

The Jeffersonian.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1876.

Not a howl as yet from our distinguished neighbor concerning those little pecuniary peccadillos of those distinguished Democratic candidates for the Presidency, Pendleton, Hendricks, and Thurman. Queer isn't it.

The State election in Rhode Island was held on Wednesday last. Returns from nearly the whole State for Governor give Lippitt, Rep., 8212 votes; Howard, Prohibitionist, 6227; and Beach, Dem., 3472. Lippitt will probably lack 1400 votes of an election by the people, but will be elected by the Legislature, which will be about five-sixths Republican. It is understood that the Legislature chosen will re-elect Mr. Anthony to the United States Senate for a fourth term.

That was a glorious crumb of comfort which flowed in upon our distinguished neighbor over the way from Connecticut, the other day. True the Democracy gained nothing that they did not have before and the Republicans lost nothing that they did not lose before, but then Democracy sat so in fear and trembling lest they might lose even Connecticut, that a victory from them operated with somewhat of the force of a galvanic battery upon the corpse of one recently hanged. Yes Connecticut remains in the Democratic line, and it is somewhat of a wonder that our distinguished neighbor did not hoist up his Squawking Chicken and all the rest of his exuberant paraphernalia, but the mystery is solved when we come to the finale of his article. Mr. David Wells that prince of statistical and free trade humbugs was handsomely defeated in his aspiration to bore the people with his nonsense from a Congressional chair. The result is a Democratic Governor, a Democratic majority in both houses of the Legislature which will elect a second Democratic U. S. Senator, all of which they already had, and an honest talented Republican representative to succeed Starkweather, deceased, which we had before. It was a victory expected by the Democracy and conceded by the Republicans, and therefore fails to recover Democracy from the stunning effect of the still rankling hurt inflicted in New Hampshire.

The naming of Governor Harttraft for the Presidency does not set well on the great Democratic stomach. They fear the effect likely to flow from that naming. They, in fact, do not find him so insignificant a candidate as they were at first disposed to believe him to be. His name takes well even beyond the confines of Pennsylvania, where his honest administration of the affairs of the commonwealth has made that name as familiar in civil as it was during the war in military life. They find that his nomination is not a matter of impossibility, and they know that if nominated his election is as certain as that day and night succeed each other in regular turn. Hence his neck must be broken if possible before the coming of the idea of Cincinnati, and nothing in their eyes so certain to secure this to them desirable end as vituperation and misrepresentation. If they can only make the people outside of the State believe him to be a jumping jack or a putty man in the hands of professional politicians, they believe their work will be well accomplished, and hence we hear of "Treasury rings" and "pilgrimage rings," and Don Cameron and Bob Mackey and others as custodians and manipulators of our faithful, honest governor, and as the nurses of his chances at Cincinnati. The New York Tribune, the representative of Jay Gould's few virtues and numerous vices, starts this political stink pot rolling, and then each of the Democratic satellites throughout Pennsylvania, our distinguished neighbor over the way among the rest, adopts the haunting and helps it along. Poor fools they forget how eagerly they engaged in the same disgusting work during the recent gubernatorial campaign, and how hard they labored to make the vile affair effective for Governor Harttraft's defeat then. They forget that all their vilification, and all their lying could not close the eyes of the people to John F. Harttraft's virtues, and the thunders of November last has failed to convince them of the folly of their plan of party redemption. It needs still another and more galling defeat to open their eyes to the good old Jacksonian maxim—"Truth is mighty and will prevail" and if the Convention at Cincinnati will be true to itself, true to the justice due to our noble old commonwealth and true to the glorious principles of Republicanism and to the country—by nominating General John F. Harttraft for the Presidency the people, in November next, will give such another evidence of their knowledge and appreciation of the man as will open the eyes of even Mr. Amos O'Donoghue to the fact, that when treating of an honest and honorable opponent, one who has been faithful to every trust reposed in him, intelligence in the fair, square, straight forward truth furnishes by far the best policy. We must confess that we should be happy to witness the novelty of a campaign founded and rigidly conducted on this policy by our Democratic brethren. We would particularly enjoy witnessing our distinguished neighbors manner of participating in it. It would be a sight so entirely new and unusual.

In many of the counties of Southwestern Texas, coffee production is proving so eminently successful that it bids fair to become a settled industry. The prospect is that New England ship building will be very dull this year. The best ship carpenters are now glad to work for $1.60 to $1.75 a day.

GOOD FRIDAY—to-morrow—the 14th.

STROUDSBURG has ten Doctors practising medicine.

STEPHEN HOLMES, JR., has put a new safe into his office.

THERE was good sleighing in the Allegheny Mountains during the past week.

THREE thousand loaves of bread were consumed in the Wilkes-Barre jail last month.

J. W. ANGLE, of the City Hall of Fashion, displays taste in arranging the goods in his show windows.

A sprinkling of snow on Saturday last served as the closing scene to the efforts of old Boreas on Friday.

THE local of the Scranton Times solemnly avers that striped stockings are going out. He sees them on the street.

WINTER days, missed during the proper season make their unwelcome appearance now, occasionally in the midst of spring.

QUITE a number of our citizens have broken ground for gardening, and lettuce, onions, cabbage seed are already planted.

FOUR thousand head of cattle died in Utah during the winter on account of the deep snows, which prevented their getting to the grass.

THE children between the ages of three and thirteen years who attend school in England and Wales number 5,374,301, or 22 per cent of the population.

THE D. L. & W. R. Co.'s shops at Scranton turn out forty new narrow gauge coal cars per day. Their yard is rapidly filling up with them.

THE "Guarantee" Wanamaker & Brown give is not a mere nominal thing, but a signed contract protecting those who buy at 6th and Market, Philadelphia.

FARMERS should be cautious this year in planting their potatoes. By planting early, and the early varieties, there will be a better chance of avoiding the destructive ravages of the potato bugs.

THAT fair next fall! Don't forget to agitate it and keep right on agitating. A fair, wind, is what we mean, and not a mere horse race for the encouragement of disreputable sports.

If lovely woman does occasionally pass through our streets with a hole in the heel of her stocking, it is not necessary that every gawky should stop turn around and look at it. Is it, Jamina Jane.

SIX hundred and fifty thousand volumes comprise the library established at Rome recently on the occasion of Victor Emmanuel's 59th birthday, most of which were stolen from the suppressed monasteries.

THE borough can make no better investment than in the building of several cisterns in different portions of the town for fire purposes. A fire that may accidentally occur at any time would demonstrate the truth of this proposition.

Mr. A. V. A. MILLER has removed his tontorial parlors to the building next door above the Burnett House, where he will be glad to meet his old customers, and as many new ones as may desire to have work in his line done in a really scientific and artistic manner.

SINCE the little leap year spurt, announced a few weeks ago, the matrimonial market in Stroudsburg has been unusually dull. We don't understand this. Come girls brush up. One-fourth of leap year has already passed, and remember that it only requires the passage of three-quarters more to put a quietus on your valuable prerogative.

JUST opened at the City Hall of Fashions, a complete stock of new goods, comprising ladies' and gents' furnishing goods, fancy goods, hats, caps and straw goods, at lower prices than ever offered before in Stroudsburg. Don't fail to call before purchasing elsewhere as you will miss great bargains.

J. W. ANGLE, Proprietor.

FIRE.—The dwelling house of Mr. John Locher, in Jackson township, was destroyed by fire on Thursday last. The contents of the house were nearly all saved. The property was insured in the "Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company" for $500. Mr. Locher was in Stroudsburg attending to business on the day of the fire. It is not known how the fire originated, but supposed from children playing with matches.

A SCHOOL EXHIBITION was given at Henryville by the school taught, during the past winter, by M. L. Henry. All the scholars participated and a large number of visitors were present to witness the performances. The scholars all acquitted themselves very ably, showing that they had been under a careful instructor. The Misses Emma and Lucy Frantz, of Stroud township, took part in the exhibition by playing on the Melodeon and singing. The exhibition was a great success and much credit is due to Mr. Henry and his scholars.

ENTERTAINMENT.—One of the best concerts of the season was given at Mapplewood, last Wednesday evening, before a very good audience. The entertainment commenced promptly on time with an instrument duet, La Baladino (Lysberg) by Misses Jennie Shailer and Lulu Babcock. This was well performed. Next was an overture, Le Reveil Du Lion (De Koutski), which Miss Lizzie Williams rendered in splendid style. Mrs. Hattie Harlow in the leading character did well, and with practice she will make a first-class singer. Her improvement is noticeable to all. In about three weeks Professor has promised to repeat "Cassida," in which Miss Lizzie Williams, who has been so popular, will take the leading character.

Olis B. Gordon will open a pay school in the Ann street School House, on Monday the 24th of April. Terms $1 per month.

MR. JOHN WHITE, of this borough, caught four large trout at Hull's dam, on the Pecono creek, on Tuesday last. The largest one measured 15 inches in length, 9 1/2 in circumference and weighed 1 1/2 pounds.

THE Lackawanna Iron and Coal Co., of Scranton, on Thursday last, rolled two perfect steel rails each sixty feet long and weighing over 1200. They were rolled under the supervision of Mr. Theodore G. Wolf, Superintendent of the mill, on an order of the Danforth Locomotive Works at Paterson, N. J., and are to be used at the Centennial to stand their specimen locomotives upon. These we believe are the longest steel rails ever made in this country. The same company, at their foundry managed by Mr. Andrew Cowen on Saturday succeeded in melting some twenty odd hundred of Bessemer steel in an ordinary cupola from which was successfully cast a hammer for the large steam hammer. This is the first time the melting of Bessemer has ever been successful in that way.

MUSICAL.—The Beethoven Cornet Band of Stroudsburg visited our town on Tuesday afternoon, arriving here by the down train, and leaving by the evening train. Whilst here they were the guests of mine host, Mr. M. R. Raub, who they were pleasantly entertained. Before leaving in the evening they serenaded a number of our citizens, among them Esquire Gangewer, Mr. Peter Frey and several others, who were much pleased with the honors thus conferred. The Enterprise office came in for a share of the music for which the members of the band will accept our thanks. We are sorry that we were not present to enjoy the treat but hope that the band will soon visit our town again when we will have an opportunity of hearing them. From expressions we have heard the music was much enjoyed by our citizens, and the pieces played were well rendered.—Portland Enterprise.

EXTRAORDINARY.—Mr. Joseph Dusenberry of Stroud township, showed us a chicken with four legs. The hind legs were distinctly formed but were not in a position to be of any service to the unfortunate chicken, as the hind legs seemed better adapted for traveling backwards than forwards, and in this particular strongly reminds us of the Democratic party of the present day. Last year the Democracy used their feeble hind legs, while now they seem inclined to try their fore legs. Last year they tried rag money, but finding it a bad instrument, they are now making a push the other way, that is, a part of the party is trying to use its fore legs while the other part is still trying to travel on its hind legs. But the poor chicken had too much mouth and no beak and did not live to get out of the shell, and so it is with our Democratic friends they have too much mouth and no beak and hence will never be able to break the shell of their chronic defeat.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Last Tuesday at noon as the down passenger train was approaching East Stroudsburg station, Mr. John Huffman, of Middle Smithfield, who was on his way to Stroudsburg, and was in the act of crossing the rail road track, at Burson's crossing, when the locomotive caught Mr. Huffman's wagon dashing it to pieces and fatally injuring him and his horse. The old gentleman was probably wooed to his death by following Dr. Mutchler who had just a few seconds before crossed the track, he probably having his eye on the Dr. and forgetting his danger. The point at which he met his death is a dangerous one at best, and the old gentleman being considerably deaf could not hear the noise of the approaching train nor could he hear the warning voices of Mr. Joseph Crystal's men who were working near by and vociferously shouted at him to hold up. Mr. Huffman was a very respectable citizen and had attained to the unusual age nearly 87 years, and was yet comparatively youthful in movement.

Terrific Wind Storm. On Friday last Stroudsburg and vicinity was visited by one of the severest wind storms ever experienced here. In force it amounted almost to a tornado, and continued during the day and into the early evening, exciting the fears of many and doing considerable damage to buildings, trees, fences &c. In the borough a barn belonging to William S. Wintermute standing near the bank of the mill race up town, was blown down and completely demolished. The Methodist church spire and the one on the Presbyterian church were oscillated fearfully by the wind, and at times, during the day, caused much alarm to residents in the neighborhood from fear that they would topple over and crush the buildings below them. They withstood the force of the gale, however, and are standing as firmly as the day they were erected. The Burnett House, the residence of Joseph L. Bowers and several other buildings were shaken by the wind, which caused some uneasiness to the inmates, but being substantially put together sustained no damage. The storm covered a large expanse of country and at many points in its track caused much damage and loss of property.

Governor Harttraft on Tuesday signed the death warrant of Thomas Francis Curley, convicted of murdering Mary N. Whitty on the 18th of May, 1875, in Montgomery county. The 9th of May is set apart for the execution. The murder was brutal, the assassin having brained his victim with an axe.

William S. Gray, who defrauded operators on Wall street, 1869, of the sum of $600,000, has been arrested in London, and is awaiting a requisition for extradition. Gray, since his flight from New York, has lived in Europe in grand style.

LEAP YEAR SURPRISE PARTY.—The many friends of Philip Lyons, of East Stroudsburg, made him a leap year surprise visit on Tuesday evening last, and a good time generally was had, which was kept up until a late hour, when the party broke up and returned to their respective homes highly pleased. The party was got up under the guidance of Misses Emma Erdman and Laura Posten of this place, for the special benefit of Miss Rosa Voss. The party was composed of about twenty-five couples. We were kindly remembered for which we are grateful.

DEATH OF A. T. STEWART

NEW YORK April 10.—Alexander T. Stewart died at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon of inflammation of the bowels. About a month ago Mr. Stewart took a severe cold, which resulted in inflammation of the bladder, and after three weeks of suffering he was pronounced out of danger, and soon became so far convalescent that he was able to walk about his house. Last Thursday, by imprudent exposure, he took another cold. Mr. Stewart has no near blood-relatives in this country.

A MATTER OF POPULAR INTEREST.

We condense from the Lehigh Register the substance of a conversation about Oak Hall, in Philadelphia, between the "Largest Clothing Store in America," visitor and attendant, the speakers: "Visitor: 'What corner is the Building on?' 'Attendant: 'South-East corner of Sixth and Market. Please note the SIXTH, for some strangers seeking Oak Hall, have been misled by designing persons.' 'Visitor: 'It is perfectly colossal! Do you know its dimensions?' 'A: '12,000 square feet—65 on Market, and 120 odd on Sixth, six stories high, has over three acres of floor space, and covers spaces occupied by about twenty different business places.' 'Visitor: 'Do you use steam-power?' 'A: 'A giant young engine furnishes power for the freight and passenger elevators, and the boilers steam for heating, and the other operations of the house.' 'Visitor: 'What order do you take with goods?' 'A: 'They are first inspected and arranged in the basement, on long low counters, and taken thence on the freight elevator to the inspection room on the top floor.' 'Visitor: 'Is inspecting the first operation?' 'A: 'No, sir, measuring. The goods are first measured in the piece, then inspected. The cloth passes over rollers in the face of a strong light, and two men sit, one before and one behind the goods, watching with the eye of a hawk for the least pin-hole imperfection, and marking every flaw, so that the cutter may avoid it when he comes to cut the garments.' 'Visitor: 'You must employ an army of cutters?' 'A: 'Come to our first floor, and see! We keep 20 hands all the time cutting up the cloth into garments, besides 60 machines that do a dozen men's work each.' 'Visitor: 'Do you manufacture all your own goods?' 'A: 'We do, and most carefully. Our examiners inspect every stitch and seam, and certify to every garment as extra-well made before we put our ticket on it, and become responsible for it.' 'Visitor: 'Your system must save you a great deal?' 'A: 'In every direction, sir. It is the system and economy we practice all the way through, that enables us to put our price down to the people as we do.' 'Visitor: 'After inspecting the work, what becomes of it?' 'A: 'Before it goes into stock it is ticketed. Every single garment has its number and other points noted on it, so that its entire history can be traced without fail, upon our books.' 'Visitor: 'You must have 20 or 40 salerons?' 'A: 'Why, sir, on busy days you may see 100 in the various rooms and suites of rooms, selling to the throngs of customers.' 'Visitor: 'Do you do an order business by mail and express?' 'A: 'Very great. All over the country. Our Auditor's Notice.
