglo-Saxons had inherited so much of their brawn and pluck. The capital, which had a population of about 1,700, contained a jail. This jail was built about thirty years ago but never had an inmate with the exception of the jailor. Have they any run there?

Potato Planting.

The farmers throughout the potato raising sections of this State are in a quandary whether or not to plant any this spring. They fear the visitation of the Colorado bug in still more devastating swarms than last year. Two years ago only a few of these destructive insects were seen, last year these few had increased to a most alarming extent, and if the same rate of progression is kept up this year, they will be as bad as the plagues of Egypt. And there appears to be only too good reason to fear that these anticipations will be realized. We have been told by farmers that in digging post holes lately they have unearthed hundreds of these bugs at a depth of from two and a half to three feet. They will probably emerge in a lively and hungry condition as soon as the potato crop comes up.—Trenton, N. J., State Gazette.

Railroad Gossip.

The Pittsburgh Commercial says: "There is some talk of changing the route of the proposed new coal road between Boston and to the anthracite coal regions of this State, from Pittston, which is situated near the extreme northern end of the anthracite basin, to the Lehigh basin, directly through the heart of the middle coal fields. The Lehigh and Eastern Railway Company have already got their road under way. They will reach the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie from the Black Creek region, or middle coal field, by the construction of 130 miles; and the latter road will connect with existing roads already in operation leading to Pittsburg, or the Baltimore and Ohio road, crossing all the leading roads to Philadelphia and New York, thus making connection with the network of all the existing improvements in this State. As to the feasibility of the route, it is claimed that there will be no grade against the coal trade, so far as to the Hudson river, that will exceed thirty feet per mile; and the Lehigh and Eastern Railroad Company have a subscription sufficient to grade three-fourths of their road. The distinct purpose, however, is to open a new and nearer route from our coal fields to the East, either in one direction or the other."

Reading One Mile Away from a Light.

From the Revue Militaire d'Etanger. A new electric light, experimented upon some weeks ago on the roof of the Siemens-Halske works at Berlin, proved so successful that ordinary writing could be read by its aid at the distance of a mile. When the light was shown towards the clouds by means of a mirror a luminous train appeared thereon, which much resembled the tail of a comet, and drew together great crowds of spectators in the streets. Signals made by the instrument were also repeated upon the clouds, becoming thus visible at a very great distance. The experiments were made in the presence of a large number of officers of artillery and of other branches of the government service, and were continued for nearly two hours. The instrument, which is provided with a locomotive engine, will be set up in the Tegel artillery polygon for further experiments, the German war department having the intention of purchasing several of the machines for military use, both afloat and ashore.

A Mouse Kills Its Man.

From the Toronto Globe. An extraordinary occurrence was brought to light at an inquest held on the body of a man in South London. In a workroom where many young girls were at work a mouse suddenly made its appearance on a table, causing, of course, considerable commotion and a general stampede. The intruder was seized, however, by a young man who happened to be present, but the mouse slipped out of his hand, and, running up his sleeve, came out between his waistcoat and shirt at the neck. The unfortunate man had his mouth open, and the mouse, on the lookout for some convenient place of concealment, entered the man's mouth, and he, in his fright and surprise, swallowed it. That a mouse can exist for a considerable time without much air has long been a popular belief, and the present instance proved to be a fact in the present instance, for the mouse began to tear and bite inside the man's throat and chest, and the result was that the unfortunate fellow died, after a little time, in horrible agony. Several witnesses corroborated the above facts; and medical testimony as to the cause of death having been given, a verdict of "accidental death" was returned.

The Great Race in California.

The attendance at the Bay race track, San Francisco, last week, to witness the four mile and repeat race for the $30,000 purse was very large, being estimated at twenty thousand. The track was in fine condition and the weather fair. Rutherford was the favorite. The following horses started: Rutherford, Foster, Hook Hocking, Chance, Katie Pease, Revenue, jr., and Golden Gate. Both heats were won by Foster. Rutherford second and the rest distanced. Time—7:38½, 7:53. Foster is a nine year old horse that for some years had been used for breeding purposes. He unites two strains that have always proved fortunate for breeders, those of Lexington and Yorkshire.

How They Fixed It.

A New Yorker, while journeying the other day, was recognized by another citizen doing business near Bowery, he being also away from home on business, and after a little preliminary conversation the first remarked:

"Well, I hear that you had to make an assignment."

"Yes, dat is drew," replied the other.

"And your brother over on Chatham street; he assigned, too, didn't he?"

"You see it was just like dis," said the Bowery man, "I was owing a good deal. I makes over my stock to Jacob and Jacob makes over his stock over to me, and I do his penness and he does my penness, and dem vellers what was after money doant get some!"

Watch Found Imbedded in a Tree.

The following story is going the rounds of the papers, viz:

"A few weeks ago Jacob Klinck, a farmer, near Fox Chase, Montgomery county, was sawing down a large chestnut tree when the teeth of the saw came in contact with some metallic substances. After the tree had been felled a gold watch, two gold pencil cases and a gold chain was found imbedded in the wood, eighteen inches from the surface. They were wrapped in a soiled sack. The tree was sawn off close to the ground, and they had evidently been hidden at the junction of two roots, and the wood had grown over and enclosed them. The watch was old fashioned, having a case which could be detached and was inscribed with the date 1740. One of the pencil cases was provided with a pen. The other had only a pencil and was minus the seal. The chain was long and was intended to pass around the neck of the wearer. There was also a gold watch key which, however, did not fit the watch. The tree had attained a great age, being about six feet in diameter. An old man once stood near by, and it is supposed that the articles in question were buried during the war of the Revolution. The watch was uninjured except that the hands were rusted off. The owner has had it repaired and will exhibit it to any who are curious to see such a relic. He lives about a mile above the Fox Chase, on the county line."

WHAT FORT SILL IS.

"The Largest and 'Biggest Plum' West of Leavenworth."

An army officer who was stationed at Fort Sill for a number of years until quite recently, says it is located in the southwestern tract of the Indian Territory, about forty-five miles from the Texas border and one hundred and sixty miles from Atoka, the present terminus of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad. It was built in 1868 by General Grierson, of the Tenth United States Cavalry, and is situated in a beautiful country. The land is well timbered and watered, and nature has made it one of the fairest spots in the Southwest. The post was established for the accommodation of six companies, but at present there are twelve, ten of cavalry and two of infantry, on the ground. It is situated on a bluff two hundred feet high, overlooking Medicine Bluff Creek. It discloses the fertile plains, dotted with the tents of the soldiers and the smoke curling from the wigwams of the Indians located in large numbers but half a mile off. The fort derives its name from a romantic story told the natives. Miss Sill, a dusky damsel, becoming chagrined at the attentions paid by a stalwart brave to another local coquette in the far-distant part, made a Tarpeian rock of the bluff and ended her career. In the neighborhood of 5,000 or 3,000 Indians, mostly

A SPECIMEN SNOW-STORM.

Devastating Avalanches and Blocked Trains.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—A dispatch from Truckee says a heavy snow-storm began Thursday morning and continued till this afternoon. The snow is twelve feet deep on a level. On Thursday night a snow slide at Yuba Pass crushed the snow sheds for a hundred and fifty yards. The west bound freight train ran into the wreck, ditching the train. While clearing the wreck another slide occurred half mile behind the train, carrying away one hundred and fifty feet of shed, making it impossible to reach the train with assistance, slides meantime occurring in all directions. The men refused to endanger their lives by working in the sheds. A slide near Summit and another at Strong's canon carried away several hundred feet of sheds. This morning work was commenced at both ends of the blockade and the road is now clear. East-bound passenger trains of the 1st and 2d inst. from San Francisco have passed on. West-bound trains, due at Truckee on the 2d and 3d inst., will start this evening and will probably pass Summit without trouble. Freight trains are all abandoned. It will take several days to get things straight. Passengers are being well cared for and make the best of the situation.

Pork at $3.33 per Pound.

We doubt if any of our readers ever felt like paying the above price for pork, not even when it is manufactured into the toothsome sausage "and lever-waerst." During the past month Mr. T. S. Coopers, of Coopersburg, Lehigh county, breeder of Berkshire pigs, has sold four out of his herd, viz: "Royal Beauty," (four of whose pigs, out of one litter, were sold by Mr. Cooper to two breeders in Illinois for $1,100.) "Sweet Seventeen's Sister," "Sweet Seventeen's Niece" and "Sally the IXth." receiving therefor $1,000 each! This may seem like an extravagant price, but the sales were made to Mr. W. C. Norton, of Aldenville, Wayne county, Penna., whose knowledge of this noted breed of pigs is second to no one in this country.

Mr. Cooper made an importation last spring, and will in person make a second purchase of some of the most noted prize winning pigs in England, for which country he starts in a short time. A month or two before the opening of the stock exhibition at the Centennial he will have consigned to him by such noted Berkshire breeders in England as Capt. Arthur Stewart, Russell Swanwick, Esq., and Rev. Mr. Bailey, and by the Duke of Marlborough, Lord Chesham, and Mr. John Flemming, celebrated sheep breeders, some of their best stock, which will be herded at "Linden Grove" for several weeks previous to being exhibited. The Duke of Buccleuch, of Scotland, is also expected to send over some of his best Ayrshires—Mr. Cooper, having secured several cows and a bull from this gentleman's herd last spring.

Mr. Norton, of Aldenville, who purchased the noted pigs above mentioned, is a young man scarcely twenty-three years of age, but has already gained a fine reputation for a thorough knowledge of Berkshires and other stock. With such pigs in his herd he will take rank at once with the famous breeders of this country.—Mauch Chunk Democrat.

Bank Clerk Arrested for Embezzlement.

Joseph Wicand, for the last 12 or 15 years a clerk in the Second National Bank, was on Saturday evening last, while in attendance at the minstrel entertainment at the Opera House, taken in custody by officer Murry on a warrant charging him with embezzlement, the same having been issued by Alderman Stahler at the instance of the bank officers. He was taken to the bank and there examined, and the matter compromised. Rumor has it that the accused consented to turn over his personal effects, and that his father made himself responsible for the balance of the deficiency. To what sum his pilferings amount is not known, but we have it from pretty good authority that the overhauling of accounts up to Saturday had shown $2,700 against him.

Wicand's fall is a sad one, and should serve as a warning to others. When yet a small boy, peddling apples around town for a living Mr. Ainey, the Bank's President, took such a liking to him that he employed him as messenger. He performed his duties well, proved studious, and in time became quite an expert at figures as well as a first-class penman—making one of the best bank clerks ever seen in these parts. He in good time was advanced in position, and latterly had been acting cashier, Mr. Ainey having the most implicit confidence in his integrity—even contemplating in the event of his getting married, and settling down to quiet life, to use his effort to have him appointed cashier. Outsiders however have long had an idea that he (Wicand) was living beyond his means. He kept a fast trotter, several fancy buggies, with harness to correspond, took his morning and evening sprints in style, played billiards, and in short spent money heedlessly and lavishly until now he has been brought to a halt in his fast career in the manner as above stated.—Allentown Democrat.

25,000 young California salmon have been put in the Delaware at Easton.

The Press estimates that 271,274 Centennial visitors can be accommodated in the city and vicinity.

The other day, in Port Jervis the wind blew a lady directly into a gentleman's arms, and ever since that time, whenever Old Probabilities indicates breezy weather, the sidewalks of the town are so crowded with young women as to render them almost impassable.

Perry county is hunting up its centenarians, and has found James Crosley, of Tuscarora township, now in his 105th year, and Jacob Gutshall, aged ninety-five years, who has lived his life time near New Germantown; has been to the county seat but twice and to Harrisburg once, and has never seen a railroad.

An old physician asserts that an orange eaten every morning half an hour before breakfast will eventually destroy the desire for alcoholic drinks. He says that he has never known it to fail in effecting a cure of the most confirmed cases of inebriety. Now, who would ask for a more agreeable medicine?

Some provision dealers in Philadelphia are creating a revolution in business which is acceptable to many people these hard times. They buy the best class of cattle in Chicago, have them killed and dressed there and conveyed to Philadelphia in refrigerator cars kept just above the freezing point. The meat, which is of the first quality, is sold to consumers at prices one third less than what has been charged by the city butchers, while it is much superior to that of cattle which are brought in the cars and slaughtered here. The result is that the prices of all kinds of meat have come down about five cents per pound, which is an important consideration to the masses of the people.

The Eureka Sentinel has received a specimen from Senator Shepherd's soap mine in Elko. The substance, whatever it is, so closely resembles castile soap that when it was first handed to us, says the editor, we thought it was a chunk of that article. It apparently possesses all the qualities of ordinary soap, except that it will not raise a lather. It removes dirt from cloth and is generally used instead of soap for washing purposes by people residing in the vicinity of the mine. The ledge or deposit is situated near the south fork of the Humboldt river, about two feet in thickness in a limestone formation. Specimens have been sent East for analysis, but the truck thus far appears to have confounded the savants of Yankeedom, who don't know what to make of it, and whether it possesses an intrinsic value is as yet a matter of conjecture.

HARRISBURG, March 1.—Warrants have been issued for the execution of George W. Fletcher will be executed on April 6th, and Quigley on the 7th of that month.

Special Notice.

Every other thing being equal, the cheapness of an article is a great recommendation. It is bound to decide the purchaser. He would be foolish indeed who should pay more than he need, for an article for the simple sake of paying! In buying clothing, which is quite an item in one's personal and family expenditures, cheapness rules the day, and ought to. At Wanamaker & Brown's Oak Hall, Philadelphia, it is certain that the purchaser buys cheaply. Cheapness, with every other excellence accompanying it, is the very basis of their enormous business.
